PREFACE

Read 1st - 1904 57
This work owes its existence to the fact that the gradually failing eyesight of the compiler resulted in total blindness before 1894. Compelled to relinquish his business and unable to end an active life in idleness, he commenced it and for more than ten years gave his time and money to this compilation of the genealogy of his name.

The work he undertook would have been more than usually difficult for a skilled genealogist. The name Hill is among the most common of English surnames. Relatively the name Hills is so uncommon, that those born to it in our own time are perhaps more often spoken of or addressed by other than their relatives and intimate friends, as if their name ended with double "l," instead of the distinctive "s" that forms a part of it.

The distinction between these names in the olden times and to a comparatively recent date, was but little observed by the scribes who drew the wills, deeds and other documents destined to go upon public record. Cases have been noted where in the same instrument the name in one part was written Hill, in another Hills. An instance of this want of exactness can be found in appendix C at the end of this work. The signatures to such documents as required them, determined the surname, except where the signer, following the scribe, or by legal authority, or as a matter of choice dropped the final "s". Much labor has been given to the restoration to their family line, of those who were descendants of the emigrants whose names are borne upon the title page. The proof that satisfied both the compiler and the editor in the three most important cases, where those now living and known as Hill have been determined to be descendants of either the emigrants of 1632 or 1638 can be found in appendixes C, D, and E. Blessed with a tenacious memory, the compiler was able to so arrange the results of his investigations that not in a single instance did the editor find confusion in his lines.

But of necessity his work was by dictation and his correspondence was handled by secretaries who recorded his conclusions. It was evident to the editor, both by his statement and the finding of letters and reports of trifling value, that it was the compiler's intention to preserve every paper relating to his work that came into his possession; but it was equally evident that some of his assistants considered their duty done, when the information of an original paper was transferred to his printed blanks. The sheets from which the printers' copy was written have been compared by the editor with original returns when they could be found and verified where verification was possible with published works. In a comparatively few cases the record went to press with no other authority than a secretary's copy of written or printed matter not accessible to the editor.

INTRODUCTION

ORIGIN OF THE NAME—COMMON ANCESTOR—COAT ARMOR—BRANCHES.

All authorities agree that surnames were not in use before about the year 1000. Camden, probably the earliest writer on this subject, whose "Remains concerning Britaine" was published in 1623, states that they "began to be taken up in France about the year 1000 and in England about the time of the Conquest [1066] or a very little before; under King Edward the Confessor" whose reign began in 1042. "But" he adds "in England certain it is, that as the better sort even from the conquest by little and little took surnames, so they were not settled among the common people fully until about the time of King Edward the second," the first Prince of Wales, who became King of England in 1307. It must be considered as well settled that among the ancestors of the English race surnames that became family names came gradually into use.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME.

As hamlets and towns began to concentrate the population of the island, the residents of a village where there were several persons of the same name were compelled, when speaking of them, to use more than the single word which answered for their designation in the families to which they belonged. They spoke of John the Scott when referring to the immigrant from north of the Tweed; John the smith or John the carter when they desired to designate either the worker in iron or the teamster. As it was a natural and easily understood description of a person to refer to him by the locality of his dwelling, surnames derived from location are common, and in a fairly populous neighborhood, Richard who lived by the lake, Henry of the wood, Rufus of the lea, William of the King's lea, and Thomas of the hill came in time to be known by their given names, followed only by the principal word of the designating addition; and John Scott, Richard Blake, William Kingslee, Thomas Hill and numerous other English surnames became the accepted designation of the families descended from those to whose given names such additions were originally applied. This easily comprehended explanation of the genesis of local names may be accepted as to the origin of the distinctive appellation of the many families of English descent with the surname Hill, but it does not satisfactorily account for the name in the plural—Hills. In a broken country where the elevations cluster in the form of mountains, it is both natural and fitting to speak of "the hills" in some such form as used when speaking of "the white hills" of New England. But old England is of gently undulating surface. An inhabitant might properly in the early days, from his residence on some slight eminence in any part of England, have been designated as William of the Hill, but nowhere in the island where our language (or those tongues from which it was derived) was spoken, could he with propriety have been called William of the Hills. Edward Hasted, one of the historians of Kent, whose large and valuable work was published in 1778, gives an origin of the name which accounts for its being localized in the Middle Ages, and furnishes a reason for the fact that it is still common in that county and those of its immediate vicinity, when it is rarely found in other parts of England. "About a mile southeastward from Darant church is the hamlet of Helles Saint Margaret, commonly called Saint Margaret Hills. . . . This manor afterwards came into the possession of a family called Hells, who had much land at Dartford and at Ash, near Sandwich, and from them this place acquired the additional name of Hells, or more vulgarly Hilles. One of these Thomas de Helles had a charter of free warren granted to him and his heirs for his lands here and at Dartford, in the seventeenth year of King Edward the First. One of his descendants, Richard Hills, for so the name was then spelt, about the beginning of King Henry the Seventh's reign, was possessed of this manor of Saint Margaret Hilles. He left one sole daughter and heir, Anne, who carried it in marriage to Henry Melbard, and he left issue two daughters and co-heirs, Alice and Joane, who divided it between them." In "The General History of Kent" a preface to his main work, Hasted states that "Gilbert de Hells, of Hells Court, in Ash, and of Saint Margaret Hells in Darant, was sheriff in the thirtieth year of Edward third who began his reign in 1326. He was a son of Bertram de Hells, Lieutenant of Dover Castle, under Reginald de Cobham." On this statement of Hasted and on those found in other parts of his work, it is evident, that while Bertram and Gilbert de Hells carried the name in that form, that another of the family, Henry de Helles, who was summoned to Parliament as one of the Knights of Kent, in the fourth and sixth years of the reign of King Edward the Third, retained it as it was written in the Charter. Here then we find the evidence that in about two hundred years, in the same family, while its members were of the same parish and the same manor, the family name changed at least twice; that the name written Helles in King Edward's Charter in 1289, became Hells about 1300; was so continued by the second of the family that we know to have carried the abbreviated surname in 1336; and settled into the form in which it is now used, as early as 1490; when the last male heir of the race, who was possessed of the manor that had been the home, and had remained in the name of the family for two hundred years, lived at "Saint Margaret Hills" with the "one sole daughter" through whom the estate passed into another name. The reasonable belief that Hasted has localized the family whose descendants have been known as Hills or Hillis has been strengthened by the researches in England of the agent of the Hills Family Genealogical and Historical Association, and by investigations of members of that organization. In efforts to trace the pedigrees of the English emigrants to New England, William Hills of 1632, Joseph Hills of 1638 and the sons of John of Ashford in Kent, five of whom came to New England, the earliest in 1794, the latest in 1805, Mr. Lothrop Withington, in a search that began in October 1896 and was practically continuous among the records and parish registers of England for about six months, and which as opportunity afforded has been extended to the date of this publication, has in several reports of his progress noted connections of the name with Kentish branches, and expressed the opinion that all the lines tend toward that shire and that within its limits the name originated. An inspection by the editor of this work of a London Post Office Directory of Kent and adjoining counties indicated that the name was much more common in Kent than in its vicinity. The publishers of the directory divided the enrolled population into two classes, the gentry and the traders, and gave of the name of Hills nine of the former and sixty-two of the latter class as residents of Kent, with its population of 848,294, while of that name but one of the first, and nine of the second class are recorded as inhabitants of the adjoining county of Surrey, although its population at the same date exceeded that of Kent by more than twenty-five per cent. Similar results followed a partial analysis of neighboring counties. Pursuing still further his investigations in this line he found a comprehensive work that localizes the name beyond all question in southeastern England. In his "Homes of Family Names in Great Britain" published in London in 1890, Mr. Henry Brougham Guppy has taken the farmers of the land as the "most stay at home class" and has noted their names as given in the directories of the various shires, classifying them where he found that they exceeded seven in ten thousand. His classification was into six divisions.

First—General names occurring in from thirty to forty counties.

Second—Common names occurring in from twenty to twenty-nine counties.

Third—Regional names occurring in from ten to nineteen counties.

Fourth—District names occurring in from four to nine counties.

Fifth—County names which are established in two or three counties and have usually their principal home in one of them.

Sixth—Peculiar names, which are mostly confined to one county and generally to a particular parish or division of that county.

In neither the first or third of these classifications did the name of Hill or Hills appear. In the second division the name Hill is included with the statement that it is "pretty generally distributed over England, except in the counties north of Yorkshire and Lancashire. Relatively scarce in southeastern counties where its place is taken by Hills." More than seven farmers of the name of Hills in ten thousand of that occupation were located in five counties. Their shires are placed in the fourth division in the proportion of twenty-one yeomen to ten thousand of this class in Kent, eighteen in Sussex, eighteen in Suffolk, seventeen in Hants [Hampshire] and twelve in Surrey. Suffolk, less than thirty-five miles north of Kent, is separated from it by the County of Essex, and the author quoted, notes against the name of Hills in Suffolk that "though characteristic of the county is more numerous elsewhere." Surrey and Sussex lie west of and adjoin Kent; Hants lies west of and adjoins those two shires, the four counties making the southeasterly corner of England. The most distant boundary of either of the five counties mentioned by Mr. Guppy in his localization of the name is less than one hundred miles from Saint Margaret Hills where it is believed that the name originated and in the vicinity of which all investigations indicate that it has remained relatively more numerous than in any other part of southeast England. In one of his reports Mr. Withington says: "I have, I think, conclusively shown that though confused in individual instances by careless scribes or illiterate branches, the name Hills is a distinct one, separated from Hill and traceable always, where far enough sought to the County of Kent, in which shire it has always been, as it still is a prominent one."

COMMON ANCESTOR.

In this connection the work of the expert genealogist assists not only the theory of the Kentish origin of the name but also that of the descent of the English emigrants to New England from a common progenitor. The reasoning that might justify the belief of a common ancestry rests upon certain facts and coincidences, which, taken by themselves are but clews or indications, and although collectively they prove nothing, they so support one another, that one who studies them finds himself almost irresistibly drawn to the conclusion that there is room for no other theory. Perhaps some of the strongest of these indications that are so connected that they can be woven into a web, have for a foundation a communication from Mr. Withington in which he gave the evidence of what he considers the offshoot of the lines of William and Joseph the emigrants of 1632 and 1638 from Kent to Essex. With reference to book and page of the probate record, he states his belief that he has "at last got hold of the Kentish connection of the Hilles in Essex." He then gives an abstract of the will of "John Hillys of Aldington, Kent, Parker," (Keeper of the Park of Aldington) dated April 28, 1505, proved at Canterbury two months later. Condensing this abstract, the substance of it is as follows: To his brother Christopher he gives a money legacy, a "gelding" and one of his "gunnes." His brother Oliver receives money and his "best gown and doublet," and his brother Edward is to have his "gray ambling nagge" and his "bow and arrows." The testator adds, "I will Christopher my brother shall sing and say masses for my soule and all Christian soules, by the space of half a yeaire, and to have therefore five marks sterleng."

His wife Johan and brothers Christopher and Oliver were made executors of the will, "John Orond parson of Norton, brother Edward and William Weston" to be overseers. In regard to compensation for services, he provided in part in these words, "my brother the parson and my brother Weston, to be rewarded by my wife."

The reasoning of the genealogist as to the Kentish-Essex connection is evidently founded on his knowledge that the brother Edward referred to in the will of 1505 died in 1518 at Ingatestone, Essex, only three miles from Great Burstead, mentioning in his will his brother Christopher, the priest;—and the fact that, although he did not find the birth or baptismal record of William, the emigrant of 1632, at High Ongar, the birth place of his wife, Phillis Lyman, he "did find that a hitherto undiscovered Weston Hills had more progeny than any other Hills there."

This interesting will certainly proves that the testator had a brother, styled "gentleman" in probate proceedings, who was settled in Ingatestone nearly a century before Joseph Hills, the emigrant of 1638, was born in the adjoining parish of Great Burstead. It is also known by entries made in the old manuscript book of original entries in relation to business transactions now held by the New England Historical and Genealogical Society that Joseph had relatives living in Ingatestone in the year in which he emigrated to New England.

The unusual name of Weston prefixed to our surname justifies the supposition that "brother Weston" was a brother-in-law of John of Aldington, and that some of the family into which he married had named a child for him, and that Weston Hills, of High Ongar, and Edward Hills, of Ingatestone, had a common Kentish progenitor.

The natural inference follows that as William Hills is probably of the branch of the family that settled in the vicinity of the first named parish, and Joseph Hills of that branch that located in the neighborhood of that other Essex parish in Billericay, that the emigrants of 1632 and 1638 were each descendants of a common ancestor in a progenitor of John Hillys of Aldington.

Other indications, equally interesting and suggestive, supplied by ancient English records could be given. But taken singly or together the evidence will only justify the statement that all who carry by right the name of Hills or Hillis are probably the descendants of a common ancestor. The difficulty of tracing English pedigrees into the distant past is so great, that it will be a matter of surprise as well as of congratulation if the ancestors who transmitted the name of Hills to the emigrants of New England and their descendants are discovered.

When it is remembered that our language had no settled orthography for a long time after the settlement of New England, and that any arrangement of letters that expressed the sound of any word was permissible, it is not strange that ancient records have disclosed many different spellings of our name. Alphabetically arranged the following list appears: Halis, Hallis, Halys, Thomas de Helles [6 Edward III.], John de Helles [8 Edward III.], Richard de Helles of Wye [47 Edward III.], Hell [1426], Hells [1595], Helle [12 Edward III.], Hellys [12 Edward III.], Hils, Hiles, Hilles, Hillis, Hillys [15 Henry VIII.], Hills, Hillz, Hulles, Hyles, Hyelys, Hyllas, Hylles, Hylls, Hyllis, Hyllse, Hyllz.

The combination of letters that look so strange gradually disappeared in the later records, until in our day the name seldom appears in any other form than Hills or Hillis. That the spelling of the name that would be most generally repudiated by members of our family, that of the testator of 1426, was that of one known as Hills, is evidenced by the act of the clerk who recorded his will, and corrected his too great abbreviation by inserting in the margin of the record what he deemed the proper combination to express the name by which the decedent was known in life; "Hyelys" was his idea of a good form. In a recent Boston directory the editor found the names of 476 persons of the surname Hill, 33 named Hills and 7 when the spelling was Hillis. He found in the New York directory of the same year about 300 designated Hill, 40 Hills, 7 Hillis, 2 Hilles, and one each with a spelling Hellis, Hillas, Hilles and Hilleis.

COAT ARMOR.

Looking through the works in which the arms of the nobility and gentry of the United Kingdom are of record, it was found that Burke in the London edition of 1844 of his "General Armory" had noted 78 families entitled to bear arms in connection with the name of Hill; while only 4 carrying the name of Hills and 1 Hillis were so designated. Three of the four grants to the name in the form in which it is usually carried are localized as might be expected in southeastern England. In his edition of 1878 "Sir Bernard Burke, C. B., LL. D., Ulster King of Arms," failed to give the arms granted to John Hills of Loudon in 1586; but the name is still credited with four armigers, the coat armor of the "Right Rev. George Hills, Bishop of British Columbia 1859" being added to his blazonings. That some of the names were of the gentry as early as the sixteenth century is manifest by the publication of the Harleian Society recording the Herald's visitation of London in 1568, which gives this record: "Richard Hills alias Hulles of Milton in the county of Kent, and wife Elizabeth, daughter of . . . Bede; had Richard Hills, Gentleman, Citizen and Merchant Taylor of Loudon, who married Agnes, daughter of Xtopher Lacy of Yorkshire, Gentleman, and they had 1 John, 2 Gershom, 3 Barnabus 4 Daniel." The "Richard Hills, Gentleman," [1514-1587] mentioned in the record, was the Master of the Guild of Merchant Tailors of London, for 1561 and 1562; founder not only of a free school still in existence in that city, but also of an almshouse for poor widows; one of the most notable men of our name. "The early History of the Guild of Merchant Tailors" of London, published in 1888, in its second volume, devotes six chapters and a part of another to his life.

It was probably to his son John (at one time a member of the guild, afterwards a merchant of London who was living in 1633, when he had children and grandchildren) that a grant of arms was made dated March 15th, 1586.

It is perhaps worthy of note in this connection, that a copy of these arms "Sable, a chevron, or, between three cats passant, argent," for so many years that none now living can tell for how many, was kept at the farm in Newbury, where Joseph Hills' last days were spent, and which after his death became the property of his son Samuel. One of his descendants whose birth and girlhood was near that spot, in a letter to the President of this Association, dated March 5, 1895, referring to the old homestead and its contents, said "The old farm . . . descended by will to the oldest son until my father's brother came into possession. He had but one child, a daughter . . . she sold the farm after she became a widow. All the old family papers belonged to her and she gave me the Joseph Hills Coat-of-Arms, three leopards on a shield."

To Hills of Chelsea, County Middlesex and Isle of Sheppey, County Kent, was granted in 1784, arms showing three silver hillocks on a green shield. It is clear that no one connected with either of the three branches of the name which are known in America can claim any title to the shield of 1784. Equally clear that the descendants of William of Roxbury and Hartford, the emigrant of 1632, or of Joseph of Malden and Newbury, the emigrant of 1638, have no interest in the grant of 1586, and that the only possibility that those who claim Robert of Wye in Kent, who was born about 1650, as their ancestor can rightly display the sable shield and its embellishments is that he was a grandson of the London merchant to whom it was granted, a possibility so remote as not to be worthy a second thought. The editor of this work has not been able to discover at what date, to one of the name of Hills was granted arms displaying on a horizontal band of sable, in the middle of a shield of ermine, a castle with two turrets in the natural color of stone; the castle being duplicated for crest; and in connection with Americans of that name, only knows that a copy of these arms was long in the possession of a branch of the descendants of the emigrant of 1632, but without knowledge by those now living of its origin. The history of the shield so far as it is known would seem to confine it to Essex, in which county the emigrant of 1638 and the wife of the emigrant of 1632 were born and from which it is certain that one, and probably both, emigrants left Old for New England.

This shield, "Hills : (late Astell of Colne Park, Co. Essex), ermine on a fess, sable, a tower with two turrets, proper. Crest, a tower, as in the arms," is to-day carried by a family who by the consent of the proper English authorities can trace its right to it only from 1790. Colne Park in Essex was, about the beginning of the eighteenth century, the property of Sir Thomas Gage, who sold it to Mr. Michael Hills of Colchester, and his son bequeathed it to Philip Astell, Esq., who took the surname and arms of Hills. Only a description is given without localization of the arms of Hillis, "Per Pale, or and Gules, a lion passant argent."

But one Hills shield, with crest, is disclosed by the various compilations in relation to heraldry which may have been mon progenitor of all of is "Hills: argent, a chief of courant, gules. In the head, sable." This tition with the name of ignation in "Fairbairn's Families of Great Brit-work edited by Mr. Ar-Changing the language ordinary use, the de-cross, on a silver shield, crescents, the upper third of the escutcheon being of the same color as the cross and crescents. Crest, a red horse, running with a black, broken spear head in his mouth.

Such study as the editor had been able to give to the family name as connected by published works with heraldry, long since satisfied him that the shield of the cross and crescents not only antedated all other coat armor borne by any of his surname, but was probably of such ancient date as to have been carried by the family that occupied the manor of Saint Margaret Hills, at least until about the end of the fifteenth century, when that estate passed to those of another name.

The College of Arms, commonly called the Heralds' College, was established in 1483, and for the purpose of ascertaining if that coat armor was of record after that date, with the concurrence of his associate of the committee for publication of this work, the editor caused "a general search" to be made among its archives. That investigation began in the July of the past summer. An index of findings was received in August, and on the thirtieth of that month funds were forwarded for copies of such records as the table of references indicated as of value. Unfortunately, the officer in charge of the work was obliged to undergo a serious operation.

A letter dated Nov. 9, 1904, written by the Herald to the gentleman in London who represents the committee in the investigation, has been forwarded to the editor. After giving the cause of delay, that officer stated that he was not at that date out of the nurse's hands and thought he could not be at the college before Christmas. At the present writing [Feb. 6, 1905] the earlier sheets of this genealogy must go to the printer and the result of the investigation will be incorporated in the first appendix of this volume.

BRANCHES.

In a research that has been practically continuous for more than ten years, the authors of this work have found none carrying the name who could trace their lineage to emigrants from England who crossed the Atlantic before the beginning of the nineteenth century, who were not descendants either of William of Roxbury and Hartford, the emigrant of 1632; Joseph of Malden and Newbury, the emigrant of 1638; or the sons of John of Ashford in the County of Kent (grandson of Robert of Wye) the first of whom came to New England in 1794.

All these emigrants landed at Boston in Massachusetts. With rare exceptions, it can be said that all of those carrying the surname Hills among the English speaking people of America even in the opening years of the twentieth century, are through them of Old and New England origin. There was a John Hills in Boston in June, 1686, where and when his daughter Susanna was born; but he died November 21, 1690 at the early age of twenty-six, leaving no son.

A gentleman long resident in Boston was known as Deacon Hill of the New South Church. The inscription on his tomb in the Granary burying ground reads "Here lies buried the body of Deacon Henry Hill. Died July 8th, 1726, aged 70 years. This tomb was erected by his sons John and Thomas Hill." A third son, Ebenezer the youngest of the family was born in 1705. He left two daughters, Mary and Anna, both married; one in 1713 the other in 1714. When Henry Hill made his will on the 8th of May, 1726, after these children, he mentions his kinswoman, Anne Watts "daughter of Thomas Watts, and Dennis his wife, my sister" living at a place called Margate in the Isle of Thanet, Kent; and the link that connects the testator with his English progenitors is found in a publication of marriage licences issued from Canterbury in Kent, by the ecclesiastical authorities of the Cathedral City. In the third of the series, page 496, this record appears: "Watts, Thomas, of St. John in Thanet, seaman, twenty-three and upwards, whose parents are dead, and Dennis Hills of St. Peter in Thanet, spinster, nineteen, daughter of Henry Hills, who consents, William Watts of St. John aforesaid, seaman, bonds. January 24, 1671." Here seems to be conclusive proof that in old England, less than sixty miles from the spot where the Hills name originated, the father of the decedent of 1726 was living in 1671, and that it was as his niece, that he recognized Anne Watts, his sister's daughter, as his kinswoman, and mentioned her in his will, the signature to which reads Henry Hill.

