Photographer Elizabeth Frantz, with Reuters New Agency, was there last night as about 90 people gathered on the green in our small town, Gilmanon, New Hampshire, to voice solidarity with Black Lives Matter. The evening culminated with a "die-in" lasting for 8 minutes and 46 seconds. Please share.

Look for spirited commentary on the Gilmanon Facebook page.

Thank you to all the folks who organized the Black Lives Matter vigil tonight, helped out, spoke, and attended. It was lovely and thought provoking. We are all connected and must look out for each other.

Kathy Nolin Sorry that I missed it. I just moved to town and was happy to see the support for BLM.

Agnes Gazaway Welcome to Gilmanton, Kathy Nolin.

Agnes Gazaway thank you 😊

Ruth Larson It was a wonderful event, inspiring, peaceful, and even a little/it hopeful.

Cyndi Peabody Paulin A very well done event. Appreciate being able to attend a peaceful event in our own little town.

Rachel Lehar hello, i moved to town in september 🙌 please keep me posted for when the next one will be ❤️

So as I was about to post a response to the post that was just removed. It was deleted so i will for the first time an probably last time ever share anythin like this

Jon Jolin

I hate to comment an that bein said don't come lite but I will, I have a very diverse background an am not afraid to share for those that want to know, I come from the south, I grew up there, it's my home. I have a very diverse family not only to include color but the simple fact that I'm from Dixie, but I was born in New Hampshire my folks were white an my step mom was black. So with that said, let's move forward, black folks for a longtime have had a very long row to hoe but they have! I have a beautiful friend that is black an I'm not sure if she is family or a friend but I have been to church an kneeled in front of god with her, she slapped my wrist when I was wrong an bought me baby... Posting...

Mike Langley Love it ❤️

Jon Jolin I wish I could, as soon as I took the screenshot it was gone.

Joe Desrochers They removed mine as well

Joe Desrochers All I said is all live should matter and racism is being spread thru blm and i dont like the message it sends, i dont agree with what it is teaching my kids, I want them to look at and treat everyone equal, and they removed it

BLM?

Just curious, did anyone watch the video from Atlanta? I am sure u will take this post down because it is not politically correct but here I go.

The man was passed out drunk in the drive thru, body cam video shows respectful police officers preform a dui check, try to arrest him for dui,

The "victim" then fights 2, I repeat 2 trained officers to the ground and steals a weapon off of one.

Now I ask, in the heat of this assualt on police, and in todays world where only black lives matter, not white, not brown, especially not blue, how are any of the to know what weapons he grabbed and what this peaceful citizen is going to do with them, dont forget he just fought TWO officers to the ground.

PLEASE FOR THE LOVE OF GOD, WHY ARE WE MAKING THIS MAN A VICTIM???

IF HE WAS WHITE OR BROWN, WOULD HE STILL BE A VICTIM OR AN IDIOT.

What are we teaching our kids?

All lives matter, Respect our Police force, and if you screw up there will be a price to pay, either the the law or god.

I am not prejudice, I believe everyones life is important.

I also believe that the law is there for a reason and the media is destroying our country and our laws.

Please do not remove, I have said nothing offensive, this sight is here to voice opinions respectfully.

Curious whoelse feels that enough is enough of making criminals into victims.

Joe Desrochers Read for yourself no hatred , no pushing my beliefs, just how I feel, no one has to sgree, but why remove that and leave blm pictures infront of our town hall?

Was some what of a heated discussion the past few days, and with that I offer this as to who I am and how I believe. Might not be for every body and I accept that. What I will do is apologize for the heat of the discussion. I read this long, long ago and it always straightens me out and puts me back onto the right path. Stay cool Gilmantron!!

"Long road winding began in the stars, spilled onto the mountain tops,
was carried in the snow to the streams,
to the rivers, to the ocean!
It covers Canada, Alaska, America, Mexico to Guatemala,
and keeps winding around the indigenous.

The Red Road is a circle of people standing hand in hand,
people in this world, people between people in the Spirit world.
star people, animal people, stone people,
river people, tree people!
The Sacred Hoop.
To walk the Red Road
is to know sacrifice, suffering.
It is to understand humility.
It is the ability to stand naked before Great spirit in all things for your wrong doings
for your lack of strength,
for your un-compassionate way,
for your arrogance - because to walk the Red Road, you always know you can do better. And you know, when you do good things,
it is through the Creator, and you are grateful.
To walk the Red Road
is to know you stand on equal ground with all living things. It is to know that because you were born human,
it gives you superiority over nothing.
It is to know that every creation carries a Spirit,
and the river knows more than you do,
the mountains know more than you do,
the stone people know more than you do,
the trees know more than you do,
the wind is wiser than you are,
and animal people carry wisdom.
You can learn from every one of them,
because they have something you don't:
They are void of evil thoughts.
They wish vengeance on no one, they seek Justice.
To Walk the Red Road,
you have the Great spirits given rights,
you have the right to pray,
you have the right to dance,
you have the right to think,
you have the right to protect,
you have the right to know Mother,
you have the right to dream,
you have the right to vision, you have the right to teach,
you have the right to learn,
you have a right to grieve,
you have a right to happiness,
you have the right to fix the wrongs,
you have the right to truth,
you have a right to the Spirit World.
To Walk the Red Road

is to know your Ancestors,
to call to them for assistance!
It is to know that there is good medicine,
and there is bad medicine!
It is to know that Evil exists,
but is cowardly as it is often in disguise.
It is to know there are evil spirits who are in constant watch for a way to gain strength for themselves at the expense of you.
To Walk the Red Road,
you have less fear of being wrong,
because you know that life is a journey,
a continuous circle, a sacred hoop.
Mistakes will be made,
and mistakes can be corrected -
if you will be humble,
for if you cannot be humble,
you will never know
when you have made a mistake.
If you walk the Red Road,
you know that every sorrow leads to a better understanding, every horror cannot be explained,
but can offer growth.
To Walk the Red Road
is to look for beauty in all things.
To Walk the Red Road
is to know you will one day cross to the Spirit World, and you will not be afraid!" Author unknown
