Smith Meeting House Cemetery

31.

From Badger History to 1875

The most permanent burying ground is owned owned by the town near the site of the first Congregational meetinghouse. It was opened in 1776 with the burial of Lieutenant Joseph Philbrooke. About ten acres were first enclosed by a stone wall. Hundreds of the early settlers are buried there.

At the annual town meeting in 1854, Moses Peaslee, Isaac E. Smith, John K. Dudley, Ebenezer Sanborn, Ira D. Gilman, Calvin Howe and Joseph Badger were appointed to manage these grounds as a board of trustees. They hired Colonel John B. Batchelder and

1 side #25 CAR let

Captain William Badger to survey the cemetery and to enlarge it. If more trees and shrubs were about the grounds, it would be a desirable spot for a man's last resting place. But because of the many hundred town fathers sleeping there, it is quickly becoming very attractive. For several years a vast concourse of people assembled on May 30 to clean the lots and to pay homage to the dead.

My mortal form is only dead
My soul to endless life has fled

On my country let me slumber
On her alter let me die
Iam not afarid dear parents
In so good a cause to die

Dear George, we mourn thy fate
Thy life was nobley given

For from the home and friends
Thou gavest up earth for heaven

Our country mourns for hero's brave
Who have died to make her free
And oft beside their honored graves
We all shall pilgrims be We'll weep for those who have died
For union and liberty

Smith, Rev. Isaac Paster of the Congrational church and the Society of Gilmanton. d. Mar. 25, 1817, age 72 and in the 43rd year of his ministry.

He was a native of Stirling, Conn. was educated at Princeton College, N.J. and was ordained as a minister over the people in Gilmanton soon after its first settlement. As a husband and parent, he was affectionate, he held strictly to the doctrines of grace.

Was indefatigable in his exertions to promote the spiritual intrest of his people, was a solemn and searching preacher and exemplified the truths of the gospel, in his life and death.

Life Speeds Away

From point to point: tho seeming to stand still

The cunning fugitive is swift by stealth;
Too subtle is the movements to be seen;
Yet soon man's hour is up and we are gone

The church in Gilmanton erect this monument as a memorial of their respect and affection to their beloved pastor.