A John Hills, who was of Connecticut, was granted fifty acres of land for services in the Pequot war. No record of his marriage, death or of the conveyance by that name of that land or any part of it has been found. The Pequot fort was destroyed May 26, 1637. To have been a soldier at that date this grantee must have been born not later than 1620. He could not have been the son of the emigrant William of Roxbury and Hartford, for he was evidently unmarried when he landed in New England in 1632 and his eldest known child was not born till about 1646. John, the son of the emigrant who settled in Massachusetts, was not born till 1632 and did not leave old England till 1638. While it is not impossible that a John Hills from England was among the earliest settlers of Connecticut and escaped definite record, all the probabilities point to a clerical error in the name, and that for once a recording officer wrote Hills for Hill, when many of his class from the earliest settlement of the country to the present time have often written Hill for Hills.

I

GENEALOGY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM HILLS OF ROXBURY, MASS., 1632, AND HARTFORD, CONN., 1635

WILLIAM HILLS, doubtless the first of the name to land in New England, was probably a native of the County of Essex, in the mother country,* the shire in which Joseph Hills was born and from which he emigrated in 1638. As has been stated researches in England point strongly to the probability that they had a common ancestor, who was living about two hundred years before they left Old for New England.

These two emigrants are distinguished as the progenitors of nearly all of their surname who are of New England ancestry.

The first record relating to the earlier emigrant shows that he was a passenger in the ship "Lyon," William Pearce, master, which sailed from Bristol, June 24, and entered the harbor of Boston on the 16th of September, 1632. The next record concerning him proves that as a resident of Roxbury he was admitted a freeman of that town on the 14th of May, 1634; that municipality became a part of Boston in 1868. "The first church in Roxbury was gathered in 1632." It is not known at what date the Rev. John Eliot, sometimes called the Apostle to the Indians, made his "records of such as adjoined themselves unto the fellowship of this church of Christ at Roxborough." Of an emigrant of that year he says, "William Hills a manservant, he came over in the year 1632, he married Phillice Lyman daughter of Richard Lyman, he removed to Hartford on Conecticott, where he lived several years, w^hout giving such good satisfaction to the consciences of the saints."

These are all the known records relating to the life of the emigrant in Massachusetts, where it appears he lived as a "manservant." It was

* Since these pages were in type evidence satisfactory to the editor has been submitted to him as to the marriage of the parents of William Hills and the birth of their children. As he returns the proof sheets to the press he has not the authority to use the important information. What he can say regarding it at a later day will be found in Appendix B at the end of the work.

common in the early days of the colonies for young men who wished to leave Old for New England to bind themselves by indentures for a term of years, the consideration being money advanced for the payment of their passage and wages to the end of the specified term of service in the new country. Similar arrangements were doubtless made by young women of that time, for among Mr. Eliot's emigrant church members several are recorded as "maide" servants.

Of the seventy male passengers of the "Mayflower" as given in Hotton's original lists, at least nine can be identified as minors. John Hook is designated "a servant boy," John Howland and nine others as "servants," while George Soule and Elias Story recorded as "two men in Winslow family," were doubtless, with their fellows, bound for service to their more prosperous companions on the famous ship.

The fact that Ann Mumford was a passenger on the "Lyon" on the voyage that terminated in September, 1632, and that she was the intended wife of the Apostle Eliot, strongly indicates that William Hills was indentured to that clergyman. That she was his affianced wife is clear, for in speaking of himself he said that those who formed his church came in a body and "settled at Rocksborough, to whom he was fore ingaged. . . . Also his wife came along wth the rest of his friends the same time & soone after theire coming, they were married, viz. in the 8th month 1632." The indication becomes almost conclusive evidence when the record shows "Thomas Hills, a manservant, he came in the yeare 1633,—he lived among us in good esteeme & godly, & dyed about the 11th or 12th month, 1634, and left a good savor behind him, he was a very faithful & prudent servant & a good christian, he dyed in Mr. Elliots family." The records seem to tell this plain story. William and Thomas were brothers. They came from Essex in England, the home of Eliot, doubtless that of his wife and of the friends "to whom he was fore ingaged." The harsh criticism of William by his master and pastor followed some disagreement as to service or religious belief. Thomas died in 1634. Willain doubtless left Roxbury for Hartford October 15, 1635, with Richard Lyman, the father of his wife Phillis; joining at that time the church of Cambridge, which emigrated as a body and originated the first church of Hartford. With a farm of forty-eight and one-half acres, not including the "nine acres of salt marsh" or the "fifty-five acres and a quarter" in another part of the town and "thirty and nine acres" in Dedham, and two other lots that Mr. Eliot had bought, aggregating more than twenty acres, that worthy saint doubtless regretted the loss of the services of the two brothers. It was not an age of tolerance, and it is not surprising, while he praised the faithful servant who died in his family that he could not think of the other as a good Christian.

No record of the first marriage of William Hills has been found other than that already quoted and one other given by Mr. Eliot in his record of church membership: "Phillis Lyman the daughter of Richard Lyman, she came to the land wh her fath'r ano 1631. God wrought upon her heart in this land; she grew deaf, wh disease increasing was a great affliction to her. She was married to William Hills & lived wh him at Hartford on Conecticot." The date when this marriage terminated by the death of the wife is not known. She was living when the will of her father, the first on record at Hartford, was probated in 1640. By it "Fillis, the wife of William Hills," received a legacy. Evidence recently discovered shows that she probably died before 1648. That her English ancestors were of good family connection would seem to be abundantly proved by the statement and evidence given in the genealogy of her family. The frontispiece of that work shows the arms of Lyman of Essex, quartered with those of Osborne, her maternal ancestors, who were of the adjoining county of Kent. The editor of this genealogy failed to find evidence in any published work that supported the claim to the Kentish arms; but it seemed to be clearly proved that the coat armor of the Lymans, of a design so simple as to indicate that it was among the earliest in use, was rightfully carried by that branch of the family into which Richard her father was born.

It has been generally accepted as a fact that Mary, the widow of the emigrant of 1632, was his second wife, but it appears by probate records that she had two predecessors. The distribution of the estate of Thomas Bunce shows that one parcel of real estate, about four acres on the east side of the great river, had been bought by the decedent of William Hills, and that the lot was "formerly Richard Risley's, and came to said Hills by right of his wife relict of said Risley, as appears by a writing under said Hills hand, dated Feb. 26, 1680," witnessed by James Steele and Thomas Watts. The inventory of the Risley estate was filed October 17, 1648. The court records show there were three children, the eldest less than eight years old, "William Hill bringing them up and giving security to the court" for their several portions of their father's estate.

The wife who probably survived William Hills was, before her last marriage, Mary, the widow of John Steele, Junior, who died about 1653 leaving two sons, John and Samuel. The inventory of his estate was taken March 11, 1654. The Warner genealogy states that Mary, daughter of Andrew Warner, of Hadley, Mass., married John Steele, January 22, 1646, and that her second husband was William Hill, of Hartford. When the widow Steele again became a wife is unknown. It was before the 25th of January, 1669, for at that date the Steele estate was settled, and in the instrument of distribution she is referred to as Mary Hill, and William Hill, her husband, "having taken upon himself to administer the estate, is to make good to the children as they come of age." That her second husband was William Hills, of Hartford, and that she was living some twelve years later, appear from the will of the emigrant of 1632, which is dated February 21, 1681, in which he refers to the revenues of the lands in Farmington as those he has "right unto by and in right of my wife," and provides that they be "demanded and received" for her. She probably was the mother of Jonathan (born about 1664), youngest son of the emigrant.

In the historical catalogue of the First Church of Hartford, the name of William Hills appears among those of the original and early members in connection with the words "dismissed July, 1683, moved to Hadley." William Hills bought a large tract of land at Hoccanum (East Hartford), and resided there for many years. From it he deeded to sons and sons-in-law. That he had not moved to that place in October, 1669, is clear, for the Colonial records show that he, with his sons William and John, were "freemen residing on the south side of Hartford" at that date. It is a matter of some doubt if his death, in 1683, occurred in East Hartford or in Hadley, the early home of the wife of his old age.

Concerning the genealogy of the early settlers of Connecticut, it should always be borne in mind that the town and church vital records are in a very vague, incomplete, and unsatisfactory condition. Consequently, in tracing the genealogy of the descendants of William Hills, of Hartford, no records can be found of the births and marriages of many of the first four generations of those who could claim him as an ancestor.

Fortunately the records of wills and administrations in the County Probate Courts furnish the names of most of the children of the descendants of those early days who were living at the death of their progenitor, and also those of grandchildren interested in the estates that passed through the courts. These, together with the land records in the Registries of Deeds, afford the only knowledge now obtainable of very many of the descendants of William Hills.

The editor of this work regrets that he has been unable to inspect a valuable private collection of genealogical data, which he has been informed has been collected by a resident of Hartford, who was born to the name and is a direct descendant of the emigrant of 1632. Speaking for all her more or less distant cousins he ventures to express the hope that it may yet be put into a form that will supplement the compilation of this genealogy. Condensing what the compiler has gathered into the usual form of a genealogical work the record begins with the first of the name who is known to have left Old for New England.

1. WILLIAM¹, born in England came in ship "Lyon," arrived in Boston, September, 1632; probably died at Hartford, 1683, where his will was probated, December 6 of that year. Married 1st, Phillis Lyman, daughter of Richard and Sarah (Osborne) Lyman who emigrated from High Onger, Essex County, England, in 1631. He married, 2d, the widow of Richard Risley, who died prior to October 17, 1648, the date of the inventory of his estate. The date of her death is unknown. He married, 3d, Mary, widow of John Steele, Jr., of Farmington, who died there, 1653-4, daughter of Andrew Warner of Hadley, Hampshire Co., Mass., who was living in 1681.

In a deposition sworn to by Jonathan Hills, September 1, 1692, he gave his age as twenty-eight years. The inference suggested by his birth date, that he was the son of the third wife of William¹, is made almost conclusive evidence by the language of his father's will and the fact that he left his homestead estate to him, reserving, however, "one halfe" of the "housen and lands" to his widow "dureing her naturall life."

18. WILLIAM³ (William², William¹), b. E. Hartford, Conn. His will was dated March 7, 1782. It was proved Sept. 2, 1782. His father died Aug. 1693. The approximate birth dates of his brothers and sisters are unknown. His birth year may be put as about 1690. In his will he mentions wife Elizabeth, son William and daughters Elizabeth and Abigail, the last named the wife of John Cadwell. In April, 1772, and in Dec. 1780, William Hills, Senior, deeded land to his son. In both instruments each is described as of Hartford, but the land conveyed to William the junior was in East Hartford on the "east side of the Great River." He died in 1782. His son is of record as William Hills, Junior, as late as March 10 of that year: that son, (Philip Leonard was of Marshfield, Plymouth Co., in 1678; removed to Duxbury where he died July 3, 1708.) He married 2d Lebanon, Feb. 25, 1735, Abigail Hinckley, b. about 1693, who was one of the executors of her husband's will. No births are of record in Lebanon as the children of the second marriage. The identity of the Samuel who was of Duxbury with the Samuel who married and died in Lebanon is fully established by Kingsley's records of the Connecticut town.

In 1751, he bought a house and forty acres of land in Farmington, the deed of which conveyed the title of the estate to "David Hills of Hartford." A few weeks later he sold a part of the lot to his "brother, Moses Hills of Farmington." GENEALOGY OF

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH HILLS

OF MALDEN AND NEWBURY, MASS., 1602-1688

2001. JOSEPH HILLS¹, was born in the parish of Great Burstead, Billericay, Essex, England. The record of his baptism reads, "1602, March, Joseph Hilles the sonne of George, was baptized the third day." Neither the birthplace nor parentage of George Hills has yet been discovered. The earliest known record* in relation to him is that of his marriage,—"George Hilles, linen draper, and Mary Symonds, of Billericay, County Essex, widow of William Symonds, late of same, tanner, general license of the Bishop of London, 13 Oct. 1596." An unfortunate break in the register of Great Burstead, all records between 1579 and 1596 being missing, will probably prevent the discovery of the maiden name and parentage of the wife of George Hills.

Joseph Hills, as shown by his signatures, used but five letters, in the form now commonly used, in his surname. In the baptismal records of his brothers and sisters born before 1607, like that which relates to himself, the name has two vowels. The change to Hills in the entry of the christening of his sister Rebecca in February, 1608, and of two younger children, doubtless followed the advent of a new Vicar into the living of Great Burstead. In that parish, on the twenty-second day of July, 1624, Joseph Hills was married to Rose Clarke whose birth record has not yet been found. There his elder children were born. Not later than March, 1632, the family removed to Maldon, also of Essex, which was the birthplace of sons John and "Steven" and of daughter Sarah.

In 1638 he was the "undertaker" of the voyage of the ship "Susan and Ellen," which arrived July 17 of that year, and landed her passengers and cargo at Boston, in New England. His first abiding place was where the settlement of Charlestown was located by Governor Winthrop, between the Charles and Mystic rivers, and which, about the middle of the nineteenth century, became a city. In 1874 it was annexed to Boston. The family dwelling was "near the market place," but in a few years he was a resident of that part of the town north of the Mystic river, establishing his home at "Mystic Side" on a farm of considerable size. He soon became active in public affairs, was selectman of the town in 1644, and in 1646 represented it in the General Court, as the colonial assembly was then named, and as its legislature is still known under the Constitution of the State. Re-elected in 1647, he was chosen speaker of its House of Deputies. When "Mystic Side" was set off as a separate town, it was doubtless named by him for the place where he last dwelt in Old England. That part of ancient Charlestown has long since outgrown the town form of government, and with more than thirty thousand inhabitants, is known as the city of Malden.

While a resident of Mystic Side and Malden he was captain of its train-band. At his death he willed his "bufte coate" to his son Samuel, and his "backsword" to Henry Lunt, his stepson. He was Malden's first deputy, and the town had no other representative until after 1664. In 1665 Malden was not represented, Mr. Hills having removed to Newbury, on the Merrimac river. In 1666 his son-in-law, John Waite, was his successor, and "for an unbroken series of nineteen years he filled this office," being Speaker of the House of Deputies in 1684 and nominated as a magistrate in 1683.

In 1645 Joseph Hills was the first named on a committee "to set out lots to the settlers of Nashaway plantacōn." In 1648 he was first of a committee of four to change the location of the highway "between Winnesmet and Redding." In 1650 he was second of a committee, of which the governor was chairman, appointed to draw up instructions for the Massachusetts delegates to a gathering where "the commissioners of all the colonies shall meete." In 1653 he was one of a committee of six to consider the question, "if the Vnited Collonjes haue power by the articles of Agreement . . . to ingage the Collonjes" "in warre." In 1654, with Captaius Hawthorne and Johnson, and the treasurer of the Colony, he was appointed to frame a reply to the home government, which had demanded an explanation of certain acts. Three times, in 1650, 1653 and 1661, he was of committees to audit the treasury accounts, but his greatest public service was that of the leading member of the committee that in 1648 reported to the General Court the first codification of the laws of the Colony. The story of his part of the work is well told by one of his descendants, Mr. D. P. Corey, in his history of Malden, published in that city, in 1899. That he was the actual compiler of the laws, that he prepared the copy for the press and supervised their printing, is clearly proved. The colony recognized the great value of his work, not only by money payment but by a grant of five hundred acres of land on the Nashua river, now a part of Southern New Hampshire, and the remission of his taxes in his old age. But new laws were from time to time enacted and old ones changed, and "the Courte finding by experience the great benefit that doth redound to the country by putting of the lawes into printe," in 1649-50, 1653, 1654 and 1661 appointed committees as stated in the vote of the last-named year "to peruse such lawes as are unprinted & unrepealed & committ them to the presse."

For this work Joseph Hills had such prominence that his appointments to these committees were three times as numerous as those of any of his colleagues except Governor Bellingham who, notwithstanding his official position, was outranked by his less distinguished associate in the number of times he was designated for such service.

ROSE CLARK, the first wife of Joseph Hills, died at Malden, March 24, 1650, and he married, June 24, 1651, Hannah (Smith), widow of Edward Mellows, of Charlestown, who died about 1650. He was son of Abraham, born about 1580; of Charlestown before 1635 and who died there in 1639. In January, 1656, he married Helen, or Elline, or Eleanor, daughter of Hugh Atkinson, of Kendall, Westmoreland, England, who died at some date between January 8, 1661, and November 10, 1662. In connection with this marriage a noteworthy incident occurred. In the early days of the Colony all marriages were solemnized by magistrates, the clergy having no part in the ceremony. In 1641 Governor Bellingham, as magistrate, married himself to Penelope Pelham, and when called on to come down from the bench and plead to a complaint against him for the act, refused to do so. Joseph Hills was a magistrate "for the trial of small causes," and followed the Governor's example in his marriage of January, 1656, but, unlike the Governor, did not escape public censure. The records of the Court for Middlesex County show that, April 1, 1656, "Mr. Joseph Hills of Mauldon being presented by the Grand Jury for marrying of himself, contrary to the law of this Colony page 38 in ye old Booke. Hee freely acknowledgēd his offence therein, and his misynderstanding the grounds whereon he went w^{ch} he now confesseth to be unwarrentable, And was admonished by the Court." In 1665, he married, at Newbury, the widow of Henry Lunt, of that town, who died in 1662, and until his death made her dwelling his home. The town clerk's record reads "Joseph Hills and Anne Lunt was marryed Oct. 8, 1665."

His petition to the General Court, dated May 24, 1682, recites that "in the latter part of his pilgrimage" he was "totally" bereaved of "the sight of his eyes for more than 4 years now past." He died at Newbury, February 5, 1688.

2022. DOROTHY³ (Joseph², Joseph¹), b. Malden, Middlesex Co., Mass., April 13, 1667 ; d. young.

The Porter genealogy states that this Dorothy, about 1696, married Thomas Hollister. The compiler can find no authority for this statement, but finds that Joseph Hills², of Glastonbury, Conn. (son of William¹, of Hartford), says in his will that his daughter Dorothy was the wife of Hollister.

She joined with her husband and with the heirs of her father's estate in conveying the Malden homestead to her cousin Ebenezer of that town. In the instrument of conveyance, "Samuel Palmer and Mary his wife" describe themselves as of Rowley, in the county of Essex.

2028. SARAH³ (Gershom², Joseph¹), b. Malden, Middlesex Co., Mass., —; d. Woodstock, Windham Co., Conn., April 7, 1735. Married, Swansea, Mass., July 17, 1700, John Chaffee³ (brother of Joseph³, son of Joseph² and Ann Martin, of Swansea, formerly of Hull, Mass., son of Thomas¹, of Swansea, formerly of Hingham, Mass., b. The only child of Abigail (Hills) and Joseph Chaffee, of whom any record was found, was:

- i. BENJAMIN, b. Swansea, Sept. 11, 1710; d.—.

2030. A DAUGHTER³ (Gershom², Joseph¹). There can be no doubt that there was a daughter of Gershom and Elizabeth (Chadwick) Hills, whose given name is unknown. This appears by the deed that conveyed the homestead estate in Malden, Middlesex Co., where she was born, to Ebenezer Hills in 1721. By that instrument, "John Chaffee and Sarah his wife, Joseph Chaffee of Barrington and John Tomson of Rehoboth," part with their respective interest in the property. Rehoboth and Swansea are adjoining towns, and "John Tomson" doubtless joined in the conveyance for the same reason as his brother-in-law of Barrington, that was, as a husband of a daughter of Gershom Hills, who had died before the sale of the Malden estate.

2031. BENJAMIN³ (Gershom², Joseph¹), b. Malden, Middlesex Co., Mass., —, 1680; d. Lynn, Essex Co., Mass., June 20, 1768. Married Mary —, who d. Malden, Jan. 21, 1742, (g. s.) The death of Benjamin Hills is of record in Malden, which was probably his home town at the date of his death.

Children of Benjamin and Mary (—) Hills:

- 2056. BENJAMIN, b. Malden, March 6, 1708; d. Marblehead, Mass., Jan. 12, 1737.

2032. EBENEZER³ (Gershom², Joseph¹), b. Malden, Middlesex Co., Mass.; d. after 1710, before 1721.

2033. SAMUEL³ (Samuel², Joseph¹), b. Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., Feb. 16, 1680; d. Rehoboth, Bristol Co., Mass., July 27, 1732. Married Ann —, who d. Rehoboth, Dec. 3, 1747.

Sarah, Abigail, and that other daughter of Gershom Hills, who was the wife of John Tomson, were married and settled in Swansea or Rehoboth in or about the first decade of the eighteenth century. This Samuel was their cousin, the son of their father's half-brother. He was of Swansea in 1708, and in Rehoboth as early as June 11, 1711, the date of the birth of his daughter Margaret in that town. (See Appendix C.)

2035. CAPT. NATHANIEL³ (Samuel², Joseph¹), b. Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., Feb. 9, 1683; died Nottingham West, now Hudson, Hillsboro Co., N. H., April 12, 1748. Married (published in Newbury, Oct. 24, 1709) Ann Worm. It is possible there was a second wife. The history of Hillsboro Co. calls the wife of Nathaniel Hills "Sarah," tells of her bravery in defending the homestead (a garrison house) against hostile Indians, and says she lived till 1786, dying at the age of 102. May 21, 1725, the General Assembly allowed Capt. Nathaniel Hills £4 4s. [Provincial papers N. H., Vol. 4.]

compiler from Chester : " I live in the house built by my great-great-grandfather, Benjamin Hills, son of Samuel and Abigail. . . . He was the first representative elected by the town in 1744 to the Colonial Assembly. My father, grandfather, great, and great-great-grandfather were all named Benjamin. All of them have owned this house. They have all good grave-stones; they are buried near the church."

