BRAINTREE, May 28.—Mrs Margaret Whiting, who is 76 years old, was badly beaten about 5:30 this morning by a man she thought was insane, at her lonely home on Liberty st, between East and South Braintree and about a mile from either village.

Mrs Whiting is partly deaf. She was awakened this morning, she says, by the sound of violent knocking at her front door. When she got there she found a man on his knees outside. He was about 40 years old, bareheaded and bald. He was saying something which she didn't understand, and when he discovered that Mrs Whiting didn't hear him he began to scribble on a piece of paper.

She thought he was asking for a hat, he having none. There was a hat upstairs in her house, which belonged to one of Mrs Whiting's sons, who formerly lived there. She motioned the man to go upstairs and get it. He went up, but came down again without the hat. When he reached Mrs Whiting again he grabbed her and beat her badly. He then ran out and down Liberty st toward South Braintree.

Across a field S. F. Hawes was at work, and saw the man running. Then he saw Mrs Whiting come out of her house and start over toward his own

GILMANTON IRON WORKS BURNS

Main Part of Village Is Destroyed.

Loss Is Heavy---Conflagration Spreads to Forests.

Church, Mill, Seven Stores and 27 Dwellings Gone.

GILMANTON IRON WORKS, N. H., May 28.—At 2:40 this morning fire broke out in an unoccupied barn owned by O. W. Price of this village. One of the worst windstorms ever known in this vicinity was raging at the time, and sparks from the burning barn quickly communicated the flames to adjoining buildings. In a short time, despite violent and heroic work of the entire population, 15 buildings were ablaze, and in a short time from the start of the fire practically the entire village had been razed to the ground.

Help was requested by the villagers of Pittsfield, Alton, Belmont and surrounding hamlets. Milo Pike, a contractor of Laconia, who was constructing a large lot of concrete roadway for the town, did great service with his crew of men in saving the wooden bridge at the lower end of the village, thereby making assistance from outlying towns possible.

The rapidity with which the flames spread in the case of wind rendered it impossible for personal property to be saved. It was estimated that the loss on the buildings and their contents will exceed $75,000, only a part being covered by insurance. This village, yesterday prosperous, neat and peaceful, located in one of the most beautiful spots in New Hampshire and marked in the history of the State by many chapters of interest, now is a mass of black ruins

Statement Made by One of Nebraskan's Officers.

LIVERPOOL, May 28.—While none of the crew of the American steamer Nebraska, disabled Tuesday night by an explosion off the coast of Ireland, saw a submarine, the chief engineer believes he saw the wake of a torpedo on the starboard side, according to Capt Greene of the steamer.

The captain, in reply to questions, stated that there is a hole about 20 feet square in the forecastle, below the water line, large enough to admit an American freight car.

"We were in the boats about an hour," he said. "The ship seemed to be settling by the head and we decided to stay close by until help, which we had summoned by wireless, arrived. While none of us saw a submarine, the chief engineer believes he saw the wake of a torpedo on the starboard side. The effect of the shock of the torpedo striking the ship was to stop her suddenly. There was a perceptible interval between the shock and the explosion."

"We started to return to Liverpool about 10:30 the same night, traveling eight knots an hour. The vessel was 12 feet lower down by the head than normal, owing to the water in the hold."

"The damage to the vessel's upper structure was severe. Great derricks were torn up and flung across the deck, smashing the rail on one side; strong steel girders forming part of a hatch were blown out and some went overboard, and in the deck flooring near the hatch two large holes were made, revealing the naked steel girders. Two which were cut through cleanly."

The bulk of the cargo, which consisted of two quartermasters, all of whom were injured, are a mass of wreckage, and the men, wondering how they escaped more serious injury. All the furniture and woodwork in the room were broken into fragments. The boat-swain suffered injuries on his head, arms and legs. Both quartermasters were badly bruised.

The American Consul and representatives of the American Embassy boarded the ship from the tender yesterday afternoon, meeting the steamer off the bar and coming with her to the dock. The members of the crew of the Nebraska admit that no submarine was actually sighted, but nevertheless they are convinced that she was struck by a torpedo. They do not believe a mine was hit by a pitched ball. One factor in their conviction is that they felt

PASSES TAKEN BY ITALIANS

Advance Is Continued Into Carinthia.

Fourteen Villages Taken by King Victor's Troops.

Hydro-Aeroplanes Make a Raid on Austria.

GENEVA, via Paris, May 28.—The Italians are continuing their advance into Carinthia.

They have taken three of the lower mountain passes and 14 villages.

Italian forces, supported by gunboats on Lake Garda, have captured several hills to the north of Mt Baldo. Their aim is to flank the Austrian fortifications at the mouth of the Adige River, and also to advance to Mori.

Two Austrian aeroplanes attempted to bombard the Italian gunboats on the lake, but they were driven off.

The new 75-millimeter Italian guns, said to be an improvement on the French model, are reported here to have been used with conspicuous success. At a point in Carinthia they are said to have silenced an Austrian battery served by Bavarians.

Head Bavarians at Bay.

Another incident of the fighting in the high mountains is the case of an Italian lieutenant who, with 85 men in a passage of the Agno Valley, held at bay for one hour a company and a half of Bavarians armed with Maxims. Italian artillery finally arrived and scattered the Bavarians. The lieu-

BERLIN, via London, May 28.—A reverse at the hands of the Russians in the fighting along the River San, in Central Galicia, is announced in today's statement from the War Office.

It is said the Germans in the region of Sienlawa, on the left bank of the river, were forced back and lost six cannon. The German positions, according to this announcement, were not defended by strong forces.