Benjamin Hills³ made sales and gifts of land from his Chester estate to his sons Samuel, Benjamin and Moses.

alogical and Historical Association and the publication of this work. With the aid of secretaries and a large expenditure from the fortune he had won as a merchant of Boston, he spent the ten succeeding years in the compilation that has made possible this genealogy. GENEALOGY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT HILLS

COMPILED BY THOMAS HILLS, EDITOR

The earliest known ancestor of that branch of the Hills family of which the English emigrants were sons of John Hills, a farmer of Henwood in Ashford, County of Kent, England, is Robert Hills of Wye, a parish about four miles northeast of Ashford and about nine miles southwest from Canterbury. The date of his marriage and birth and his parentage are at present unknown. The reasonable probability that he was the son or grandson of that Robert of Wye, who on the 28th of January, 1618, married at Swingfield, near Wye, Joan Harvey, has not been determined. He died at Wye in 1718, after the seventh of August, the date of his will and the fourteenth of that month, the day of his burial. That part of his "last will and testament" genealogically valuable reads, "Imptimis—I will that my debts and funeral charges shall be paid and discharged, and whatsoever remains I do give unto my Dr. sons Robert, Thomas, John, Joseph and David Hills, each of them an equal share; and my daughter Mary Parker one shilling, and that my sons Thomas and John be my executors." In addition to the facts disclosed by this instrument, it is known that at the date of the baptism of the testator's son Joseph in Sept., 1698, the wife and mother was recorded as of the name of Mary. Other records in the parish register of Wye indicate that this was an erroneous entry by the recording officer; and that a Deborah was the wife of Robert Hills from before the 18th of July, 1680, when the daughter Mary was baptised, to the death of her mother who as "Deborah wife of Robert Hills," was buried, July 3, 1717.

4001. ROBERT¹, b. probably Wye, Co. Kent, England, about 1650; d. Wye, after Aug. 7, before Aug. 14, 1718, the date of his burial.

Children of Robert and Deborah (—) Hills of whom record has been found:

4002. ROBERT, b. prob. Wye, Co. Kent, England, —.

4003. MARY, b. " " " " " bapt. Wye, July 18, 1680, dau. of Deborah.

4004. THOMAS, b. prob. Wye, Co. Kent, England, about 1690.
 4005. JOHN, b. " " " " " about 1694.
 4006. JOSEPH, b. " " " " " bapt. Wye, Sept. 25, 1698;
 d. Woodchurch, Sept., 1767.
 4007. DAVID, b. prob. Wye, Co. Kent, England, bapt. Wye, March 9, 1700, son of Deborah.

4002. ROBERT² (Robert¹). No record other than that he was that son of Robert¹ who was mentioned in the will of his father as of that name, has been found relating to this Robert.

4003. MARY² (Robert¹), b. probably Wye, Co. Kent, England, bapt. Wye, July 18, 1680. The record of her baptism shows that her mother's name was Deborah;—her father's will that she had married — Parker and that she was living in 1718.

4004. THOMAS² (Robert¹), b. probably at Wye, Co. Kent, England, about 1690; was probably of Woodchurch, Co. Kent, about 1733. The only record in relation to this Thomas that has been obtained is found in his fathers' will, of which he was one of the executors. In a letter to the compiler dated May 19, 1888, Dr. Edward B. Terry, "eighteen years church warden of Woodchurch, in temporary charge of the records of the parish through the death of the Rector," stated, in giving under the date of Feb. 3, 1733 a copy of the baptismal record of a Thomas Hills, son of a Joseph and Mary Hills, that "there was also living at Woodchurch about this time a Thomas Hills, who is described as an innkeeper" and he adds "I can not find that the name was of long standing in the parish." As Joseph Hills, a younger brother of Thomas, was of Wye in 1730, when his son John was born, was of Woodchurch in 1733, was subsequently of Ashford, and again of Woodchurch, when his wife died in 1763, and when his own life ended in 1767;—there can be little doubt that the Thomas, who in 1733, was an innkeeper in that parish, where later, Joseph, the son of Robert of Wye, was also farmer and innkeeper, was that son of Robert, who was an executor of the will of his father.

4005. JOHN² (Robert¹), b. probably at Wye, Co. Kent, England, about 1694. Married Mary —. With his brother Thomas was executor of the will of his father.

The only child of John and Mary (—) Hills of whom record has been obtained is :

4008. JOHN, b. Wye, bapt. Sept. 26, 1718.

4006. JOSEPH² (Robert¹), b. Wye, Co. Kent, England, bapt. Sept. 25, 1698; d. Woodchurch, Co. Kent, 1767, buried Sept. 30. Married Mary Pay, of Wye, who d. Woodchurch, 1763, buried June 9. From information given to the compiler by his father, who was a grandson of this

Joseph, confirmed and supplemented by the parish records of Wye and Woodchurch, it can be said of Joseph Hills that he was a farmer; that with his family he removed from Wye to Woodchurh, about 1733; that he removed thence to a place called Bay Hill in Ashford, where he lived several years, when he again removed to Woodchurch, some eight miles southwest of Ashford, where upon an estate known as "The Bonny Cravat" he was a farmer and innkeeper till his death.

The only children of Joseph and Mary (Pay) Hills of whom record has been obtained are:

4009. JOHN, b. Wye, Sept. 30, 1730; d. Ashford, Dec. —, 1799; buried Jan. 1, 1800.
4010. THOMAS, b. Woodchurch, bapt. Feb. 3, 1733; d. —.

4008. JOHN³ (John², Robert¹). Nothing is known of this grandson of Robert Hills of Wye, that is not disclosed by a baptismal record in the register of that parish. "1718, Sept. 26, John, son of John and Mary Hills."

4009. JOHN³ (Joseph², Robert¹), b. Wye, Co. Kent, England, Sept. 30, 1730; d. Ashford, Co. Kent, Dec., 1799, where he was buried, Jan. 1, 1800. Married, Eastwell, near Ashford, Dec., 1755, Sarah, daughter of Richard and Bennet (Hunt) Lewis, b. Ashford, April 22, 1730, d. Boston, Mass., Sept. 11, 1815. Buried in the John Jenkins tomb, number 29, Kings Chapel Cemetery. Richard Lewis was probably of Eastwell, at the time of his daughter's marriage, but of Ashford when she was born and at the time of his death in August, 1765, at the age of about ninety-five years. This statement is based on information imparted by his daughter to her son, and by him communicated to the compiler. Bennet (Hunt) Hills died when her daughter Sarah "was about six years old." John Hills was a farmer. At the time of his marriage, he settled at Kennington, a little parish between Ashford and Eastwell. There his first child was born in 1756, and probably his second in 1758. About the time that his family consisted of a wife and two children, he removed to Ashford, and occupied as lessee or tenant, the estate known as Henwood till his death. His widow and son George carried on the farm until 1803, when they came to Boston in Massachusetts, where three of her sons had already made a residence. The compiler had been told by his father of a famous spring of water upon this farm and inquired for it when he visited the estate in the summer of 1894. He was informed by the tenant occupant that the owner, a Mr. John Lewis, then held but thirty-five acres; that part of Henwood, where the great spring was located having been taken for the water supply and pumping station of the parish of Ashford; which being at the junction of two trunk lines of railway, has, since the middle of the nineteenth century, changed from a quiet agricultural community to a thriving, bustling town.

Children of John and Sarah (Lewis) Hills :

- 4012. JOHN, b. " or Ashford, June 29, 1758; d. Eastchurch, Isle of Sheppy.
- 4013. THOMAS, b. Ashford, Dec. 2, 1762; was living at Southend, Co. Essex in 1850.
- 4014. JOSEPH, b. " July 31, 1765; d. Boston, Mass., April 4, 1852.
- 4015. RICHARD, b. " August 11, 1767; d. Boston, Mass., August 12, 1831.
- 4016. STEPHEN, b. " August 10, 1771; d. Columbia, Monroe Co., Illinois, Oct. 17, 1844.
- 4017. GEORGE, b. " Oct. 21, 1773; d. Boston, Mass., Sept. 8, 1858.
- 4018. WILLIAM, b. " August 21, 1776; d. Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1828.

4010. THOMAS³ (Joseph², Robert¹). Nothing is known of this grandson of Robert of Wye that is not disclosed by the record in the parish of Woodchurch, Co. Kent, England ; which shows that as the son of Joseph and Mary Hills, he was bapt. Feb. 3, 1733.

4011. MARY⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Kennington, Co. Kent, England, Aug. 16, 1756 ; d. Wye, —, 1794. Married, Ashford, Co. Kent, Oct. 13, 1785, Stephen Peck, of Wye, Co. Kent.

The only child of Mary (Hills) and Stephen Peck known to the father of the compiler was a daughter, who was born at Wye in 1788. From a letter from her mother's brother, Thomas, to her cousin, George T. Hills, of Boston, Mass., dated Aug., 1835, in which the writer says that he "never heard for certain where Mrs. Bains is, but have been told she is with her friends at Wye," it may be inferred that as a widow, she was, at that date, living in the parish of her birth.

4012. JOHN⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Kennington or in the adjoining parish of Ashford, Co. Kent, England, June 29, 1758; d. Eastchurch, Isle of Sheppey, Co. Kent. Married Sarah Dunston. In 1806, when the last of his emigrant brothers left Old for New England, four children had been added to the family. The compiler recalls hearing his father say that his eldest brother was a farmer living on the Isle of Sheppey, which lies on the south bank of the Thames near its mouth and is separated from the mainland of the county by a narrow creek. There is a tradition in the family that Stephen Hills, brother of this John, visited relatives at Sheerness, a port about six miles northwest of Eastchurch. This visit is said to have been made about the year 1822.

The children of John and Sarah (Dunston) Hills of whom anything is known were :

4013. THOMAS⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Ashford, Co. Kent, England, Dec. 2, 1762; d. Southend, Co. Essex, England after 1850. Married, London, 1799, Hannah Smith. For the statement which follows, the compiler's authority is sundry letters received by his father (No. 4014) from his elder brother, and by his brother George Thomas (No. 4040) from the same correspondent, and verbal statements of Joseph and George (No. 4017), emigrant brothers of the resident of Southend in Essex. Their brother Thomas having been duly apprenticed to a housewright was free and unmarried, working at his trade in London, considerably more than thirty years old when he met and married his wife, who was a lady of good social standing. One of her ancestors had left a London estate of considerable value, strictly entailed to the eldest male heir and in default of males to the eldest female. That at the time of the marriage of Thomas Hills, his wife was the younger of three sisters, that each in turn enjoyed the estate, but the two elder dying childless, the estate passed on the death of the survivor to her eldest son.

Married, 2d, Boston, Dec. 5, 1822, Sarah, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Gardner) Knott, of Shaftesbury, Dorsetshire, England. Cambridge, Mass., March 11, 1877. Joseph Hills was indentured at the age of fourteen for seven years to a manufacturer of ladies' shoes in the Cathedral town of Canterbury, some fourteen miles from his home in Ashford. At the end of his apprenticeship he began work and soon established a business at St. Peters. About 1795 he removed and re-established his business and home in Rochester, Co. Kent, from which place he emigrated to New England, arriving at Boston, Mass., June 5, 1806. His business career in that city is well stated in an article published in the "Commercial Bulletin" in Sept., 1881, entitled "Boston's Retail Shoe Trade Forty Years Ago." "Some of the older residents will remember Mr. Joseph Hills, for a long time quite celebrated as a maker of ladies' shoes, who shop was at 7 School street. Mr. Hills was born in England and served the regular seven years' apprenticeship at his trade. He came to Boston in 1806, was in business on Boylston street near the market from 1814 to 1820, on Washington near Avon street from 1821 to 1828, when he removed to School street, where he remained till 1847, when he removed to his own house, corner of Tremont street and Seaver Place, where he continued his business, employing several hands, and died in 1852 at the age of eighty-seven."

4015. RICHARD⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Ashford, Co. Kent, England, Aug. 11, 1767; d. Boston, Mass., Aug. 12, 1831. Married, Boston, Jan. 15, 1818, Ann Wagstaff, b. Alfreton, Derbyshire, England, d. Roxbury, Mass. (a part of Boston, since 1868), Oct., 1845. Richard Hills was an architect and builder. He served a seven years' apprenticeship to a carpenter in Ashford or its vicinity. With very limited opportunities he developed considerable skill as a designer and housewright. In 1801, with his younger brother William, he joined their brother Stephen in Boston, where he had been a resident some six or seven years. In 1802, Stephen left Boston and the elder of the remaining brothers succeeded to his business. Early in 1803, his father's widow and brother George arrived in Boston and their mother again became homekeeper for her sons. There is a tradition in the family that Richard Hills built at Waltham one of the earliest if not the first cotton mill in Massachusetts.

It is certain that in 1823 and 1824, he resided in Chelmsford; while in the neighboring town of Lowell, he built the Boott and other mills and St. Ann's church. The Hinckley and Gardner estate on the corner of Beacon and Somerset streets, which in 1873 was fitted for business and known as the Congregational House, which was demolished in Dec., 1904; the Boott Mansion in Bowdoin Square, now a part of the Revere House; the William Pratt homestead at the corner of Summer and Hawley streets; that of John D. Williams on the site now covered by the Cathedral of the Holy Cross; the huge structure on the northeasterly corner of Pearl and High streets long known as "Harris' Folly" and the Armory estate, at one time the home of Gov. Gore and later of the author, George Ticknor, which was the residence of Lafayette during his stay in Boston, and which still stands but little altered at the corner of Beacon and Park streets, were among the most notable evidences of his skill. The compiler has heard from some of his relatives that Mr. Hinckley, was so well pleased with his house and its cost, that he gave the estate upon which his architect and builder resided to the lady to whom he was engaged to be married. Whether the conveyance was a gift or partial payment may be doubted, but the registry record is clear that on the 28th of March, 1816, David Hinckley conveyed the estate at the corner of Pleasant and South Cedar (now Winchester) streets, "to Miss Ann Wagstaff, of Boston, Spinster."

Richard and Ann (Wagstaff) Hills had no children.

4016. STEPHEN⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Ashford, Co. Kent, England, Aug. 10, 1771; d. Columbia, Monroe Co., Illinois, Oct. 17, 1844. Married, Pluckley, Co. Kent, —, 1794, Margaret Ashby, b. Pluckley (about 6 miles west of Ashford), Dec. 21, 1772, d. Harrisburg, Penn., Aug. 4, 1822. Married, 2d, Derby, Derbyshire, England, about 1824, Elizabeth Fletcher, b. Tickhill, Yorkshire, England, in 1800 (daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Fletcher of that parish), d. Portland, Oregon, in 1854. Stephen Hills was indentured to the housewright, with whom his elder brother Richard was serving his apprenticeship. He was the first of the sons of John and Sarah (Lewis) Hills to emigrate to America. He probably sailed soon after his marriage, as his eldest child was born in Boston, Mass., in Dec., 1794. The Suffolk registry of deeds and the assessors' records show that he soon was busily employed. The tax list for 1801, has against his name "Imploys many Journemen." A house built for his residence on the westerly side of Warrenton street (a few feet north of the Universalist church, built by his brother George in 1840), was torn down in the spring of 1896. At this house he was assessed as a resident in 1801. In 1802, the record reads "Mrs. Hills occupant" and in it as residents of Boston, appear for the first time the names of his brothers Richard and William. He undoubtedly left Boston in that year. In April, 1804, his son Thomas was born in Lancaster,

Penn. With his family he was a resident of Philadelphia in 1810. A few years later, during the war of 1812-15, while crossing the Atlantic, the vessel in which with his wife he was a passenger was captured and for a while they were held as prisoners. Probably by 1814, certainly before May, 1819, he was domiciled in Harrisburg. There he planned and built the Capitol of the State, which was completed in 1821, and erected some of the best houses in that city. His grandson, Rev. George Hills White, of Grinnell, Iowa, writing from that place in Dec., 1888; states that "at one time he owned about the finest house in Harrisburg, doors, window frames and sashes of solid mahogany—the house 100 feet deep. It was afterwards bought by Gov. Haldeman." A new Capitol was finished at Harrisburg in Dec., 1894. It was built beside that erected by Stephen Hills; it being "determined to leave the old Capitol intact." The older building was, however, destroyed by fire, Feb. 2, 1897. 1837-40, he built the Capitol of Missouri, from the same plans he used for that of Pennsylvania. During that time, he was a resident of Jefferson City, Mo. He subsequently lived at Columbia in that state, where about 1840-41, he erected the buildings of the University of Missouri. At the time of his death he was engaged on plans for a state house for Tennessee. While on a visit to relatives in England in 1822, his first wife died. He remained in England till after his second marriage. His first child by his second marriage, who lived beyond infancy, was born in 1827. Soon after that event, with his wife and her daughter, he returned to England, where with that part of his family he lived for about ten years at a place called Leamington, near Warwick. After finishing the University buildings of Missouri, he bought a farm in Columbia, Monroe Co., Illinois, adjoining that of his son Thomas (distant about twelve miles from St. Louis), where he died in Oct., 1844.

In 1888, the compiler, desirous of verifying a tradition of the family, wrote to the Secretaries of the States of Pennsylvania and Missouri in relation to it. Both officers courteously responded, forwarding engravings of the two capitols. The letter of the western official is so short, and shows how well the architect and builder was remembered in Jefferson, nearly half a century after he has finished his work in that city, that it is reproduced in full: "Stephen Hills an Englishman of large frame, weight about two hundred and fifty pounds, was the architect of the Missouri Capitol Building in 1837. He was also architect of the Pennsylvania Capitol Building, of which the Missouri building is a duplicate."

The children of Stephen and Elizabeth (Fletcher) Hills were:

- 4058. ANN ELIZABETH, b. Harrisburg, March 28, 1826; m. William Beck; resides Albany, Oregon.

- 4060. LOFTUS OTTO, b. Leamington, Warwickshire, Nov. 4, 1830; d. Grafton, Ill., April 6, 1877.

4017. GEORGE⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Ashford, Co. Kent, England, Oct. 21, 1773; d. Boston, Mass., Sept. 8, 1858. Married, Boston, March —, 1813, Nancy, widow of John Jenkins, daughter of Adam and Ann (Giles) Knox, of Boston, b. Aug. —, 1778, d. Boston, Jan. 10, 1856, aged 77 years, 5 months. George Hills was the only son of John and Sarah (Lewis) Hills, who remained upon the home farm. After his father's death in Dec., 1799, he managed it for three years, when with his mother he joined his brothers Richard and William in Boston. In the spring of 1803, the three sons were living with their mother as tenants of an estate on what is now the southwesterly corner of Pleasant and Melrose streets. Although thirty years old the newcomer apprenticed himself to his brother Richard and soon became a skillful workman. As his foreman he remained with him, managing his business in his absence until 1825, when he began business on his own account. There was a marked difference between these two brothers, who as master and man when the younger of them was forty years old still lived unmarried with their mother. The elder never built for himself, his pride was to do the best work for others. The younger, from the time he began business on his own account bought land and erected buildings of good, honest construction, but with no attempt at excellence of design. The brother, who, as a builder, began his apprenticeship when thirty years old, left an estate at least ten times more valuable than the more skillful housewright.

George and Nancy (Knox) Hills had no children.

4018. WILLIAM⁴ (John³, Joseph², Robert¹), b. Ashford, Co. Kent, England, Aug. 21, 1776; d. Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1828. Married, Chatham, Co. Kent, England, Jemima Tucker, her parentage, the date of her birth, marriage and death are unknown to the compiler. She did not accompany her husband when, in 1801, he with his brother Richard came to New England. She doubtless died in the land of her birth. Married, second, Williamsburg (a Long Island town which became a part of Brooklyn), N. Y., Nov. 19, 1815, Jane Farrington, who d. Brooklyn, Nov. 16, 1845. William Hills duly indentured served his seven years' apprenticeship and was by trade a mason. The records of the assessors show that as late as May, 1809, with his brothers Richard and George he was living in Pleasant street in Boston. As his name does not appear in the tax lists of 1810 he doubtless about that time removed to Williamsburg, where he died in Aug. 1828. There is a tradition in the family that he built the first brick house in that place which became by annexations first a part of Brooklyn then of New York City.

Mary Jane (Hills) Shaw informed a niece of the compiler (Sarah [Hills] Pratt, No. 4086 of this genealogy), who resided in Brooklyn in 1867, that all her brothers had died childless.

4019. JOHN⁵ (John⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), of whom nothing is known but that he was the eldest son of John and Sarah (Dunston) Hills, of Eastchurch, Isle of Sheppey, Co. Kent, England.

4020. RICHARD⁵ (John⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), of whom nothing is known but that he was the second son of John and Sarah (Dunston) Hills. John his father was born in Ashford and settled at Eastchurch on the south bank of the Thames near its mouth, both parishes being in the county of Kent, England.

4021. THOMAS⁵ (John⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), of whom nothing is known but that he was the third son of John and Sarah (Dunston) Hills, of Eastchurch, Co. Kent, England.

4022. ———⁵ (John⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), a daughter of whom nothing is known but that she was the fourth child of John and Sarah (Dunston) Hills and was born before her father's brother Joseph left Old for New England in the spring of 1806.

4023. GEORGE⁵ (Thomas⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹). As the eldest son of Thomas and Hannah (Smith) Hills he was probably born in London, England, the place of their marriage in 1799. As the eldest son of his mother he inherited real estate in that city which was entailed in her family.

4024. MARIA⁵ (Thomas⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), was probably born in London or in Southend, Co. Essex, England. The date of her birth and that of her marriage to Robert Hazzard are unknown to the compiler as are also the death dates of any of the family. A letter from her father dated Southend, July 7, 1834 to George T. Hills, his nephew

(No. 4040 of this genealogy), at that date in Liverpool, referred to his daughter with a statement that she had "lost her youngest and her eldest daughter since" he "was there last summer." About 1840 her cousin, Elizabeth Annie (No. 4058), daughter of her uncle, Stephen Hills, visited her; at that date "She had three children, two boys and a baby girl." The family were then living at Bristol, England.

4025. JOSEPH⁵ (Thomas⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), nothing is known of him but that he was the son of Thomas and Hannah (Smith) Hills. His birth was probably, London or Southend, England.

4026. JOHN⁵ (Thomas⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), nothing more can be said of this son of Thomas and Hannah (Smith) Hills than has been stated of his brother Joseph.

4027. THOMAS⁵ (Thomas⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹). It can be said of this son of Thomas and Hannah (Smith) Hills that he probably was the youngest of their five children. In a letter from his father to his brother Joseph of Boston, Mass., which came under the observation of the compiler, he referred to his children in the order here given, presumably in that of their birth.

4028. JOHN⁵ (Joseph⁴, John³, Joseph², Robert¹), was b. in St. Peters, Isle of Thanet, Co. Kent, England, in 1787, and d. when only a few days' old.

Landed, Boston, Mass., June 5, 1806. Married, Boston, Oct. 18, 1810, Margaret Low, b. Sterling, Scotland, Feb. 13, 1783, d. Oxford, Sept. 3, 1872. Her parents emigrated to Nova Scotia in 1785, thence to Boston, Mass. Joseph Hills was assessed in Boston in 1816, as shown by the assessors' records. Before the next assessment he had left that city. Nov. 19, 1817, with his family he arrived at Cincinnati, Ohio, where he resided until 1830. In the spring of that year he settled in Oxford, where upon his farm he resided till his death. To this estate he gave the same name (Henwood) as that by which from ancient times to the present day his father's Kentish birthplace has been known.

From this cousin the compiler has received more information concerning her fathers' family than from all other sources—and much that was valuable in relation to her father's elder brother Thomas. In a letter written in 1888, referring to the time of his second return to England and his ten years residence there, she says, "My memory only dates back to the time when we lived in England, at a place called Royal Leamington in Warwickshire, two miles from Warwick Spa. . . . I must have been quite a little girl, when my uncle Thomas came to visit us from Southend in Essex I can distinctly recall his stately form. . . . He was quite tall, I should say about six feet, not so heavy as my father and very fine looking. I recollect my father's going to visit Mrs. Robert Hazzard, uncle Thomas' daughter who was living in Bristol." At Columbia, Boone Co., Missouri, March 16, 1845, Annie Elizabeth Hills married William Beck, b. Roxbury, Franklin Co., Penn., Nov. 2, 1817; d. Portland, Oregon, Oct. 24, 1889. PARTIAL LINES

GROUPS THAT CANNOT BE TRACED TO AN
EMIGRANT ANCESTOR

IV

PARTIAL LINES

DESCENDANTS OF SAMUEL HILLS

There can be little doubt that this partial line is that of a descendant of William of Hartford, Conn., the earliest emigrant of the name from Old to New England.

A Samuel Hills whose death is of record as of the 20th of March, 1814, at the age of 84, must have been born about 1730. He is known to have been the son of the Samuel who was one of the earliest settlers of Glastonbury, holding one of the "long lots" that extended back from the river. His birth could not have been much later than 1700 and probably preceded that date. Had he been forty-seven years old when the junior Samuel was born he would have been contemporary with the emigrant. As the traditions come down among his descendants there is a Thomas Hills with wife Hannah Loomis; a Samuel with wife Eunice House; a Samuel with wife Eunice Taleott. Were it not for the fact that the junior Samuel had two sons and that great grandchildren whose grandfather was Samuel³ claim Eunice House as grandmother and that descendants in the same generation from his son Israel³ deem Eunice Taleott their ancestor, there would be a reasonable probability that the younger Samuel was twice married; or that he was the son of one Eunice and the husband of the other. The tradition that he was a grandson of a Thomas Hills meets this objection. To have been the father of the senior Samuel the Thomas who is said to have been the husband of Hannah Loomis, must have been a son or grandson of the emigrant, and it is not easy to believe that he could live to be the head of a family in the new community and his name never once appear in any public record. Leaving him and his supposed wife Hannah in the region of tradition, the compilation that follows will commence with the elder Samuel who is known to have been of the early settlers in the lower Connecticut valley.

4201. SAMUEL¹. But for the fact that Samuel Hills was a landholder and that his son was known as Samuel junior, it would be difficult to prove that he was the earliest known ancestor of those whose record follows. He was born about the year 1700. One of his descendants of the fifth generation who is still living relates that his father, Deacon Chester Hills, who was born January 9, 1783, remembered the death of a very old lady at the home of his grandfather Samuel² Hills on Eastbury hill and that her body was carried out through the lots and woods on a sled to Glastonbury street for burial. The entry in the Eastbury records "Nov. 26, 1792, widow Hills died, age 92," doubtless related to the mother of Samuel Hills, junior.

4202. SAMUEL² (Samuel¹), b. Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., about 1730; d. Eastbury parish of Glastonbury, March 20, 1814. His will, dated March 10, 1808, was probated April 28, 1814. It mentions wife Eunice, son Israel and refers to the heirs of his deceased son Samuel and daughter Hannah. Dec. 2, 1767, for £150, he bought of Jonathan Treat the farm of 87 acres on Eastbury hill, which remained his home place till he died. His wife was probably Eunice Talcott, but some of his descendants claim that her maiden name was Eunice House. Her birth and marriage dates are unknown. She d. Eastbury, July 1, 1810, aged 76, and was buried in ground near her surviving son's homestead.

Children of Samuel and Eunice (—) Hills:

- 4203. SAMUEL, b. Glastonbury, Sept. —, 1755; d. June 11, 1805.
- 4204. ISRAEL, b. " —, 1757; d. Sept. 18, 1827.
- 4205. HANNAH, b. " Jan. 7, 1762; d. Sept. 5, 1792.

4203. SAMUEL³ (Samuel², Samuel¹), b. Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., Sept —, 1755; d. Eastbury parish, Glastonbury, June 11, 1805. Married (at Vernon, Tolland Co., Conn., probably), Abigail Hubbard, b. (probably in Vernon) about 1756. The Eastbury church records show that "Sept. 3, 1777, Samuel Hills Jr., married Abigail Hubbard." The same authority states that Nov. 4, 1799, she was admitted to church membership. She d. Eastbury, Oct. 9, 1832, aged 76.

Administration of the estate of Samuel Hills, granted June 27, 1805, shows that he was a prosperous man and that in addition to his home investments he owned 100 acres of land in Rome, Oneida Co., N. Y.

Children of Samuel and Abigail (Hubbard) Hills other than an infant, who died at Eastbury, Dec. 12, 1778 were:

- 4206. JOSIAH, b. Eastbury, Aug. 15, 1780; d. Sept. 19, 1871.

This family homestead, a farm of 109 acres, in the easterly division of Glastonbury is now in possession of his great-grandchildren. Married, Eastbury, Glastonbury, May 20, 1777, Ruth Hollister, b. Glastonbury, July 6, 1758, d. East Glas-tonbury, March 18, 1842. "Israel Hills was a soldier of the Revolution. He served in the 6th Co. of the 6th Conn. Regt. in New York and on Long Island." With his wife he joined the Eastbury church, June, 1779.

Child of the second marriage:

4216. JOSIAH, b. Rome, Dec. —, 1824.

4207. DEACON CHESTER⁴ (Samuel³, Samuel², Samuel¹), b. Eastbury, Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., Jan. 9, 1783, bapt. Feb. 23, 1783; d. Buckingham division of Glastonbury, Aug. 28, 1877, "aged 94." Married, March 26, 1807, Eliza Lovette, of Williamstown, Berkshire Co., Mass., a native of that town, who d. Eastbury, Oct. —, 1817. Married, 2d, —, 1819, Maria —. Married, 3d, Jemima (or Ulinea) Howe, who d. Eastbury, Feb. 12, 1862. The Eastbury church records show that on the second sabbath in June, 1809 "Chester Hills and wife Eliza" were admitted to membership. The record of the baptism of his children after 1819, prove that the given name of the second wife was Maria. One of his descendants reports the first name of the wife who survived him as Ulinea, another as Mina, but the record of her death reads "Feb. 12, 1862, Mrs. Jemima Hills, wife of Deacon Chester, age 73."

Children of Chester and Eliza (Lovette) Hills:

- 4217. AUGDEN A., b. Eastbury, Nov. 1, 1808; d. Aug. 6, 1809.

4208. SAMUEL⁴ (Samuel³, Samuel², Samuel¹), b. Eastbury, Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., Jan. 24, 1786, bapt. April 9, 1786; d. Verona, Oneida Co., N. Y., June 6, 1874. Married, Eastbury, Oct. 13, 1807, Theodocia Hale or Hollister. The fact that one of the descendants of this Samuel informed the compiler that her ancestor married " Dosha " Hale and that his only sister married Walter Hale, of Eastbury, would seem to indicate clearly the name to which his wife was born; but the Hollister Genealogy shows several marriages where the contracting parties were Hills and Hollisters, among them (the compiler's copy reads), "Theodocia Hollister, married Samuel Hills, Jr., children baptized in Eastbury." The church record as copied is "Oct. 13, 1807, Samuel Hills married Theodocia Hale." She was b. Glastonbury, d. Verona, March 17, 1872.

Hesburg, Germany, Nov. 14, 1859. This branch of Samuel Hills' descendants came to the editor as a sketch. One of its members undertook the task of getting together the materials for filling in its outlines. The manuscript for the printer was prepared from the original returns while the earlier pages of the genealogy were going through the press. In this case two reports, each in a handwriting different from the other, were received and the preliminary record was made, showing what appeared to be the marriage of twin brothers to twin sisters, with slightly varying names. But the examination required for a full record, showed that the returns headed respectively Henry E. and Eugene H., gave the names and birth dates of the same four children and determined that but one person born to the name of Hills was head of the family.

DESCENDANTS OF DANIEL HILLS

The only considerable group of the name of Hills in the Green Mountain State is to be found in or near the State Capitol, mainly in Waterbury, Duxbury, Moretown, Stowe, Middlesex and Montpelier. All these towns are in[®] the western part of Washington Co., except Stowe which adjoins Waterbury, but is in the county of Lamoille.

All of the group whose ancestry has been traced to Connecticut, are descendants of Levi Hills, who emigrated from Glastonbury, near Hartford, the Capitol of that State, and settled in Berlin, Washington Co., Vermont, after January, 1796, but before 1802. East Hartford was the home of Daniel, the father of the emigrant. He died there in December, 1782. The records of the baptism of eight of his children can be found in its parish registers. His son, the settler in Vermont, was married in the Eastbury parish of the adjoining town of Glastonbury in 1782, and one of his children was baptized there as late as 1796. All this suggests not only the almost absolute certainty that all of this group are descendants of William¹ of Hartford, but the possibility that Samuel, the ancestor of the branch whose pedigree immediately proceeds this record, who was early of Glastonbury, might have been the father or grandfather of the Daniel, who died in 1782. The lines of those descendants of the English emigrant who remained in the immediate vicinity of Hartford until the close of the eighteenth century, are sufficiently well known, that it can be said that this possibility is not an unreasonable probability.

4401. DANIEL HILLS the earliest known progenitor of this branch died at East Hartford, Conn., Dec. 23, 1782. Administration was granted upon his estate, Jan. 24, 1783. The proceedings of the Probate Court show that his widow was named Mabel and disclose the names of Levi, Nathan, Reuben, John, Joshua, and Moses of his sons and Sarah of his daughters. The administrators were his son Levi and Thomas Risley, both of Glastonbury, and the appraisers were Silas Hills and Henry Treat.

Children of Daniel and Mabel (—) Hills:

 4411. MOSES, b. " " about —, 1771; —.

4402. MABEL² (Daniel¹). The record of her baptism is given above; that she died before 1783 may be inferred from the fact that her name does not appear in the settlement of her father's estate.

4403. NATHANIEL² (Daniel¹), b. East Hartford, Conn., bapt. there, Nov. 13, 1857. His name does not appear in the probate proceedings in relation of his father's estate. He probably died before 1783.

4404. LEVI² (Daniel¹), b. East Hartford, Conn., bapt. there, May 6, 1759; d. Berlin, Washington Co., Vt., March 22, 1808. His gravestone says "aged 49 years." He was one of the administrators of his father's estate. About the year 1800, he emigrated from Connecticut to Vermont and settled in Berlin. He married, Eastbury parish, Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., March 28, 1782, Olle or Ollie Hollister, b. 1759, d. Berlin, May 19, 1816, "aged 57." By the record of her marriage in Eastbury parish register her given name has but four letters, her gravestone gives five. The Hollister genealogy recognizes her as a descendant of the John Hollister, who is said to have been born in England in 1612, and emigrated to America in 1642. He settled in Wethersfield, Conn., and in 1644, represented the town in the legislature and several times thereafter till 1656. He was a large landholder in that part of the town now known as Glastonbury. "Lieut. John Hollister married Joanna, daughter of Richard Treat, Senior, and his first wife Joanna." Hon. Richard Treat, Senior, represented Wethersfield in the colony legislature, in 1637, and was re-elected in other years. From 1658 to 1665, he was an assistant magistrate. He was an ancestor of Robert Treat Paine, one of the signers, July 4, 1776, of the American Declaration of Independence; the line being Richard¹, Gov. Robert² of Conn., Rev. Samuel³ of Eastham, Mass., Eunice⁴, b. Eastham, Sept. 27, 1704; d. Boston, Mass., Oct. 17, 1747. Married, April 21, 1721, Rev. Thomas Paine. Their son, the signer of the Declaration, b. Boston, March 12, 1731, d. there, May 11, 1814. The Hollister genealogy under the heading "Families whose descent from Lieut. John Hollister have not been certainly traced" gives "Olle Hollister (Hills). Olle Hollister married Levi Hills in Glastonbury, Conn., March 28, 1782."

DESCENDANTS OF OLIVER SOPER HILLS

The material that made the following compilation possible was gathered by Mr. Leon C. Hills (No. 4571), of Ansonia, Conn. In the latter part of the eighteenth and in the first decade of the nineteenth centuries there was a great exodus of Connecticut families to Vermont and New York. A considerable number of those who went to the Green Mountain State removed to the vicinity of the settlements made by their former neighbors. Some of them, and others who went from Connecticut to New York, joined a quite general movement of the earlier quarter of the latter century, to new lands still further west, notably to those of Ohio. Trumble in his history of Hartford County states that from one town in that shire 147 families departed from Connecticut between 1783 and 1802, and settled, a few in the "Northwestern Territory" the rest in Vermont and New York. To one of these families whose new home was in Geneseo, Livingston Co., N. Y., in 1811 a son was born. The mother died when he was about three weeks old. There is a tradition among his descendants that the father's name was Joseph, that he was a school teacher, and that the Connecticut home was in Durham or Farmington. It is certain that at one time an Augustus Hills was of the Genesee valley, for in the old graveyard in Geneseo there still stands a headstone inscribed "Phoebe Hills, Consort of Augustus Hills, died Dec. 7, 1824, aged 64 years." The infant born in 1811 was named Oliver Soper Hills, doubtless for a relative of his mother whose maiden name was Soper. His father married again and had children Hannah, Julia, Lucy, Brutus and James. That the chance may be bettered of their parentage being discovered they will be given numbers and indexed.

DESCENDANTS OF DAVID HILLS

While a considerable number of the name of Hills left New England before 1800, of those that did settle beyond its borders in the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth centuries, but very few if any were from the Massachusetts branch of the family. The descendants of Joseph, the immigrant of 1638, leaving the Bay State went to New Hampshire, Maine and Rhode Island, for their new homes. But a very large percentage of the name who were of Connecticut at the close of the Revolution, emigrated to Vermont and New York. As the earliest known ancestor of this line of four generations was born in Central New York in 1806, there can be little doubt that he was a descendant of William of Hartford. His grandson (No. 4590), writes that he was of a large family and adds the names of his father's uncles and aunts, who were known to him.

DESCENDANTS OF SILAS AND SALLY (GOULD) HILLS

The history of Bernardston, Mass., says that in Aug., 1801, an Ebenezer Hills was in business there. A Mary Hills, who died July 24, 1851, aged 66, on the 4th of Nov., 1810, married Gardner Gould, and the history states that Sept. 1, 1810, Sally Gould, sister of Gardner of Bernardston, married Silas Hills, of Guilford, Vt., and adds that about 1840 to 1845, Silas Russell, son of Silas Hills, of Guilford came to live in the Mass. town; which is separated from that of Vermont by the boundary line between the States. Both towns have a very small number of inhabitants and as it is probable that 4699. EBENEZER HILLS was father of both Silas and Mary; what is known as to the family that began its existence in Nov., 1810, will be stated before record will be made of the descendants of Silas.

DESCENDANTS OF ITHAMER HILLS

4711. ITHAMER HILLS is the earliest known ancestor of those whose names appear in this group. The name has been met but once in more than ten years' investigation. In August, 1904, the editor copied from the original records of Wrentham, Norfolk Co., Mass., the following: "James Hills y^e son of Ithamer Hills was born July y^e 25, 1732." The nearest approach to the name as entered can be found in Hotton's Original List. Of 78 persons living "At the Eastern Shore" of Virginia, Feb. 16, 1623, one had the name Ismale Hills. A grandson of the James born in 1732 was named Elhamun, presumably for his father's grandfather, if the last syllable of the name copied from the old record should have been written "mun" instead of "mer." When it is remembered that those of the Puritan faith were as unwelcome in Virginia as were those of the established church in New England, it is not an unreasonable conjecture that a son or grandson of the English immigrant of the "Eastern Shore" in 1623, found his way in the early part of the eighteenth century from the earliest settled to the Bay Colony.

4712. JAMES² (Ithamer¹), b. Wrentham, Mass., July 25, 1732. The original record of his marriage reads: "James Hills and Abigail Allbe. Both of Wrentham were joyned in marriage the 18th Day of July, 1754." He was of the west parish of Wrentham which March 2, 1778, was set off and incorporated as the town of Franklin. In 1782 and 1783 he sold his Franklin land by three conveyances one of which was to his son Ziba, and thereafter no record connects him with his old home town.

4714. ZIBA (James², Ithamer¹), b. Wrentham, Norfolk Co., Mass., Sept. 16, 1756. The place and date of his death are unknown. In 1785, he sold his woodland in Norfolk Co. and in 1786, "twelve acres with a small house and barn," both lots being in the town of Franklin (until 1778, the west parish of Wrentham). The last conveyance included the lot he bought of his father in 1782, and was evidently the old homestead of the family. In both conveyances he describes himself as of "Sutton in the County of Worcester, Yeoman." He probably was not long resident of the central Mass. town. A Ziba Hills was of Chester, N. H., in 1827, but his line is known; he was a son of Benjamin. The Franklin land conveyances show that the grantor's wife was a Molly Hills and that is all that is known of his family.

4715. ABIGAIL³ (James², Ithamer¹), b. Wrentham, west parish, Mass., Feb. 21, 1759; —.

4716. JAMES³ (James², Ithamer¹), b. Wrentham, west parish (now Franklin), Norfolk Co., Mass., Oct. 18, 1760; d. Enosburg, Franklin Co., Vt., June 29, 1840. 4721. to 4725. JERUSHIA⁴, REBECCA⁴, HANNAH⁴, ABIGAIL⁴, and JAMES⁴; nothing is known of them that is not disclosed in their birth record.

4726. ELHAMUN WINCHESTER⁴ (James³, James², Ithamer¹), b. Croydon, Sullivan Co., N. H., Dec. 13, 1796. Married Sally Green. A connection of the family writes, "He was always called by his middle name Winchester." There is no accounting for the strange first name except upon the theory that he was named for an ancestor or friend of the family. He was probably named for his father's grandfather. The name recorded in Wrentham, Mass., in 1732, was probably by the licence taken by the scribes of the earlier part of the eighteenth century written in accordance with the recording officer's individuality.

4727. CLARISSA⁴ (James³, James², Ithamer¹), b. Croydon, N. H., Oct. 30, 1798. Married Lyman Sloan.

4728. AMASA B.⁴ (James³, James², Ithamer¹), b. Croydon, N. H., May 13, 1801; d. Underhill, Chittenden Co., Vt., Oct. 17, 1889. Married Sally Woodward.

Mr. Almer J. Elliot wrote in Oct., 1895, "my mother Polly Hill Chaffee, was the oldest child of Aaron S. and Polly W. (Hill) Chaffee. Polly W. Hill was ninth child of James and Rebecca Hill. . . . Although I have never secured the slightest proof, I have for several years thought that the name was spelled Hills not many generations back."

4730. JAMES DEAN⁴ (James³, James², Ithamer¹), b. Montpelier, Vt., June 2, 1806. Married Hannah Chase.

4731. EBER ELLIOT⁴ (James³, James², Ithamer¹), b. Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 19, 1808. Married Harriet Peck.

DESCENDANTS OF NATHAN HILLS

Mr. Henry W. Hills, referring to his parents, wrote that of their "marriage there were born four sons and four daughters. I have not filled out dates as I will have to get them. Moses Hills, my father, was the son of Jesse Hills, who was the son of Nathan Hills. Jesse Hills had brothers by the names of John, Nathan, Aaron and Moses." If Mr. Hills ever forwarded additional information to that which is given below the editor has failed to discover it.

4741. NATHAN HILLS was probably of Connecticut. His son Jesse was of Hartford, Washington Co., in Eastern New York as early as 1807, a region to which many Connecticut families went soon after the Revolutionary War. A Nathan Hills was in Capt. Barnard's Co. from Feb. 12, 1778 to Sept. 1, 1780 and as a corporal in Capt. Durkee's Co. from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1781. Both Companies were of Connecticut Regiments.

DESCENDANTS OF EZEKIEL AND MELINDA (PALMER) HILLS

The Ezekiel who heads this group is said to have been a son of a Zimri Hills. One of that name (No. 85 of this Gen.), born, 1725, married, 1752, died 1760, may have been his father. But if such was the fact, no evidence of it other than the tradition in the family as to the name is known to exist.

DESCENDANTS OF ELIJAH AND HANNAH (MUNSON) HILLS

The Munson Genealogy, published 1896, has the following: "Hannah⁵, daughter of Theophilus Munson⁴ (Theophilus³, Samuel², Thomas¹), born May —, 1744. Married, Oct. 2, 1770, Elijah Hills, of Glastonbury a widower." She was made admx. of his estate when administration was granted at New Haven, March 17, 1783. The probate proceedings disclose the fact that a son William of a former marriage, was, as a "brother," appointed guardian to Loveman Hills in 1792 and of Elijah Hills in 1795. The genealogy gives but two sons and one daughter as children of the wife, who survived her husband. But Samuel was evidently her oldest child; he chose her as his guardian in 1787. The record recites that she was his mother and that he was the son of Elijah, of New Haven.

4781. ELIJAH, of Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn., in 1770, of New Haven, Conn., where he died before March 17, 1783. Had son William when, Oct. 2, 1770, he married Hannah Munson.

4782. WILLIAM² (Elijah¹), was of age, Aug. 22, 1792, when he was appointed guardian for his half-brother Loveman.

4821. JAMES (son of John), b. Egglesden, Kent Co., England, Dec. 21, 1811; d. Vernon, Oneida Co., N. Y., June 22, 1888. Married, Kennington, Kent Co., March 2, 1835, Harriett Tappenden, b. Sept. 26, 1814, d. Vernon, Jan. 2, 1871. Egglesden must be a local designation of an area within a parish. It is probably the name of a manor or an estate. There is no city, town or parish of the name in Kent. This record is of special interest to the editor. Kennington for three years was the home of his grandfather; Bethersden, where seven of the children of this marriage were born, is but six miles from the birthplace of his father.

FAMILY OF CRISTOV HILLS OF GERMANY.

A family at one time of Massachusetts and another in Missouri, carry the Hills name though of German descent. It is possible that the same combination of five letters now in general use may form the spelling of a family name in Germany, or a different combination there in use to designate Hills has been anglicized in America. A more reasonable supposition is, that Englishmen of the name have settled in Germany and their descendants have retained it in its original form.

FAMILY OF JACOB HILLS OF GERMANY

In a letter to the Secretary of the Hills Family Association dated Cleveland, Ohio, January 30, 1895, a Mr. C. J. Hills stated that the branch of the name with which he was connected was of "German descent" and that "Reuben B. Hills of" that city, "Jacob H. Hills, of Lorain, Ohio, Albert F. Hills, of Phila., Pa., Henry M. Hills, of Bordeaux, France" were brothers "and Mrs. Henry G. King of Lorain, Ohio" was his only sister, that they were "all born at Haydenville, Mass;" and that they had "no relatives in this country on the Hills side of the house." Since 1850, all the municipalities of Massachusetts have been required to annually transmit to the Secretary of State at Boston copies of their vital statistics. The archives of that state enable the following record to be made:

 DESCENDANTS OF SAMUEL HILLS [101]

SAMUEL HILLS⁴ (John³, Joseph², William¹), born about 1747; died in 1839. After the manuscript of the Connecticut branch had been prepared for the printer and those born to the name had received their designating numbers, three generations of this Samuel's descendants, children and grandchildren of his son Sylvester were reported to the editor. With much labor, involving the changing of nearly two thousand numbers or their duplicating with distinguishing letters, the information received could have been incorporated with the printer's copy. But a method that required so many changes was attended with great risk of error. All useful purposes are served by treating his known descendants as a separate branch. DESCENDANTS OF ELISHA HILLS [98]

The probating of the estate of a grandson of Elisha Hills in Green Co., Wis., in 1898, disclosed a list of great-grandchildren and suggested to the editor the expediency of obtaining their record and connecting it with that of their ancestor. After the manuscript was in the printer's hands he received that and other information, much of it relating to an earlier generation. APPENDIX A

COAT ARMOR; HILLS NAME

When the Editor was in England in 1894 he copied from directories of the Southeastern counties of the island of Great Britain the addresses of those of his name whose social position indicated that they probably would be interested in tracing their remote ancestry. From his Boston home he wrote explaining the objects of the Hills Family Association, and asking information as to the family history. He received several courteous replies, but no communications of value in his search for the progenitors of William and Joseph Hills, the first of whom landed in New England in 1632, the second in 1638. Long after he had ceased to expect answers to his circular letter, he was surprised to find in his mail one of his stamped envelopes sealed with a crest showing a horse courant, in the mouth a broken spear head. It was postmarked London, Feb. 10, 1904, and inclosed a letter from Gordon P. G. Hills, Esq., a son of one of the gentlemen to whom he had written nearly ten years before its date. The father, Gordon M. Hills, was the third son of John Hills, a commander in the Royal Navy. As his first and second sons died childless, the Editor's correspondent was, from the death of his father in 1895, the head of that branch of the family. An interchange of views resulted in the London resident consenting to act as agent of the committee for the publication of this work and a general search of the archives of the College of Arms (generally called the Heralds' College) was begun in the summer of 1904 under the direction of Dr. George W. Marshall, York Herald. About the middle of August, Mr. Hills reported that the records of the college showed 395 entries in the names of Hill or Hills variously spelled. The list was not much more than an index, but it contained sufficient information to enable the editor to strike out several of its items as having no possible connection with the name of Hills, while published works found in Boston libraries conclusively proved many of the entries to relate to coat armor of persons born to the name of Hill. All these emendations were subsequently verified in London. Late in August, the list was returned for the investigation of 190 cases and for copies of the record of such of them as should be determined as rightly carrying the final "s" in the surname. The concluding paragraphs of page xviii of the introduction of this work explains the cause of an unexpected delay, but after a somewhat impatient waiting the result of the investigation was received. The Editor will transpose the information the report of Mr. Hills transmitted to him, to make what seems to be the best arrangement of its contents. The numbers preceding the different statements are those of the index of the general search, and are retained as supplying the place of what would otherwise of necessity be a somewhat elaborate description, where the writer of the report, in giving the blazoning of one shield or crest refers to another included in the index. The information obtained is given in his language when in quotation marks.

"New Court, Carey Street, Lincoln's Inn, London, W. C., May 1, 1905.

The Hills search in the Collections of the College of Heralds, London.

My dear Sir.—I now have the pleasure to forward you the results of my examination of the records of Hill and Hills at the Heralds' College, according to the General Search furnished by Dr. George W. Marshall, York Herald,* and in accordance with the instructions conveyed to me in your letter of August 30, 1904. I enclose a copy of your Analysis, on which I have noted in red ink the results of my examination of the various references which were brought for my inspection by Dr. Marshall or his clerk. The investigation of these items occupied four afternoons, and as you will see resulted in the disclosure of a very preponderating number of 'Hill' entries, yet at the same time using every endeavor, one cannot but feel that if we only had the requisite information, some of these would probably prove to be really 'Hills' references after all. I have done my best, with the knowledge of the matter at my command, not to miss any point of importance, and I think that in the further extracts I have had made and shall now proceed to particularize, I have gleaned all that is of most interest to us in the records and collections of the Heralds' College."

Before giving the result of the herald's research, in the interest of future investigators the Editor quotes from one of the letters of his correspondent and also from that part of his report which does not relate to coat armor: "My Father, who was well known in archaeological circles believed that we were descended from a family settled at Ash in Kent at an early date. One member of this family married Agnes, daughter of Gilbert à Becket and sister of Saint Thomas à Becket." For evidence from printed works to assist in sustaining the claim of the family connection with that of the murdered archbishop of Canterbury, Mr. Hills evidently relies upon the reference in Stow's Survey of London to the Mercer's Chapel in Cheapside, which took the place of the hospital "founded by Thomas Fitzthebald de Heili and Agnes his wife, sister to Thomas Becket"; and to "Weever's Ancient Fvneral Monvments" (1631) in relation to the same Hospital of

* "George William Marshall, L.L.D.; F.S.A.; York Herald of Arms and an eminent genealogist, died on Tuesday Sept. 12, 1905, at his residence, Holmbush, Upper Richmond Road, London, S. W., at the age of sixty-six." [From an obituary notice in the London Daily Graphic of Sept. 15, 1905.]

Saint Thomas, and a claim of that author that the ancestors of the Earls of Ormond "were linked in most neere alliance unto Saint Thomas Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury." Mr. Hills adds: "I should also like to draw your attention to Musket's Suffolk Armorial Families (1900) in which (Vol. 1, p. 100), there is information about John Hilles of London, 1579, William Hilles of Holton and his wife Joan. A genealogical tree shows descent from John Hyllis of Assington, Co. Suffolk, whose will was made November 24, 1547. The family connects with those of Winthrop and Browne. John Hilles, citizen and skinner of London, who died s. p., 1579, devised land at Meopham, Kent, and left rents at Southwark to his wife, and there are records of chancery proceedings entered under the name of Wynthropp or Wynthorp relating to the final settlement of these Hilles Estates."

The findings in the College of Arms of Coat Armor in the name of Hills were as follows:

"189 and 359. A copy of the grant of Arms to Mary, widow of Richard Goodhugh and eldest daughter of Richard Hills, of Under River, Kent in 1738, viz. Gules, a chevron, vair, between three talbots, passant, argent." As the pedigree annexed to this grant of August 24, 1738 (which was to Mary Goodhugh and the heirs of her body) shows that the grantee "left her estate to her nephew Richard Hills, late of Under River, s. p. 1790," it is probable that this coat is not now in use. This nephew had brother Robert, who married Mary, daughter of Thomas Cooke, of London (and had children Robert, Thomas, Martha and Elizabeth, all living 1790, at which date Thomas, 2d son, was 12 years old); a sister who married William Wilmot, of Sundridge in Kent; and brothers John and Thomas, both of whom were married and had children in 1790. "The coat of arms under number 211 was a modern grant in 1900 to Arnold Frank Hills of Woodford in Essex and Redleaf in Kent and is a variation of the escutcheon" granted to Mary (Hills) Goodhugh. Passing these grants in which it is impossible that descendants of the emigrants to New England can have a personal interest, Mr. Hills calls attention to an ancient coat mentioned by Hasted, the historian of Kent Co. "Gilbert de Helles of Hells Court in Ash, and Saint Helles in Darant was sheriff of the country in the thirtieth year of Edward III, whose 'arms, sable, a bend argent,' are carved on the roof of the cloisters of Canterbury Cathedral." He adds "I drew Dr. Marshall's attention to this statement, and asked him to let me know if there was any record of such a coat at the Heralds' College. In reply he writes 'I cannot find sable, a bend argent in the E. D. N. as being a coat of Hill or Hills. It is too old for us.'" Mr. Hills continues, "258. I enclose a copy of the matter disclosed under this item, viz., a trick (sketch) of arms ascribed to 'Hilles, Azure, a chevron, between three fleur de lys, argent.' The search indicates that the reference is to a Kentish family but I have not discovered any further information under this head. . . ." "180. This reference supplies the copy of the grant of an elaborate coat of arms to 'Margrett Lucas wife of Robert Browne of London' in 1571, the second of the six quarterings being for 'Hilles' and emblazoned: Azure, a fesse between three stags passant, argent, horned or." As this shield is not of record in the College of Arms as granted by the heralds, it doubtless antedates its foundation in 1483. Its other quarterings show the arms of Lucus, Penne, Brackenbury, Balliawle and Paynell.

Having disposed of that part of the report that referred to Armigers other than those mentioned on pages xvi to xviii of this work the editor, using the report from which he is quoting and copies from the archives of the heralds, will endeavor to show the connection with the name, of the arms referred to under the subdivision of the introduction entitled Coat Armor.

As to "the arms granted to John Hills of London in 1586" (see introduction, pages xvi, xvii) it is clear that the date (which was copied some six years since by the editor) is wrong. The grant, if it was a grant, was dated March 15, 1580. The language used seems to indicate that the herald's work was a confirmation of a right previously existing as to the shield and a grant of a distinctive crest. But a still more important doubt arises from the fact that "Robert Cooke, Clarenceux, King of Arms" on the same day, by an entry recorded Misc. Grants 2.36, and another duly recorded Misc. Grants 6.66, in language almost word for word identical, established the right of "John Hills of London, Gent." by one record, and of "John Hill of London, Gent." by the other to the same coat armor. The official copy in the name of Hills reads as follows: "Misc. Grants 2.36. And being required of John Hills of London, Gent. to make search in the Registers and Records of my office for such Arms and Creast as he may lawfully beare, whereunto I have made search accordingly and doe find that he may beare these Arms and Creast hereafter following, to witt. The feild sable, a cheveron or, between three Catts* silver, and to ye Creast upon the Helme, on a wreath silver and sable, on the stork of a tree gold, a sore Faulcon proper, the beak and leggs Gold, mantled Gules, doubled silver, as more plainly appeareth depicted in the margent hereof, which Armes and Creast and every part and parcell thereof, I the said Clarenceux King of Armes do ratifie, Confirme, give and Grant unto the said John Hills, Gent and to his posteritie, 15th March, 1580." To this copy the herald of our time adds: "There is another copy of the above Grant in Misc. Grants 6.66, but the above is esteemed the better record."

As tending to show that the Grant was to John Hill the following records appear: "E. D. N. 56.23^b. Docket of Grant of Arms by Barker—temp. Edward IV. Arms in trick for Hill, the blazon of which is, Sable a cheveron ermine, between three cats statant, guardant, argent." This shield is identical with that of the 15th of March, 1580, with only this exception the chevron of one is gold, the other ermine. The reign of Edward IV. was 1461–1483. Coat Armor identical with that granted by Barker appears again with the following record: “J. P. B. 3.81. William Hill of Hilston in Kent” whose son was “Sir Thomas Hill, mayor of London, 1485. Died the same year.” By his wife who was a “daughter of . . . Chastleton” he had children “Thomas, William, John, Richard, Robert, Lettice, Sibill, Agnes, Elizabeth, Jane and Alice.” To this pedigree a trick (sketch) of Arms is annexed. Another pedigree with trick of Arms, with the same reference “J. P. B. 3.81” is that of “John Hill of London whose ancestors came out of the north.” The Arms are “Sable, a fesse ermine, between two cats, passant, guardant, argent.” By his wife “Agnes, daughter to John Mowdale of London, Goldsmith,” he had daughter “Elizabeth, married David Woodruff of London” and son “Ralph Hill of London, Citizen and Haberdasher” who married “Amy, daughter to William Rawlins, of London, Grocer” and had John, William, Thomas, Susan, Elizabeth, Bridget, and Margaret. The only date connected with this pedigree and arms is “1568” in connection with the name of the son Thomas. After giving in his report these various blazonings, Mr. Hills adds “there is certainly a family likeness between these coats . . . I think there is some reason to suppose that Hill of Hilston was really a Hills.” The editor considers this supposition not only not unreasonable, but inclines to the opinion that each of these sable shields charged with a chevron and three cats, was the escutcheon of one born Hills.

* To understand the embellishments of this shield, for "Catts" read leopards.

The confusion caused by the double record of March 15, 1580 is fortunately ended by a pedigree, annexed to a copy of the Arms granted at that date, of record in the Heralds’ College, “C. 24.97^b. J. P. viii. 681.” This pedigree is signed by Daniel and John Hills, son and grandson of the grantee, and was evidently filed in 1633. It is headed by “John Hills of London, Gent” and “Ann, daughter of . . . Marshall of Warwickshire.” Their son “Daniell Hills of London, Merchant” and “Elinor, daughter of Henry Millward of Sinsin in Co. Derby” had “John Hills (the junior signer of the pedigree), Marster of Arts and rector of Queenhith, London and Eastwick in Co. Hertford” whose wife was “Susan, daughter of John Darby of Bramford in the countie of Suffolk, Gent.” They had “Daniell Hills sonne and heir, 11 years old 1633; John 2; Edm. 3; James 4; Barnard 5; Hester.” Daniel and Elinor also had “Nathaniel Hills of Greenwich, second sonne,” who had “John 1; Daniell 2; Ellinor 1.”

Burke’s General Armory (edition 1878), gives the coat armor of the “Right Rev. George Hills, Bishop of British Columbia, 1859.” (See introduction page xvi.) Concerning the shield of this armiger, Mr. Hills, giving the blazoning “Argent, a chevron between three martlets, sable,” reports that “Dr. Marshall assures me that it is not on record at the Heralds’ College.”

"Richard Hills alias Hulles of Milton in the county of Kent" (see introduction page xvi) is twice of record in the College of Arms, once G. 10—69^c as "Richard Hilles alias Hills of Milton, Co. Kent, gentleman," again "Vincent 119—412, Philpot 32.51—J. P., A. viii. 680" as "Richardus Hulls alias Hills, de Milton, Co. Kent." In both records his wife is given as Elizabeth daughter of — Berde. In neither record is there mention of coat armor; but in both their son Richard, and no other child is of the record. It is worthy of note in this connection that Milton in Kent is less than ten miles from Saint Margaret Hills, the hamlet of the origin of the name (see introduction, page xii). "Richard Hills, gentleman, citizen and merchant taylor of London" (see introduction, page xvi); there are three pedigrees connected with this name in the archives of the Heralds' College. They show that the quotation from the publication of the Harleian Society given in the introduction of this work is correct. Concerning them Mr. Hills reports: "47. Genealogical note referring to Richard Hilles alias Hills, of Milton, Co. Kent, Richard Hills 'Merchant Taylor' of London and his children. As to the arms I found a disappointment in store for us, since, although the shield space with its mantling was duly prepared, for some reason, the arms were never filled in. 248. Under this reference occurs merely the name 'Richard Hill, merchant tayler' and the arms in chief, Azure, an eagle displayed between three cross crosslets, or. This second reference may supply the blank left in the former, for, as some of the other extracts which I am forwarding demonstrate, the name Hill and Hills are at some periods used very carelessly, both even appearing in the same connection; but in this case we have the description 'merchant tailor' in common to both entries. 230, 239, 264 and 295. In further elucidation of these two records I have obtained copies of the entries under the foregoing numbers of the index, which give additional information as to the family in question and show that 'Barnabas Hilles' married 'Catherina filia Henrici Leake' who 'renup Robto Clarke militi.' The last of these entries—a pedigree of the Leake families—carries the descent a little later in date, and chronicles the same marriage, but calls the son of Richard Hills 'Bartholomeus' instead of 'Barnabas.'" In the opinion of the editor, there can be little doubt that the "merchant tayler" to whom was granted the azure shield with the displayed (spread) eagle and cross crosslets of gold, was Richard Hills, master of the Guild of Merchant Tailors of London for 1561 and 1562 (see introduction, page xvi). If such was the fact it would be of interest to know whose son was that John Hills (see introduction, page xvii), who on the 15th of March, 1580, was granted arms. John, the eldest son of the master of the Guild of Tailors, would hardly have discarded his father's arms. The grant of March, 1580, could not have been to "John Hilles, Citizen and Skinner of London" for he "died s. p. (without posterity), 1579."

"Hills of Chelsea, County Middlesex and Isle of Sheppey, County

Kent, was granted in 1784, arms showing three silver hillocks on a green shield" (see introduction, page xvii). This date (copied from Burke's General Armory, edition 1878, page 491), is an error. The grant was to "Mary Elizabeth, wife of Joseph Bushman, of London, Esq., sole daughter and heir of John Hills, late of Chelsea, in the county of Middlesex and of the Isle of Sheppey, Co. Kent, Esq., by Mary his late wife, who was sole daughter and heir of Samuel Lloyd," was dated November 13, 1754. (Grants 15, 373.) Mr. Hills' report in this case reads, "190. This is the record of a grant of arms to Joseph Bushman of London (whose father James Bushman was of Essex), and includes the grant of a quartering of arms for Hills to his wife Mary Elizabeth as only daughter and heir of John Hills, late of Chelsea, . . . viz. Vert, three hills argent." Passing that part of the patent relating to Bushman its conclusion reads: "We do also hereby grant and exemplify to Mary Elizabeth, wife of the said Joseph Bushman the arms following, viz^t. Quarterly first and fourth, Vert three hills argent, for Hills; Second and third, sable a lion rampant per fess, Argent and Erminois, for Lloyd."

"Hills (late Astell of Colne Park, Co. Essex), Ermine on a fess, sable, a tower with two turrets, proper. Crest, a tower, as in the arms" (see introduction, page xvii). As to this coat armor (given by Burke in his General Armory and by Berry in his Encyclopædia Heraldica) the report reads: "These arms are ascribed by Burke to 'Hills late Astell' and there is a similar reference in the publication of the Harleian Society* xiv, 636. I kept on the alert in my examination and under Nos. 92, 98, 366 and 379, found references to coats of arms of very similar blazoning belonging to Hill families, apparently hailing from Shropshire. For further elucidation of this point, I wrote to Dr. Marshall, (1) asking for the earliest reference to the coat and crest in the records of the Heralds' College; and (2) asking for a copy of the grant of these arms to Astle of Colne Park, January 9th, 1790, and any pedigree of Michael Robert Hills, in compliance with whose will Burke says, the name and Arms of Hills were assumed by Astle. Dr. Marshall replied, (1) "19 D. 86^b. The Arms were evidently an allowance by Cook, but the M. S. B. 24^b. only gives a trick of them which tallies with that in 19 D. 86^b. and has this note: Richard Hill of Sutton in the parish of Shiers, the son of William; his wife was the daughter of —— Morley. (2) I can find no grant of arms to Astle, and not trusting to our index I have examined the Grant Book for the period to make sure there never was one."

"Hillis, Per pale, or and gules, a lion passant, argent" (see introduction, page xviii). From the fact no report is made in relation to this coat, the index of the general search could not have included it and it probably is not of record in the Heralds' College. Its blazoning is given by Burke in his General Armory, edition 1878, page 491.

* Visitations of Essex (Boston Pub. Lib., 2410.63) has the statement that "Philip Astel . . . born 26 Jan. 1751, took the name and arms of Hills by Royal license, 9 Jan. 1790, in compliance with the will of Michael Robert Hills, Esq., of Colne Park, Essex."

"Hills, Argent, a cross between four crescents, azure, a chief of the last. Crest, a horse courant, gules. In the mouth a broken spear head, sable" (see introduction, page xviii). On this coat armor, Mr. Hills reports: "It has been disappointing to find no reference to the crest—'a horse courant, gules, in the mouth a broken spear head, sable,'—used by my family, nor to the coat of arms which Burke associates with it, viz. 'Argent, a cross between four crescents, azure, a chief of the last.' I have already forwarded to you Dr. Marshall's letter informing me of his fruitless search for any record of these and referring to the modern parody of them granted in 1883, to Sir James Hills-Johnes (Nos. 207 and 209). One would indeed like to know where Burke got his information. Of course your hypothesis, that these are arms in use before the foundation of the Heralds' College (1483), might explain their existence, and in talking about such possibilities, Dr. Marshall told me that occasionally old grants are discovered which have been long lost. He pointed out to me too, that in ancient times the Heralds' College kept no register of the grants made. The documents conveying the right to arms were given to the grantees, and it was for them and not the Heralds to produce such evidence when challenged as to their right to bear arms."

The editor has long been of opinion that this coat was not only older than any other carried by those of his name, but that it was old enough to have been borne by the occupants of the manor where that name was first known and from which there went forth the sons whose descendants scattered it throughout southeastern England (see introduction, page xviii). That occupation began in the seventeenth year of the reign of King Edward I. (1289, see introduction, page xii), about one hundred years after coat armor was first used. "Some sort of armorial insignia were depicted on the shields used in the third crusade, which took place in 1189." From the social position of the lords of the manor of Saint Margaret Helles, they doubtless were among the earliest of Englishmen to carry coat armor.* The shield of the cross and crescents with its crest seem to tell a story of the crusades, the last of which (in which King Edward I. took part), began in 1271. The incident that for want of a male heir the manor of Saint Margaret Hills passed out of the name, "about the beginning of King Henry VII reign" (see introduction, page xii), which began in August, 1485, is a reasonable explanation of the fact that the Heralds' College, which was founded in 1483, has no record of either shield or crest. As has been already stated one of the descendants of the

*The social position of the family in the early part of the 17th century, may be inferred from the fact that John Hills, who was of Burnham in Essex, (that parish being but twelve miles from Maldon, the home of his elder brother, Joseph the emigrant of 1638), married Susan King, of a family entitled to bear arms. [See visitations of Essex; Harleian Society for 1879, part 2.]

grantee of the manor, Gilbert de Helles, about the year 1366, as sheriff of Kent, carried a shield, "sable a bend argent." This may have been the earliest coat armor of the name or it may have been an insignia of his office. In either case it is not of record in the College of Arms instituted a century and a quarter later. The absence of record in the Heralds' College can no more be taken as proof that these arms are not in existence, or, being in existence, that one born Hills has no valid title thereto, than can the fact that an estate which for many generations has been in one family, descending from father to son by inheritance and consequently is not of record at any time in two or more centuries in the registry of deeds, can be considered to be held illegally by the descendant of the original owner. A coat of arms is "as purely personal a piece of property as a homestead, with similar rights of transfer by inheritance or will." (Committee on Heraldry, New Eng. Hist. Gen. Society, report Dec., 1898.) Of the eleven coats carried by those clearly born Hills that are in use or recognized by standard works (concerning which a report has been made), but four were granted by the Heralds' College; two were recognized by its officers as properly borne; one was disclosed as one of six quarterings of the shield of Lucas; and four—those of Gilbert de Helles, Bishop Hills, of British Columbia, the Hillis shield charged with the lion passant; and that of the cross and crescents with the crest of the horse courant—are unrecorded by that institution of registry, for the reason, doubtless, that as the visitation of the heralds to the several counties of England ceased more than two hundred years ago, the methods that formerly compelled the returns of armigers have been long discontinued, and the assistance of the officers of the college not being needed, there has been no occasion for record. But of an ancient coat that has not in any way for more than four hundred years been brought to the notice of the recording officials, it may be fairly presumed that it is not now in use. All the probabilities of the case indicate that the shield of the cross and crescents was carried by the Richard Hills, who about 1485, was the last of his name to occupy the manor of Saint Margaret Hills. As the American branches of the family trace their English ancestry through emigrants to New England, all of whom came from a radius of less than twenty miles from the spot where the name originated, the inference is justified, when the evidence in connection with the origin of the name is considered, that these emigrants were descendants of the Thomas de Helles to whom King Edward I., issued his charter, and of that armiger who first assumed this coat armor. It would seem to be perfectly clear that American descendants of William of Upminster and Joseph of Great Burstead in Essex, and Robert of Wye in Kent, who accept this deduction from known facts, can use the coat armor shown on page xii of this work, conscious that such use will not conflict with the rights of any person.*

* Since the appendix relating to Coat Armor was written, the Editor has received a personal letter in which his London correspondent so clearly states the impres-

The engraving of Hills coat armor displayed on the page of the introduction above mentioned, shows the shield with its charges, the wreath and the crest—all that the laws of heraldry require. The descriptive language connected with it indicates the colors of the first and last of its parts. “A wreath is a twisted garland of silk of different colors, otherwise called a torce, on which it has since the fourteenth century been usual to place the crest. The side view of a wreath thus drawn exhibits six divisions,” they must be of the two principal colors of the escutcheon; the first, third and fifth of the tincture of the shield, argent; the second, fourth and sixth, that of its charges, azure. To the shield, wreath and crest there can be added if desired, the helmet, the mantling and the scroll. If a helmet is used it must show the rank of the armiger, in this case that of an esquire, and be placed between the shield and wreath. The helmet of that rank is of steel, always in profile with the visor closed. Mantling is “depicted as hanging down from the helmet and behind the escutcheon. . . . A mantling adjusted so as to form a background for the shield and its accessories, constitutes an achievement of Arms.” “The scroll, placed over the crest or below the shield, contains a motto bearing in many cases an allusion to the family name or arms.” The form in general use in this case would read: “By the name of Hills.” The editor has met those supposed to be skilled in the laws and usages of heraldry who claimed that mantling and scroll must be of the same tinctures as the wreath; but he here quotes an authority that allows a greater liberty in the color scheme: “The tinctures of the field, charges and crest, being specified in the blazon and those of the wreath and helmet implied, it is only in the mantling and motto scroll that the emblazoner has an opportunity of exhibiting his artistic combination of color. In an achievement of arms, contrast is frequently more effective than harmony. If, therefore, the dominant tinctures of the escutcheon or its charges be blue, the mantling may be orange; if red, green; yellow, purple; and vice versa.” (The Handbook of Heraldry, John E. Cussans, London, 1869, page 289.)

The Editor cannot dismiss the valuable report of Mr. Hills, without expressing grateful acknowledgment in behalf of all of our name for the important service he has rendered those interested in its history; and for them to reciprocate most heartily the sentiment that caused him to conclude his communication “with kind regards to . . . namesakes across the ocean.”

sion that his investigations have made, that he adds to this branch of his work his statement. “As I wrote, I have not found any record of the crest used by my family, or the arms coupled with it by Burke at the Heralds' College; but I know that this crest was used by my grandfather, John Hills, R. N., and was on silver in his possession which apparently carries back the use of it to an earlier generation. There is at any rate one point satisfactory, that it does not appear that these arms or crest are claimed by any other family, nor in use by any other family.”

APPENDIX B

WILLIAM HILLS, EARLIEST EMIGRANT

(No. 1 OF THIS GENEALOGY.)

The difficulties of genealogical research in ancient records cannot be appreciated by any one who has not attempted to trace a remote ancestry. Fortunately in the settlement of English colonies in what is now the United States, the township was made the unit, and the town clerk a recording officer not only of the legislative proceedings of the municipality, but of such births, marriages and deaths as occurred within its limits, duly reported to him by his fellow townsmen. But even in New England where the old records are doubtless better than in any other part of the Union, so large a proportion of these important family events are not of record, and so many that were recorded have been lost by conflagrations and by the carelessness of their custodians, that, but for the records on which the title to property depends, found in registries of deeds and probate courts, successful research for descendants of the early settlers of the colonies, would, except in a very few families, be impossible. But with all helps available, the work of investigation is sufficiently difficult, to entitle a successful compiler of a work extended to the time of the living, to the grateful remembrance not only of his more or less distant relatives, but of all persons interested in genealogical research. But in Old England the quest for ancestors must proceed under still greater difficulties. There one cannot go to a city or town clerk, in whose custody should be practically all the vital statistics of his district freely open to inspection; but the investigator must recognize that the church and not the town is the municipal unit, and go from parish to parish, finding the records in charge of a rector or vicar, with authority to claim large fees for their examination; and when the cost has been met, would also find the older entries written in a script absolutely unreadable except to an expert in ancient chirography. There are no registries in England for the recording of real estate transactions;—the land of the country is owned by a comparatively few persons and its title deeds are in the keeping of their family lawyers. Its probate courts like its parish organizations were long under ecclesiastical control, and did not before the beginning of the nineteenth century, and probably do not now, demand of executors and administrators such a disclosure of the next of kin of a decedent, as is required in the States of our Union. What the language of a will does not reveal as to the relationship of those mentioned by the testator probably can be ascertained in but comparatively few cases by the proceedings that distribute his property. It was these conditions that led the editor while writing in the introduction of this work as to the almost absolute certainty of a common ancestor, not only of William Hills the head of the Connecticut branch and Joseph Hills the progenitor of the Massachusetts line, but to all born to the name in America, to say that: "The difficulty of tracing English pedigrees into the distant past is so great, it will be a matter of surprise as well as of congratulation if the ancestors who transmitted the name of Hills to the emigrants of New England and their descendants are discovered." Fortunately an old account book of Joseph, the emigrant of 1638, preserved among the descendants of a grandson, gave in 1895 the clew to the place of his birth and that of his own and his parents' marriage. But ten years of effort has not disclosed the nativity of those parents, and until the close of the winter of the current year, the parentage and birthplace of William, the emigrant of Connecticut, remained undiscovered. As early as June, 1898, the words that form the substance of that part of the introduction of this work relating to a common ancestry, were printed in the fourth annual report of the Hills Family Association. It is especially gratifying to the Editor that his reasoning and deductions from the then known facts, have been strongly supported by the discovery that the two emigrants of the seventeenth century from Essex County, in Old England, were born within eight miles of each other, Joseph, of Massachusetts in 1602, William, of Connecticut in 1608. Since October, 1896, Mr. Lothrop Withington, of Newburyport, an acknowledged expert genealogist, has been following his profession in England. The Hills Family Association has been of his clientage since that date. For some months after his arrival, his time was devoted to an effort for the discovery of the parentage of William, of Roxbury and Hartford and of George the father of Joseph, of Malden and Newbury. Subsequently an arrangement was made that gave the Association the advantage of his observation wherever he went for other clients, and, working under it, just in time to be incorporated in this work he fortunately found the all-important record of the marriage of the parents and birth of the earliest emigrant of the Hills name. His success was announced in a letter of which the following is an extract:

" 30 Little Russell Street, W. C.,
" London, 22 February, 1905.

" Mr. Thomas Hills, 157 K. Street,
" South Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

" DEAR MR. HILLS: At last I have important information to give you in regard to William Hills of Hartford and probably in regard to George father of Joseph Hills. Last Saturday I dug out of the old register of Upminster, Essex, the following entries:

" MARRIAGES:—1596, Oct. 16, Tho. Hills and Jane Scarborow.

" BAPTISMS:—1598, Sept. 17, Jane Hills.

1600, Oct. 12, Robarge Hills.

- 1601-2, April 6, Elizabeth Hills.
1603, April 8, Blanche Hylls.
1603-4, March 4, Marye Hills.
1606, June 1, Thomas Hills ye sonne of Thomas Hills and Jane his wife.
[The register is signed by Thomas Hills, churchwarden.]
1608, Dec. 27, William Hilles the sone of Thomas Hilles and Jane his wife.
1610-11, March 1, Anthony s. of Thomas Hill [s].

"As there is good reason to believe that William Hills, of Hartford, was born about the year 1609, as his first wife Phillis Lyman, was born in 1611, at High Ongar, as the nearest point of High Ongar to the nearest of Upminster, is only four miles, and as this is the first William Hills of the right date I have found from one end of Essex to the other, and as he had a brother Thomas as always supposed, there seems no valid reason for doubting that the above is the long sought William Hills of Hartford. . . . William Hills has appeared incidentally in the reports I sent you; viz., Arch deaconry of Essex No. e. 62, Will of Richard Hills of Hornchurch, 1623, where he gives the entail conditionally to William Hills son of Thomas Hills, of Upminster. Again Rabergia Hills, sister of William and Thomas, died intestate and unmarried in 1634, and administration was granted to a sister, Elizabeth Helder. If the brothers had gone off to New England in 1632, this is made quite natural. There are many other points of corroboration in the register which I will refer to later on. . . ."

In the opinion both of the compiler and editor, the genealogist could justly have used more positive language as to the identity of the infant baptized in Upminster in Dec., 1608, and the old man who died in Hartford or Hadley in 1683. In June, 1902, with the genealogical data published at that time as a prelude to this larger work, the evidence that the Thomas and William Hills, who lived in the family of the apostle Eliot, were brothers from Essex in Old England, was given in the record of the younger brother. Its form has been transferred to the second page of this publication. With High Ongar and Upminster only four miles apart, with William Hills twenty-three years old and Phillis Lyman, twenty years of age, when the Lymans emigrated to New England in 1631 and settled in Roxbury, it is more than probable that the young people were acquainted before the family emigration. It is certain that William was bound to service in the new settlement in 1632, and that Thomas followed his brother in the succeeding year. When the necessity arose for the appointment of an administrator for the estate of a sister, in the absence of the two brothers from Upminster, their sister Elizabeth had to act, where an adult brother would undoubtedly have served if living near the home of the deceased spinster. Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration the compiler and editor unite in saying that in their opinion the parentage and nativity of William Hills, of Roxbury and Hartford, has been determined beyond a reasonable doubt. When Mr. Withington's letter was received, it was necessary that existing business obligations should be met before the information it contained became a part of this work. A few of the descendants of the immigrant, who have taken a special interest in its publication, enabled the editor to make the record found in Upminster parish register a part of it. As the expert looks to each branch for a proper remuneration for any discovery in English records relating to it, an opportunity is open for the descendants of William of Hartford, to have him follow the clues that the Upminster records indicate, in an effort to trace their ancestry to a still earlier generation and possibly to the common ancestor. As Mr. Withington's address has for some years been that given in his letter, it will be easy to open a correspondence with him. The editor found in the Post Office Directory of the counties of Essex, Herts, Kent, Middlesex, Surry and Sussex (published, London, 1855), a description of the home of the parents of the head of the Connecticut branch; of interest doubtless to his descendants. "Upminster . . . a pleasant and healthy village on the Ingerbourn brook, situated on an eminence $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles southeast from Romford station, 6 north of Purfleet steamboat pier (on the Thames) and $15\frac{1}{2}$ miles from London. The parish contains 3,373 acres, and in 1851, the population was 1,228. . . . There are many fine plantations and pleasure grounds, handsome mansions, gentlemen's seats and farm houses in this parish. The living is a rectory in the diocese of Rochester. . . . The church dedicated to St. Lawrence, is a very ancient structure, and has a nave, chancel, south aisle and porch, a low massive tower covered with ivy, and three bells. Corbets Tey, one mile southeast, and Harton, one mile south, are hamlets of Upminster parish." English directories divide residents into two groups, the gentry and traders. In 1855, in Upminster, there were twenty-one of the former and forty-four of the latter class. In neither did the name Hill or Hills appear. Among the traders were included the village surgeon and twelve farmers. But the genealogist gives still other extracts from the records of the little parish:

"BAPTISMS:—1578, November 20, George Hills.

1583, November 20, — Hills.

1586-7, March 6, Ann Hills."

And on the possibility that the baptism of November 20, 1578, was that of the father of Joseph the emigrant of 1638, he says: "I think Thomas Hills was succeeded as churchwarden by the famous John Humfreys, brother-in-law of the Earl of Lincoln and Charter member of the Massachusetts Company. In this tiny parish also is the rare north country surname, Wiggleworth, suggesting Michael Wiggesworth, the famous minister of Joseph Hills in Malden, in New England. Also we have the uncommon name Cullick, that of the agent of Joseph Hills. . . . It seems rather a bold supposition to think a boy of 18 years, married a widow in 1596, but such a thing was not entirely unknown, as also the possibility of a child not being baptized until a few years old. Consequently the George Hills above may be the father of Joseph Hills. To my mind that he is a connection is something beyond question." The record at Great Burstead, of the marriage to which Mr. Withington alludes, reads, "George Hills, linen draper, and Mary Symonds, of Billericay, County Essex, widow of William Symonds, late of same, tanner, general license of the Bishop of London, 13 Oct., 1596." When the information reached the editor that the Essex county birthplace of William Hills had been discovered the question at once suggested was: What is the distance between Upminster and Great Burstead? In the Public Library of Boston, he found a valuable work entitled: "The Survey Atlas of England and Wales, Drawn, Engraved and Published. . . . Under the patronage of the Royal Geographical Society, 1903." Upon its pages the smallest hamlets were shown within the boundaries of the parishes of which they were a part. By its scale the air-line distance between the birthplace of William and that of Joseph was found to be eight miles; by the highway less than ten miles. Upminster was some six miles north of the Thames and the hamlet of St. Margaret Hills in Kent (where the name originated), is some four miles south of that river, the distance between the two locations in an air line being less than ten miles. The search for a common progenitor of the two early emigrants to New England, must be considered fairly localized.

APPENDIX C

SAMUEL HILLS OF REHOBOTH, MASS.

(No. 2033 OF THIS GENEALOGY.)

ADAPTED FROM THE SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT (JUNE, 1900) OF THE HILLS FAMILY GENEALOGICAL AND HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION.

In the early summer of 1899, invitations were sent by a committee of this association to all of the Hills name whose homes were known, to attend a reunion to be held in July of that year, at the Point of Pines, in Revere, Mass. A pleasant day was enjoyed by a numerous company. In the gathering was a father accompanied by his daughter, born and known as Hill, but who believed that in the early part of the nineteenth century their ancestor was known as Hills, and that he was a descendant of the English emigrant of 1638.

Among the traditions of their branch of the family was one to the effect that a common ancestor was of an unbroken line of Samuels, one of whom died March 14, 1833, and another that the Samuel, who died in Rehoboth, Mass., July 27, 1732, came from Newbury in that state.

Joseph Hills, the emigrant of 1638, is supposed to have lived in Newbury from the date of his marriage to Ann, the widow of Henry Lunt, in 1665; he died there in 1688. It is certain that he represented that town in the colonial legislature in 1667 and 1669.

All of his numerous descendants trace to him through one of his three sons: Joseph, Gershom or Samuel. Those from the oldest and youngest sons traced to the common ancestor exceed two thousand.

But few of the descendants of Gershom Hills can now be identified.

Samuel, the youngest of the three brothers, had two daughters and eleven sons, all of whom were born in Newbury.

As may be supposed many of our name trace their line through one of these sons to the emigrant and his second wife, Hannah Smith, who, when she took the Hills surname, was the widow of Edward Mellows.

But of Samuel, her eldest grandson, the only information in possession of the compiler or editor of this genealogy at the beginning of the closing year of the last century, was that stated in the fifth report (June, 1899), of the directors of the Hills Family Association; namely, that this Samuel "was born Feb. 16, 1680, and that he was mentioned as one of the nine sons who were living at the date of their father's will in 1732."

Assuming the tradition to be true that was brought to the compiler's knowledge at the reunion, it suggested that this Samuel, son of Samuel, might be one of that unbroken line that, originating in Newbury, became the progenitors of the branch to which the association's guests belonged, and which, if the record of an old family Bible is taken as conclusive, for five generations had been known as one of the numerous families of Hill.

As the result of the most important research the abstracts of Bristol County, Mass., have enabled the compiler to make, it can be stated that the suggestion based on this assumption has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt to be a fact.

The line starts with Joseph Hills, who left Maldon in England in 1638, and, after a brief stay in Charlestown, settled in Malden,* Mass., which was the place of his home till his marriage in Newbury to widow Ann Lunt, March 8, 1665. Samuel, his son, born in Malden in 1652, married Abigail Wheeler, of Newbury, May 20, 1679, and died in that town August 18, 1732.

Samuel, his son, was born in Newbury, February 16, 1680. The given name of his wife was Ann; her parentage, home and date of marriage are unknown. This Samuel was of Swansey in 1708, at which date he bought land in Rehoboth, where he lived till his death, July 27, 1732.

His son, Lieutenant Samuel, was born in Rehoboth, Feb. 19, 1714, married Deborah Cushing, Nov. 13, 1739, and died in the place of his birth, Nov. 12, 1758.

His son Samuel, was born in Rehoboth, Feb. 14, 1740. Married, as appears by the family Bible record that has been referred to, on Jan. 8, 1766, Rhoda Phillips, of Smithfield, Rhode Island, and died March 14, 1833.

Leaving out the references to book and page of the many records that form the chain of evidence that justifies the conclusion that the descendants of Samuel and Rhoda Hills, now generally known as Hill, can claim the emigrant of 1638 as their ancestor, the story and argument are here given.

Rehoboth in Massachusetts, part of which by a change in the boundary line is now in Rhode Island, originally included Seekonk, Pawtucket, Attleborough, Cumberland and a part of Swansey and Barrington.

Gershom Hills, son of the emigrant Joseph born in 1639, died before February 15, 1721, at which date, as appears by Middlesex County Records, the homestead in Malden he received as a gift from his father was sold to his nephew Ebenezer Hills by "Abraham Skinner and Tabitha, his wife, Benjamin Hills and Mary, his wife, all of Malden, Samuel Palmer and Mary, his wife, of Rowley, in the County of Essex, John Chaffe and Sarah, his wife, Joseph Chaffe of Barrington, and John Tomson of Rehoboth, all in the Province of Massachusetts Bay."

John Chaffe of Swansey and Sarah Hills were married in that town July 17, 1700. Joseph Chaffe of Swansey, a brother of John, and Abi-

* Since that part of this work relating to the emigrant of 1638 was in type, Mr. D. P. Corey of Malden, a descendant of Joseph Hills, has placed a memorial stone on what was for nearly thirty years the site of his ancestors' dwelling. It is near the public Library of the city at the corner of Salem and Main Streets.

The old house was demolished about 1837. Street widenings have put its exact location in the highway, on the north side of Malden Square, where its foundations were uncovered by an excavation in 1888.

gail Hills of Malden were married in the last named town January 4, 1709, and it is evident from the homestead sale that a third daughter of Gershom Hills, who had been the wife of John Tomson of Rehoboth, and her sister Abigail, had died before the Malden estate was sold.

The settlement in southeastern Massachusetts of these granddaughters of the English emigrant, and the fact that their families remained in the neighborhood of their original location, seems to have had a marked influence in drawing relatives who were also descendants of Joseph of Malden and Newbury to that vicinity.

In 1699, Jabez Hills was born in Malden. He was of the fourth generation, the son of Samuel and grandson of Joseph junior, the brother of Gershom Hills. He settled in that part of Wrentham now the town of Franklin, where his son Jabez was born in 1727. This last named Jabez married Margaret Fisher of Wrentham, January 9th, 1752, and three of their children were born in that town prior to 1758. In that year he removed to a farm through which passed the boundary line between Rehoboth and Pawtucket. Five of his children were born there before his death, December 6, 1768.

The records show that Ebenezer, a brother of the younger Jabez, bought and sold land in Swansey in 1761. Others who appear to have been descendants of the English emigrant of 1638, are known to have been in Rehoboth and vicinity in the first half of the eighteenth century.

These statements are sufficient to warrant the assumption that Samuel Hills, starting out from Newbury as a young man to locate for his life work, would be naturally attracted to the spot where his cousins had settled. But while this assumption will doubtless be generally accepted, more evidence is needed to connect the Samuel Hills, born in Newbury in 1680, with the Samuel who was of Swansey and Rehoboth in 1708.

In our day, of thousands of the Hills name who have been brought to the notice of either the compiler or editor of this work, all, whose ancestors came to America before the close of the eighteenth century, with the exception of one branch, the earliest representative of which left Old for New England in 1794, trace their ancestry either to William of Roxbury and Hartford, the emigrant of 1632, or to Joseph of Malden and Newbury, the emigrant of 1638.

William was probably unmarried when he landed at Boston. It is certain that he left Massachusetts and settled at Hartford, Connecticut, in 1635 or 1636. Many of his descendants now reside in that state, and in the Connecticut river valley of New England. Very few of them can be found in eastern Massachusetts.

It is certain that the settler of Rehoboth of 1708, was not his son. His boys were William, John, Joseph, Benjamin and Jonathan.

Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, says that John married at Saybrook, Connecticut, April 14, 1670, and had Samuel, born May 29, 1671.

The suggestion that this Samuel, when thirty-seven years old, might have settled in Rehoboth is met by the statement that after his return to Connecticut, fifteen years subsequent to the death of Samuel of Swansey and Rehoboth, he made a deposition dated at Lebanon, March 27, 1747, which is now on file in one of our Suffolk County Courts. In that deposition "being seventy-six years old," he states that he "lived at Duxbury till about twenty" years before its date—no doubt from the time of his marriage, November 6, 1694, to Phebe Leonard of that town, as Samuel, his third child, was born there, June 25, 1701.

Saybrook is on Long Island Sound and Duxbury on Massachusetts Bay. Communication by coasting vessels between the ports of the New England colonies was undoubtedly frequent. It is easy to understand that a grandson of the emigrant of 1632 might make a voyage and remain to live with his "father-in-law, Philip Leonard."

It is not impossible that among the children of William, Joseph, Benjamin or Jonathan there was a Samuel, who may have emigrated from Connecticut to Massachusetts. But we have no knowledge of any other Samuel among the grandsons of William, the English emigrant; and an abandonment by a young man, in the early part of the eighteenth century, of a settlement in the valley of the Connecticut for one in an inland town in southeastern Massachusetts is in the last degree improbable.

Confining the search for Samuels to the descendants of the emigrant Joseph, it must be admitted that it is not impossible that his son Gershom may have had a son of that name. His home was in Malden, certainly as late as 1709. Presumably he resided there till his death, and there all of his children were born. The vital records of that town are far from perfect. If Gershom had a son Samuel his birth was not recorded. His sons of whom we have knowledge were Ebenezer and Benjamin.

It is certain that no son Samuel, or the children of one of that name, are of record as entitled to an interest in the division of his estate.

As the emigrant of 1638 had but three sons who (as shown in the fifth report of the Hills Family Association, June, 1899), could transmit his name, it follows that the Rehoboth settler of 1708 was the son or grandson of Joseph or of his younger half-brother Samuel, of Newbury. Joseph Hills, the junior, had a son Samuel, born in Malden in 1669, but he died in Dorchester, January 7, 1704, and his son Samuel was not born until 1702.

But one Samuel of proper age to be the head of a family of whose existence at the opening of the eighteenth century any record can be shown remains to be disposed of, namely, Samuel (son of Samuel), born at Newbury, February 16, 1680.

As the means of transmitting information existed two hundred years ago, it is evident that his father thought he was at a distance from his native place when he made his will on the fifth day of August, 1732. In that instrument he is referred to as among those sons who were then living, and there is no indication among the papers in the Essex County Court that, when the will was probated on the eleventh of September, following, any of the family knew that he had died at Rehoboth on the preceding twenty-seventh of July. There is room for but one other doubt. Did any of his ten brothers who lived to manhood and married have a son Samuel, who by any possibility could have been the settler at Rehoboth? That question can be determined without reference to the lists of their children. Samuel was the eldest of his father's sons, and was but twenty-eight years old when he bought his home farm in southeastern Massachusetts.

It would seem to be beyond question that the Samuel Hills, who was born in Newbury, February 16, 1680, was the Samuel Hills, whose death July 27, 1732, is recorded as having occurred at Rehoboth.

It remains to consider if the branch of the family, now known as Hill, who trace their ancestry to this ancient town are his descendants.

Assuming Samuel Hills to have been their ancestor, their line to his grandfather, the English emigrant, has been given; and reference to an old family Bible record has been made, in which their ancestors of the fifth and sixth generations are all recorded by the surname, Hill. This record as copied by the editor is here given in full. Under its heading of "Births and Deaths," are the following entries, all of which, except a few of the later dates of deaths, are in one handwriting of most excellent penmanship:

The present possessor of this valuable record is a grandson of that one of this numerous family who was known as George Hill, and transmitted that surname to his descendants. It was he who with his daughter was present at the invitation of the Hills Family Association at the reunion of July, 1899, told of the family traditions and gave its president permission to inspect the old Bible.

The whole question as to the name being properly Hill or Hills hinges upon the true name of the father, whose name heads the list as having been born in Rehoboth, February 14, 1740, and who, as appears by Arnold's vital record of the town, was born there, the son of Samuel and Deborah Hill. If he could speak his descendants would ask no better evidence than his own statement. But he has left better evidence than oral statement.

The fine Oxford edition of the Book of Books shown to the editor by his great-great-granddaughter, bears the imprint of the University Press of 1783. It is in three volumes, the New Testament being the third. Its condition warrants the statement that it must have been carefully kept by its original possessor and its custodians since his death. Upon the title page of the first volume beginning "The Holy Bible," the first word forms the first line and the other two the second. On the left of the article "The" appears the word Samuel, on the right the word Hills.

The writing, evidently an autograph, indicates ownership. There is no doubt about the final "s." It cannot by any stretch of the imagination be taken for a flourish. The sign manual is vertical penmanship, engrossing style.

Who, then, among his children would change not only his own name, but undertake to change that of all his brothers and sisters and their descendants, by dropping the final letter of the surname in making what would be considered in the family the authoritative record?

In the opinion both of the compiler and editor the responsibility for the change must rest with the fifth in the unbroken line of Samuels, who was born in 1767, and died in 1831. Upon the fly leaf of the second volume of the Oxford Bible, in sloping letters, with flourishes that show remarkable skill in the handling of the quill pen, which was the only implement for such writing in his lifetime, appears the undoubted autograph of Samuel Hill, and below it the word Smithfield, to indicate the place of his residence. The skillful penmanship of the family record, marred only by the insertion of dates subsequent to his death indicates him as the recorder; and the inquiry resolves itself into the question: Which autograph correctly spells the family surname, that of the father or that of the son?

Waiving the conclusion that the son could not legally change the name to which he was born without act of the legislature, what is the evidence?

First as to that which is printed and easy of access. The vital records of Rehoboth, by James M. Arnold, published in 1897, which gives the record of births for all dates preceding 1800, presumably copied from the town records as written, would indicate that there had never been a family of Hills in the place. The printed surname is Hill in every case. But in numerous instances the infants, born Hill by the record, at later dates are married and die as Hills. But, confining attention solely to the direct line of Samuels, their wives and children, this evidence is of record.

In the vital records of Rehoboth, the only entries relating to Samuel of the third generation who came to that town from Newbury by way of Swanzey in 1708, or of his wife Ann, except in connection with the birth of their children, are those of their deaths, that of the husband in 1732, that of his widow in 1747. In both entries the decedents are of record as Hills.

Lieutenant Samuel, their son, appears by the printed work to have been born Hill in February, 1714, marries Deborah Cushing as Hills, and carries the final "s" to his grave in November, 1758.

Seven years preceding his death that of his wife occurred, and is of record as that of Deborah, wife of Samuel Hills.

Samuel, the son of the Lieutenant, the first owner of the old Bible, Arnold's work says, was born Hill, December 14, 1740. The Bible record says 12th month (February), 1740, O.S. As he married in Smithfield and removed from the town, it contains no further record of him.

Turning now to recorded manuscript a very strong statement can be made. The registries of Bristol County show that it was Samuel Hills who bought his home farm in 1708. At his death in 1732, it was his widow, Ann Hills, who administered an estate of nine hundred and twenty-five pounds; and the original papers show that at different dates she signed her bond as administratrix, and her account, as Ann Hills. In a petition dated September, 1739, for the guardianship of three of the minor children, Benjamin, Phebe and William, although the person who drew the paper recited that they were the children of "Samuel Hill, late of Rehoboth," the signatures of both brothers and their sister show the final "s."

In 1752, Benjamin again comes under guardianship as a "distracted" person. In the application to the court his brothers Samuel and James sign their surname as Hills. A year and a half passes, and the ward, having been restored to sanity, receipts for the return of his property as Benjamin Hills. Six months later at his death in June, 1754, the clerks insist that the family name is Hill, but his widow signs her bond as administratrix, Elizabeth Hills. In the appointment of appraisers of the estate, the scribes yield a little and write the surname Hills in the body of the document.

When Lieutenant Samuel died, November 12, 1758, his estate was duly probated and his brother, as a witness, signs some of the papers as James Hills. In this connection as tending to show relationship between this Samuel and the Chaffees, whose children were undoubtedly descendants of Gershom Hills, his father's uncle; it is interesting to note that the administrator of the Lieutenant's estate asks to be allowed certain sums paid to "Mrs. Eunice Chaffee," and to "William Chaffee."

In February, 1759, dower was set off to Sarah Hills, as widow of Lieutenant Samuel. This was as it should have been, for as Samuel Hills, in Swansey, June 14, 1752, he had married Sarah Harden. In this instrument the clerical work conformed to the facts.

One more step and the records connect with the original owner of the Bible.

A petition for guardianship dated August 17, 1759, has the following opening sentence: "I, Samuel Hills, son of Samuel Hills, late of Rehoboth, being a minor above the age of fourteen years," (he was born February 14, 1740), and the signature is Samuel Hills.

But when the division of his father's estate was made in May, 1762; those charged with the "setting off," (with as strict impartiality it is hoped in the distribution as in the bestowal of surnames), gave a portion "to eldest son, Samuel Hill"; another "to eldest daughter, Sarah Hills"; a third "to youngest daughter, Anna Hills"; and closed the transaction by endowing "the youngest son, Comfort Hill," with the remainder.

The files of the Probate Court of Bristol give further evidence that the family name originating in Rehoboth is of right Hills, not Hill. In not a single instance has an original signature been found of a descendant of the settler of 1708, who wrote his surname in any other manner than as Hills, till the autograph of Samuel of the sixth generation appears as Hill on the blank leaf of one of the volumes of the old family Bible that bore upon its title page that of his father—Samuel Hills.

It would seem impossible to come to any other conclusion than that all who claim Samuel, the first owner of the Oxford Bible of 1783, as ancestor, are descendants of George and Mary Hills, who were married in Great Burstead, Billericay, Essex, England, October 13, 1596, and whose son Joseph emigrated to New England in 1638, and died at Newbury fifty years later.

APPENDIX D

AMOS AND AGIFT HILLS OF FARMINGTON, CONN.

(Nos. 161 AND 162 OF THIS GENEALOGY.)

ADAPTED FROM THE TENTH ANNUAL REPORT (JUNE, 1904) OF THE HILLS FAMILY GENEALOGICAL AND HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION.

In his compilation of the Connecticut branch of our name our senior director found a considerable number of descendants of an Agift Hills, and still more numerous lines of offspring whose earliest recognized progenitor of our surname was known as Amos. The residence of their young manhood and their connections clearly indicated that both were of the Connecticut branch, and the date of their birth about the middle of the eighteenth century; but no one of their numerous descendants could give even the names of their parents. Around them began to gather the unreliable and misleading traditions which generally attach to ancestral lines where definite information is wanting. One grandson wrote: "Grandfather Agift Hills with three brothers came over from England. Agift settled in Connecticut, one in Philadelphia, and two in Massachusetts." When the work preliminary to this publication, "Genealogical Data" of five generations of descendants of the two earlier emigrants from Old to New England was printed in 1902, on a page at the end of the genealogy of William Hills, under a heading "Wanted" prominently displayed, was published an abstract of the important known incidents of the lives of Amos and Agift Hills, and information was asked relating to their ancestry and descendants. The call brought some additions to the list of their previously known descendants, but nothing that could indicate their parentage. But so numerous were those whose ancestral lines ended with them, and so earnest was the desire of many of these great-grandchildren to trace their direct line back to the English emigrant, that a special effort was made by the committee for the genealogy of the family, to ascertain which of the great-grandsons of the emigrant William, was the father of this Amos and this Agift of the fifth generation.

From published works, from abstracts of land and probate records and shreds and patches of information a result was obtained that justified the directors of the family association in placing their names and those of their descendants as the children and grandchildren of David, of the fourth generation, who was born in Farmington, Hartford County, Conn., September 15, 1716 and died, doubtless, in what was the home of his old age, in Berlin (a town set off from Farmington in 1785), after June, 1790. The genealogy of the younger of the two brothers may be recorded as follows:

Amos⁵ (David⁴, Joseph³, William², William¹), b. East Hartford, 1745 (American Ancestry, Vol. X., page 29, states that he was born January, 1745); d. Farmington, Hartford Co., April 9, 1813, aged 68. Married, 1773, Rachel Lewis, of Middletown, Middlesex Co., Conn., b. Middletown, August, 1750, d. Oct. 4, 1818. The proof that he was son of David⁴ is found in the following statement.

He was sixty-eight years old when he died in 1813. His birth year may therefore be put as of 1745. The land records of Farmington show that he bought land in that town in 1770, and sold land in 1776. At both those dates the deeds recite that he was a resident of that town. At the time of his birth and for many years thereafter but one branch of the Hills family was located in Farmington, which adjoins and is west of what is now the city of Hartford. Joseph Hills³ (William², William¹), was born in East Hartford in 1683. He married Abigail Noyes and settled in Farmington where all his thirteen children were born, and where he died September 23, 1751. He had sons Joseph, Abraham, James, Gideon, Ebenezer, David, Jonathan, Moses and William. When Amos Hills bought land in Farmington in December, 1770, the estate that bounded his lot on the east was that of Moses Hills. He married in East Hartford in 1773, Rachel Lewis, who was born in Middletown in 1750. His death but not his birth record, is in Farmington. From these facts the inference may be drawn that, born the son of one of the sons of Joseph, of Farmington, in anticipation of his marriage he buys land to live among his nearest relatives, purchasing from Obadiah Andrews the estate next that of his uncle Moses. An old Bible record made by his daughter Katherine, who was born in Farmington, March 3, 1788, gives his marriage as that of "Amos of East Hartford and Farmington," both that record and that of the church of the town gives the date of his death as April 9, 1813, and the church record gives his age at that date as sixty-eight years. A great-granddaughter who furnished the compiler a copy of the Bible and church records, adds to her statement: "I suppose him to be a grandson of Joseph, of Farmington." Of the sons of that Joseph, the eldest was Joseph, born in 1709. We know by his will that he had but one son, Higanson Hills, living at the time of his death in 1771. Of Abraham, we know that his son Gideon was born in February, 1745. Of James, who was born in 1713; Gideon, born in 1714 and Ebenezer the fifth son, we know that they were not living and not represented by descendants when their father's estate was settled in 1751. Jonathan was born in 1721. He was twenty-four years old when Amos Hills was born. We know he was living in Farmington at the date of his father's death, and no record of his marriage has been found. We know that Moses, born in 1723, was not married until 1748, and William born in 1727, was but eighteen years old in 1745. It is impossible that either of these sons of Joseph of the third generation, except Jonathan, could have been the father of Amos who was born in 1745, and the possibility that Jonathan was his father, is exceedingly remote. It only remains to consider if there is evidence enough to add to what has already been stated, which considered as a whole, will prove that David, who was born in 1716, the sixth son of Joseph, of Farmington was the father of Amos Hills.

Concerning him no family records have been found other than those of the baptism in East Hartford in 1748, of his daughter Susannah; his residence from about 1753 in Farmington; the birth of his son George in 1760 and the death of his daughter Susannah in that town in 1763. That in his young manhood he was of Hartford, may also be inferred from the fact that in April, 1751, John Hossington sold to David Hills, of Hartford, forty acres of land, with dwelling house in Farmington, and also by a conveyance of Moses and William Hills, sons of Joseph, to David Hills, of Farmington, in March, 1753, of three acres of land in that town "adjoining other land of said David;" and the identity of the David, who was of Hartford and later of Farmington is put beyond doubt, by the conveyance of February 26, 1761, by Joseph, his elder brother, to his "brother David Hills, of Farmington" of all his right in the real estate of his brother William Hills deceased; and also by a conveyance in April, 1751, of David Hills, of Hartford to "my [his] brother Moses Hills, of Farmington" of twelve acres "of that lotment of land in Kensington parish, Farmington, I bought of John Hossington." Not only do these real estate transactions show that David Hills was of Hartford as late as 1751, but he so appears of record in the settlement of his father's estate in that year, and although he was undoubtedly of Farmington soon after that date, he was a landholder in Hartford until 1757, when as a resident of the place of his birth, he sold his estate of one hundred and thirty-eight acres and a mansion house in East Hartford, to Stephen Cone, of Bolton. In June, 1790, as a resident of Berlin, a town south of the Farmington of to-day but a part of it until 1785, jointly with Anna Hills his wife and Roger Hart, his stepson, he conveyed land to Oliver Hamlin, of Farmington.

And so it appears that David Hills, born in Farmington in 1716, was of Hartford for several years before and during the year 1751; that he returned to the town of his nativity after that date: and it also appears that he was the only member of the Farmington branch of the family, with the exception of his brother Jonathan, who could have been the father of Amos Hills in 1745. That Jonathan was not his father is determined by the fact that Amos was living in 1813; that Jonathan died before December 8, 1790, at which date administration was taken upon his estate, and that no reference in the probate proceedings discloses that he was, or had been, the father of any one. All these facts taken in connection with the absence of a birth record of Amos Hills in Farmington, where all the sons of Joseph of that town were born and where the surviving brothers of David were living in 1751; and the fact that that David was the only one of the sons of Joseph who was living away from Farmington in 1745, proves, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Amos Hills, was born in East Hartford in that year, the son of David who was the son of Joseph of the third generation, William², William¹.

Although the circumstantial evidence that Agift Hills was the son of the David who was born in Farmington in 1716, is not quite as strong as that which has been recited to prove that Amos Hills was the son of that David, such evidence as has been obtained will, in the opinion of the compiler and the editor, justify the following genealogical record:

AGIFT⁵ (David⁴, Joseph³, William², William¹), b. East Hartford about 1743; d. Parma Corners, Monroe Co., N. Y., aged 82. Married, Farmington, Hartford Co., Conn., February 25, 1768, Eunice Lee.

The year 1743, has been adopted as the approximate date of his birth from the fact that his name appears as a witness to a deed in April, 1767, that his marriage was in 1768, and that he was a grantor of Farmington lands as early as April, 1770. One of his grandsons reported that he died at Parma Corners; from another correspondent it was learned that he was eighty-two years old at the time of his death, but the date of that event was not given, and correspondence with the recording officer of the district in which that place is located failed to obtain it. Other evidence, however, seems to make it clear that he was next older or younger than his brother who was born in 1745. As a result of much investigation it has been determined from facts that will be stated and deductions therefrom, that he was of the fifth generation from the English emigrant, the son of David and the grandson of Joseph Hills, of Farmington. His father was born in Farmington in 1716, but he was of Hartford or East Hartford, for some years prior to 1751, certainly as early as June 22, 1748, when his daughter Susannah was baptized in the church at East Hartford. He was a landholder in that town until 1757. In April, 1751, he bought land and a dwelling house in Farmington and soon after he was described in deeds as of that place. He doubtless thereafter resided in that town, or in some of the towns set off from old Farmington, for some forty years. Keusington parish of the old town became a part of the new town of Berlin in 1785. Until 1779, Farmington included Southington, nearly the whole of New Britain and Berlin, Bristol, Burlington, Avon, Plainville and parts of Wolcott, Harwinton and Bloomfield. (History of Hartford County, vol. 2.)

William Hills, the emigrant, settled in Hartford in 1635 and from that centre his descendants located in neighboring towns. His grandson Joseph settled in Farmington about 1708. No part of the territory then included within its lines is more than twenty miles from the centre of what has become the City of Hartford. That it is almost certain that he was the progenitor of all of the name who were born or lived in the new settlement, may be inferred from the fact that in the record made of five generations of the emigrant, not one of his descendants was found to have been born, married or died, in Farmington, who was not the child or grandchild of this Joseph of the third generation. A fair deduction from these facts would place Agift Hills with the Farmington branch of the family. He sold his Farmington estate, November 26, 1771. He was probably of Simsbury in the same county in May, 1777, when on the 24th of that month with eight others he agreed to "raise and equip one good team for each" and enter the military service of the State for the term of six months. Assuming that he was of the Farmington branch of the family, the statement that proved his brother Amos to be the son of David, by showing that he could not have been the child of any other son of the Joseph of the third generation, applies with equal force to the case of Agift, with only this exception; that as no record of the birth of a child of Abraham, the second son of Joseph, has been found, between May 3, 1739 and February 18, 1745, it is possible that Agift may have been his son. But if such is the fact, the birth was not recorded with those of his brothers and sisters in the town where his father was born, married, and which was the birthplace of his six children. The exact dates of their births, and of the marriage of Abraham their father to Elizabeth Hodgkins their mother are known and have been copied from the Farmington records. The possibility that Agift Hills was the son of Abraham and Elizabeth Hills is exceedingly remote, and he has been placed by the compiler in the list of descendants of the emigrant through David of the fourth generation (Joseph³, William², William¹).

APPENDIX E

DANIEL HILLS OF NORTHFIELD, N. H.

(No. 2124 OF THIS GENEALOGY.)

ADAPTED FROM THE NINTH ANNUAL REPORT (JUNE, 1903) OF THE HILLS FAMILY GENEALOGICAL AND HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION.

Before the publication of the "genealogical data" continued in the eighth (1902) report of the above-named association its senior director, its compiler, had succeeded in tracing the lines of the eleven grandsons of Joseph Hills, the emigrant, who were sons of Samuel of the second generation. But the record that was least satisfactory was that relating to Daniel, the tenth son. It was published in that preliminary work substantially as follows: "Daniel³ (Samuel², Joseph¹), born Newbury, Mass., December 8, 1700. Removed from Nottingham West, N. H., to Halifax, Nova Scotia, about 1754; married (published Newbury, December 5, 1724) Elizabeth Riggs, of Gloucester, Mass." The only children of this marriage of whom record was found were daughters Ruth and Abigail, born in Newbury; the elder February 5, 1726, her sister, May 10, 1728. Circumstances that will be stated in this connection have caused a special search to be made for all the facts that were of record, in relation to the head of this family. In 1733, he conveyed land in Newbury to his brother Joseph. In 1740, he sold an estate which was situated in Litchfield, N. H., located between estates of his brothers Nathaniel and Henry, to his nephew Joseph Hills, Jr. What, in the publication of 1902, was accepted as authority for the statement that he removed to Halifax, was a conveyance dated July 19, 1753, of certain lands in "West Nottingham, formerly in the township of Dunstable." In that deed the grantor recited that he was "Daniel Hills of Halifax, in the County of Halifax, in the Province of Nova Scotia, in America, but late of Newbury, in the County of Essex." These abstracts of his real-estate transactions indicate a sale of his Newbury home, a temporary residence in New Hampshire where two of his brothers had settled, and, taken in connection with his military record, that he was of a roving disposition, not only in his early manhood but in middle life. That record shows that he was one of the New England soldiers that captured Louisburg in 1745, and that from March, 1748 to September, 1749, with the rank of captain, he was in command of a detached company in His Majesty's service. The muster rolls of his command written by him, are authenticated by his signature, and are duly attested. In them he gives his residence as of Newbury, to which place he doubtless returned from New Hampshire. It is possible that his family were with him in Nova Scotia in 1753, but as he was again in military service with a Massachusetts company in February, 1756, it is much more probable that his duty as a soldier required his presence in Halifax, and that the misleading statements of the deed of July 19, 1753, can be attributed to the scribe who drew the instrument.

In the autumn of 1755, Richard Gridley, who twenty years later planned the redoubt on Bunker Hill, was requested by the Massachusetts House of Deputies, "for the necessity of the service to assist them" by commanding the Colony's train of artillery in the second expedition against Crown Point. By the "express" that was "immediately dispatched to him for his answer," he replied that he would accept the commission. In June, 1756, he was at Albany "drilling his men. He was not supplied with provisions or with tools; his ammunition was unfit for use; his gun carriages were constantly breaking." It was doubtless the expectation that transportation of his guns would strain or break their supports that led Colonel Gridley to enlist "artificers" for their repair. In that capacity Daniel Hills performed his last military service. His name was high upon the company's muster roll, with wages about twice those of the rank and file. When, in the early winter of that year, the train returned to the sea coast, its leader, as "Chief Engineer and Commander of ye train," under date of February 16, 1757, made his final report.

In the tabulated list appears the name of Daniel Hills, with rank as carpenter. Under the heading "Entered service," the date is February 18th; under that "Until what time in service," October 28. The reason that he was released earlier than his comrades, is given in a vacant column, in a single word, "died."

During the winter of 1903, a lady whose father and grandfather were known, respectively, as Henry and Warren Hill, was in correspondence, first with the President of the Hills Family Association and then with its senior director, the compiler of the genealogical publication of the preceding year. Her object was to discover, if possible, her remote ancestry, and especially to ascertain if the tradition in her family that their true surname was Hills, had a foundation of fact. She stated that her grandfather's father was named Timothy, and that in 1812, a colonel's commission was issued to him as Timothy Hills; and that he was the son of a Daniel, who came from Salisbury, Mass., to Northfield, N. H., where he died, some time after the 16th of December, 1794, the date of his will.*

It has long been known to those connected with the family association that on July 10, 1846, by an act of the legislature of New Hampshire, thirty-nine persons, twenty-two men and boys (one of whom was named Warren) and seventeen women and girls, had their surnames changed

* Under date of Oct. 14, 1905, one of his descendants wrote the compiler, "I was greatly surprised to find in an old bible only a day or two since the death of Daniel Hills, March 23, 1813; Hannah his wife, May 6, 1814. He is the one who wrote the 'will.' We cannot find where they were buried."

from Hills to Hill. For future reference their names are given in a footnote to this page.*

The natural inference that in the Warren who dropped the "s" from his surname we find the grandfather of the lady correspondent, is met by the fact that the father of that Warren was named Elijah, and that he was not a resident of Northfield.

There can be no question that Captain Daniel Hills died October 28, 1756. It is equally certain that there was a Daniel Hills, who was of Newbury in December, 1756, when his intention of marriage with Hannah Emery was posted in that town; and also on the 10th of May, 1757, when, as the record of the town clerk states, he was married. That the young couple continued to reside in Newbury appears from the fact that under date of June 10, 1757, Daniel Hills is returned as one of the train band of that town. The compiler's record of the Newbury branch of the family at that date is sufficiently clear to justify the statement that, if the husband of Hannah Emery was born in Newbury, he was the son of Daniel and Elizabeth (Riggs) Hills. The fact that his birth is not recorded in that town suggests that he was born during the residence of the family in New Hampshire.

But wherever the place of his nativity, there could be no question as to his parentage, but for a record made by a Captain Daniel Hills in 1749. The muster rolls of the detachments he commanded show that the service of the company was in what was then the wilds of Maine; with headquarters first at Gorhamtown, afterwards at New Marblehead; places now known as Otisfield and Windham; some fifteen or twenty miles northwest from Portland.

Both rolls are in the handwriting of the captain. The first is dated January 8, 1749, and contains the name of Daniel Hills, Junior, with a rank as "Centinal," and a term of service from May 1st to December 4th, 1748. The place of residence of the young soldier is given as "Ditton." The second sheet is dated July 12, 1749. It repeats the previous record as to name and rank, dates the entrance to the service December 5th, its end as December 25th, 1748, and states that this junior was of "Dyton," and that he had received "noe pay or subsistance since ye 5th of Deem." When the editor, as President of the Hills Family Association, wrote the report of its directors in 1903, taking into consideration the fact that descendants of Captain Daniel's elder brother Samuel were residents of

* Abijah, Albert K., Alden, Amos, Amanda J., Betsey, Charles W., Daniel C., Edward, Eliza A., Elizabeth J., Franklin A., George E., George P., Granville, Hannah A., Harriet, Joseph A., Justin E., Lucinda S., Mary, Mary F., Nancy C., Oliver, Reuben, Robert D., Rachel, Rebecca H., Ruth, Sarah J., Susan B., Thomas, Warren and William, were of the town of Hudson; and Alonzo, Asa S., Betsey, Hannah and Jonathan were of the adjoining town of Litchfield. It is gladly added that by the same method that removed the final "s" from their surnames, some, whose names are in this list, had it restored.

Rehoboth and Swansea, adjoining towns to Dighton, he was of opinion that the young sentinel was perhaps a grandson of that brother.

But subsequent investigation has satisfied him that he was not the nephew but the son of the Captain, credited for a consideration to the quota of Dighton, by a custom that has obtained in all wars in which New England troops have been engaged. Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration, it seems to be clear beyond a reasonable doubt, that the Daniel Hills who married Hannah Emery in May, 1757, was the son of Daniel and Elizabeth (Riggs) Hills.

The lady whose correspondence with the president and senior director of the family association caused the special investigation that led to this conclusion, furnished a copy of the will of her ancestor Daniel, a list of his children, and the statement that he came from Salisbury, Mass., to Northfield, in New Hampshire.

The only error was in the concluding statement. Leaving Newbury, Daniel Hills went to Haverhill, where he was first assessed as a resident in 1758. His name was evidently added after the valuation list had been made up for that year. Salisbury, Amesbury, Merrimack and Haverhill, in the order named, lie between the New Hampshire line and the Merrimack River; Salisbury being at the mouth of the stream that separates these towns from the municipalities bounded northerly by the river. In the eighteenth century the little town of Merrimack had no existence. Amesbury, some seven miles long, was between the other two towns. The ancient records of the assessors of Haverhill are in a dilapidated condition, and the books covering some years cannot be found. But a valuation of the property of Daniel Hills for the year 1786 is of record.

From 1775, all his assessments were in the name of Captain Daniel. The city clerk of Haverhill has a record of the birth of the four sons and two daughters of Daniel and Hannah (Emery) Hills; Daniel, the eldest, born May 12, 1758; John, the youngest, June 15, 1770. Before the family removed from Haverhill to Northfield the names of sons Daniel and David were added to the list of the town's taxable inhabitants.

The identification of the Northfield, N. H., branch of the Hills family seems to be complete, and the right of its members to the final "s" in their surname must be deemed to be established.

INTRODUCTION TO INDEXES

An index to a family history is often a puzzle to those unaccustomed to genealogical research. That that which follows may be understood by all who use it and especially that it may be a help to the young sons and daughters who are or shall be born to the name of Hills, the editor explains its construction.

For those born to the name the genealogy is divided into three sections. Its first division is that of the three branches whose emigrant ancestors came to America before the close of the eighteenth century. Its index numbers from 1 to 4200. The first of the three branches, that of the descendants of William who settled in Connecticut, includes all below 2000; those of the second branch, that of which Joseph of Malden and Newbury in Massachusetts was the progenitor, all between 2000 and 4000; and the third branch, that of the descendants of Robert of Wye in Kent, England, (through Boston, Massachusetts, immigrants) those between 4000 and 4200. The second division is that of partial lines. It is made of branches of more than two generations, the earliest known ancestor of which could not be identified as English born, or having been born in England has been a recent immigrant. Its numbers run between 4200 and 4929. The third division is that of a supplementary list of names wholly from the Connecticut branch. Important information having been received after designating numbers had been given to all known descendants of the immigrant of 1632, the names of those not known to the editor when their ancestors were numbered, could only be consecutively designated by giving to them numbers higher than any used in the first two divisions. This supplementary list includes descendants of Samuel (101); Adino (433); Amasa (453); Sylvester (253) and his son William (571); Henry (713); Myron J. (961) and Hilamon S. (987). Its highest number is 5005. The figures used in connection with the names of this index have no reference to the pages of the work of which it forms a part. Only those born Hills are numbered.

What is known of others who are ancestors, husbands, wives, grandchildren, sons and daughters-in-law can be found in connection with the Hills born from whom they have descended or with whom they have married. A division of the index entitled "Persons who married Hills" has been made for those who have married into the family; which follows that of the Hills name. It is followed by a third division, a list of collateral connections, which gives with others, the surnames of ancestors and of sons and daughters-in-law of those born Hills. The reference numbers given the names of those listed in these last named indexes, are those of the members of the family through whom these other than Hills born individuals are connected with the name.

TO TRACE A HILLS ANCESTRY.

To trace a Hills ancestry, find the name of the descendant by the index; then find the designating number in large figures in the left margin of a page (e. g., 4089). In connection with it and the name, note the names and generation figures of all known paternal Hills ancestors. Finding the same number in small figures on a preceding page, (e. g., 4089) the parents' names will be found in connection with it in large figures. Their record will show a list of their children. Among them will appear (opposite the number first found) the birth record of the descendant. To carry the line back another generation, note the large figured number of the Hills born parent and seek it in small figures; it will be found under the grandfather's record and his number will be the guide to that of the Hills of the next earlier generation. In like manner the record of each Hills ancestor can be traced until that of the earliest known of the name has been found.

When a given name has been many times bestowed, the reference numbers may require the examination of several records before that which is sought can be made to appear. There are 21 William H. Hills indexed; of Marys there are 68, and including those with middle name 190. But of these, only one William H. married Elizabeth Babcock, but one Mary married Orson Goodale and but one Mary E. out of 29 so indexed married Ira J. Clizbe. Where the name of a husband or wife is known a reference to the division of the index "Persons who married Hills" will give the designating number of the Hills born life partner.

FAMILY GENEALOGY.

INTRODUCTION.

In the report of the directors of the family association of June 1906 a hope was expressed that there would "still be interest enough in the family research to hold a membership that will maintain our organization and continue our annual reports". With the expectation that it would for an indefinite period have an active existence, from belated returns and other material, genealogical information available for the then current year was added to the report. But before another was printed it was evident that the hope of an active membership could not be realized and the report of June 1907 recited that some of the leading members of the association considered its work as finished and the diminished receipts from membership dues indicated that such an existence as had been contemplated could not be maintained. At the date of the last named report the genealogy of the family had been in the possession of its members and upon the shelves of many public and private libraries for more than a year, and its compiler and editor desired that all errors that had been discovered should be corrected and all new matter that could be added to their work should become a part of it before their connection with it was closed.

They therefore asked that a call be made not only on all who were or had been members of the association but also on all who had purchased the book to report to its editor during the remainder of the then current year "corrections of all errors found to exist in that work; also to report the names of those who were entitled to be in its record, but were omitted, with such genealogical data as it is possible to connect with them; and also to give the changes that have come since the publication of the family history by births, marriages or deaths in the families of those recorded in it". Blanks designed to facilitate the accomplishment of this purpose were prepared and sent with the annual report of the association. The information in the returns received, added to that contained in the "Genealogical Bulletin" of 1906 or gathered by the editor from other sources appears upon the following pages.

SUPPLEMENTARY RECORD.

- 4 JOSEPH², (William¹) dau. Margaret (31)b. Jan. 8, 1724. Should be Jan. 8, 1714.
- 11 MARGARET³ (Joseph², William¹). See 4.
- 66 HANNAH⁴ (Joseph³, William², William¹) N. E. H. and G. Register, Vol. 15, page 298 has among other records of Wethersfield, Conn. that of the marriage Nov. 9, 1754 of Pelatiah Buck Jr., and Hannah Hills and the birth of their dau. Lydia, Sept. 15, 1755. All the early Hills born Hannahs of the Connecticut branch known to the compiler were married, except this dau. of Joseph, who was born about 1726 and Hannah (50) dau. of Ebenezer who was b. about 1715.
- 95 JOHN⁴ (John³, Joseph², William¹) married Mindwell, dau. of Daniel Wright Jr. and Eunice Loomis. She was a descendant of Joseph Loomis, early settler of Windsor, and of Thomas Wright, early at Wethersfield, Conn. Mindwell (Wright) Hills was not born in England, but on Wright's Island in the Connecticut River.
- 105 OLIVER⁴, (Benjamin³, Benjamin², William¹) had son Oliver. See 255½.
- 106 JOHN⁴, (Benjamin³, Benjamin², William¹) married Anna, dau. of Sergeant Jonah and Anna (Skinner) Loomis of Tolland, Tolland Co., Conn. She was b. East Windsor, Conn., Oct. 5, 1734, and d. in that town. She was of the third generation from the emigrant Nathaniel Loomis, b. England in 1626.
- 206 JOSEPH⁵, (Benjamin⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², William¹) From information gained from a descendant, Mr. L. C. Hills of Ansonia, Conn., the compiler makes the following record: b. Glastonbury, Hartford Co., Conn. about 1759; d. Mosiertown, Crawford Co., Penn. about 1849. "He was buried in the old burying ground of that place". In 1828 he was of Fabius, Onondaga Co., N. Y., about 1832 as a member of the family of his son Obed he returned to Geneseo, Livingston Co. N. Y. of which place he was a resident as early as 1811. Still connected with his son's family he left that place and was last a resident of Crawford Co., Penn. From the statements of his children it appears that he was four times married. The first and second wives were probably of Conn., the third whose maiden name was Soper, d. in Geneseo in Nov. 1811 and Polly, the fourth wife "in western New York" about 1832. He appears to have been a man of more than ordinary intelligence, and there is a tradition in the family that for a time he taught school. In a letter from Rev. Oliver C. Hills (964 of Gen.) whose father was a first cousin of his son Oliver Soper Hills, this Joseph is described as a "noble man". He was of the Army of the Revolution from Aug. 11, 1777 to July 29, 1779 and from Jan. 1, 1780 to Dec. 31, 1780. (Conn. men in Rev. p. 293; Mass. men in Rev. p. 83, Senate papers, State N. Y.; Act Congress, 1828; Bureau of Pensions, Service file No. 47,276).

218 HEWITT⁵, (Col. Medad⁴, Benoni³, Joseph², William¹) Mrs. Elizabeth Flint Wade of Buffalo, N. Y. sent the compiler data which was taken from Huit Hills' Bible which bears the inscription, "Huit Hills, His Bible. Given him by his mama in the year 1789." Below is written 'Lovicy Wade, her Bible.' On the leaf between the old and new Testaments is the family record. Notice that it gives only eleven children, while in the list in the genealogy there appear thirteen. But between the names of the last two children was a name and part of a date illegible—1796. * * The Bible also gives the maiden name of Huit Hills' wife, Elizabeth Smith. In transcribing the record the names are spelled exactly as written.

2000 GEORGE, son of —— b. —— married, Great Burstead, Billericay, Essex Co., England, Oct. 13, 1596, Mary, dau. of —— widow of William Symonds, of Great Burstead. The place where George Hills, or his wife lived after the baptism of their daughter Martha at Great Burstead in 1611 or the place or date of the death of either of them is alike unknown. The records of that parish show the dates of baptism of six of their children.

1600, July. Saray Hilles, the daughter of George, was baptized the 13 daye.

1602, March. Joseph Hilles, the sonne of George, was baptized the third day.

1604, ——. Abigaile Hilles, the daughter of George, was baptized the 30th day.

1606, November, John Hills, the son of George Hills, baptized the 16th day.

1607-8, February, Rebecca Hills, the daughter of George Hills baptized the 28th day.

1611, June, Martha Hills, the daughter of George Hills baptized the 16th day.

It appears from the following record that a John Hills had his home in Great Burstead, or living in another parish brought his son there for baptism.

1613, June, Richard Hills the son of John Hills was baptized the xxth day. The marriage of Joseph Hills (2001 of the Gen.) the emigrant to New England in 1638, is of record in the parish register.

1624, July, Joseph Hills and Rose Cleerke were married the 22nd day at Ingatestone in Essex Co. adjoins the parish of Great Burstead. The parish churches are but three miles apart. It is probable that all in either parish born to the name of Hills in the sixteenth century were descendants of a not remote common ancestor. As of interest to all who trace their ancestral line to Joseph the emigrant of 1638, certain entries from the parish register of Ingatestone are here inserted.

The record of the children of Gershom² Hills (2010), was known to be incomplete when the genealogy of the family was printed. All that was known of eight of his children was then published. Three of his daughters married and settled in Swansea, Bristol Co., in Southeastern Mass. His nephew Samuel (2033) also was of that town in 1708.

Correspondence with a Mr. John E. Shepardson of Bristol, Va., has shown that there was another Samuel Hills in the vicinity of these early settlers whose wife was Mary and whose daughter Ruth was born in July 1733. She could not have been the daughter of the nephew Samuel for he died in July 1732, nor of his son Samuel for he was not born till 1714 or married till 1739. This Ruth married Zephaniah Shepardson and the family was of Attleboro, a town less than ten miles distant from Swansea. The following record was written by Joseph Shepardson, who was born in 1760 and the original at the time of the compiler's correspondence was in possession of his grandson Thomas J. Shepardson of Saratoga Springs, New York. All other known Samuels being accounted for, it appears that the Samuel who was the father of Ruth (Hills) Shepardson was a son of Gershom and on the record given below he is so recorded.

- 4761 A transposition of names caused the person numbered four thousand seven hundred and sixty-one designated as Ezekiel, said to be a son of Zimri, to be erroneously recorded. The record as originally transmitted to the editor should have been printed Zimri, said to be a son of Ezekiel. But Mr. Leon Clark Hills (No. 4571 of the Gen.) has proved that the tradition noted on page 620 of the family history, that connected an Ezekiel with this branch of the family has no foundation; and has identified this Zimri as that one of the name numbered 223 of the Genealogy. He was of the Vermont Regiment commanded by Col. Ebenezer Allen in 1780; of Col. Samuel Canfield's Regiment at West Point on the Hudson in 1781; pensioned as a private of Col. Starr's Regiment in Sept. 1793; recorded as a pensioner of Vermont under the Act of Congress 1818; transferred from Vermont to New York March 4, 1823. In the census of 1840 he is recorded as a pensioner, aged 77, living with his son Heman at Pomfret, Chautauqua Co., N. Y. In addition to official records Mr. Hills quotes: His. of Litchfield Co., Conn., p. 184; Conn. men in the Rev. p. 583, and Vt. in the Rev. p. p. 211-234-604. The effect of Mr. Hills' investigation and his conclusions, is that the sub-title to the group recorded on page 520 of the Genealogy must be discarded, also the nine lines including the line "children of Ezekiel and Malinda (Palmer) Hills" that follow it; and that whenever below that line the word "Ezekiel¹" occurs the word Zimri^s must be substituted. If then in the space thus made vacant at the top of the page, a new sub-title, Descendants of Zimri Hills (No. 223), is inserted, followed by the words Children of Zimri and Millie (Catlin) Hills, the amended record will be in accordance with what the investigator found to be the lineage of those whose names fill the remainder of the page.
