HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

OF THE

Prentice or Prentiss Family,

IN NEW ENGLAND,

FROM 1631 TO 1852.

COLLECTED BY

C. J. F. BINNEY.

BOSTON:

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHOR.

1852.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1852,
BY C. J. F. BINNEY,
In the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the District of Massachusetts.

POWER PRESS OF PRENTISS AND SAWYER.
No. 11 Devonshire Street.

P R E F A C E.

The Editor and Publisher, after freely offering his materials to several of the Prentice or Prentiss name, was induced, at their urgent request, to undertake this work, and to have five hundred copies printed, and hopes that the surplus — two hundred copies — will be taken, that the expenses of publication may be repaid, and he relies on those interested to aid him.

Where the Editor personally examined Town, Church, Bible, or other records, he has endeavored to be accurate: where the information was derived from others, it is as received. Authorities are named, unless overlooked. Errors will arise in such a work. Lists of many families were sent to him without dates, &c., or explanation of relationship to others. On many old records of the children's births, the mother's Christian name only is mentioned. These omissions leave many blanks, for each family to fill up; and if made known to the writer, can be corrected in a future edition, if ever called for. The account of many families, of old date, is imperfect, as it was impossible to obtain information. What there is, will be a starting point for an accurate account by each family.

It is to be regretted that so few old portraits could be found, and that more of those of the present generation could not be induced to have their portraits inserted for the gratification of their friends and successors, who would prize them much. We consider a portrait of a deceased relative, or an old ancestor, as invaluable.

The portraits and views were furnished at his request, and are all that could be obtained. The associations and memories of childhood, called up by a view of the "Old Homestead," would be an oasis in the desert of life.

The information regarding our ancestors, that he has endeavored to rescue from the dust of more than a century, and to preserve from oblivion, he hopes will be pleasing to those interested. He has tried to keep in mind the meaning of the motto of the Prentice Arms, "Right — and Forward."

Many of the Prentice or Prentiss family, have been an ornament to Franklin's profession. The editor has been much indebted to the unwearied aid of Messrs. Henry Prentiss Lewis and Henry J. Prentiss, during the progress of this work through the press.

Wishing the virtues of those of the name now departed, may continue to flourish

"When that this [work] shall mouldered be by time," he now introduces the past to the present.

BOSTON, APRIL 15, 1852.

EXPLANATION.

Each individual of a family is numbered (in parenthesis) in regular rotation. Should the name again appear, it can thus be traced back.

The Roman numerals designate the children of each family in succession.

The small figures at the end of each name, give the generation, from a common ancestor of that branch; when the chain of descent is broken, or the origin is doubtful, that number is omitted.

By following this plan, the work can be continued and extended, by continuing the numbers, as other families arise.

The letter b. is for born; bap. for baptised.

An Index to the heads of families, and other names, may be found at the end of the volume.

The dates are given as found on records, &c., without regard to Old or New Style.

In Old Style, the year began March 25, which was called the 1st month. The New Style, invented by Pope Gregory XIII., in 1582, was gradually adopted by other countries, (except Russia, Greece, and the East generally,) and by Great Britain and her Colonies in America, 14th (3) September, 1752, and commenced January 1, 1752, which was called the Historical year, and was added to the Legal year in double dating, between January 1st and 25th March — as on page 12: March 8, 1663-4. On page 13th, 22, 3, 1648, Old Style, means 22d day of 3d month, (May.) [See Dr. Nathaniel B. Shurtleff's Time Tables, for private distribution, Boston, 1850.]

The Prentice or Prentiss Family.

THIS name is an old one in England. In Rhymer's Foedera, vol. 3, page 730, mention is made of Thomas Prentiz, Anno Domini 1318, An. 12, Ed. 2. "De Tribus Sarplar Lanæ pretii triginta Librarium Sterlingorum," &c. Also, Richard Prentiz, vol. 8, page 294, A. D. 1403, An. 4, H. 4. "De Jocalibus et Vestimentis Capellæ Regis." Also, John Prentys, Rector of Winterborn, Bradston, Aug. 22, 1413, and Prebendary of York, North Newbold, which he resigned Aug. 22, 1423.

The name in this country is believed to have been originally spelt Prentice. Some branches spell it Prentiss, some Prentis. In the following pages, the names of the different branches are spelt as found, or written by themselves, when known, otherwise written tice. I am told that Capt. Thomas P. of Newton, usually wrote it tice. Henry P., Sen., of Cambridge, Mass., and descendants, spelt it tice.

The first one of the name yet found in America was VALENTINE PRENTICE, who came over with the "Apostle" Elliot, in 1631, with his wife, Alice, and son, John, (another child having died on the passage,) and settled in Roxbury, Mass. It is supposed that VALENTINE, of Roxbury, HENRY, of Cambridge, and Capt. THOMAS, of Newton, Mass., and perhaps ROBERT, of Roxbury, were connected in some way.

THOMAS PRENTICE resided in the family of Lt. Col. Roger Harlakenden, in Cambridge, and had a legacy of 40s. at H.'s death, in 1638. This is supposed to be the Capt. THOMAS PRENTICE, of Newton, Mass., who was in King Philip's war.

ROBERT PRENTICE resided in Roxbury, and was buried, per Church records, 3, 12, 1665, and appears to have been connected with Capt. Thomas Prentice, of Newton, who presented and deposed to his Inventory, on Probate Court, Boston, records, dated 7, 12, 1665.

Capt. THOMAS PRENTICE, of Newton, (formerly part of Cambridge,) came from England with his wife, Grace, and daughter, Grace. They joined the Cambridge Church, 1652. "Their child, Grace, baptised in England, and 4 years old when they joined this Church."

HENRY PRENTICE, Planter, of Cambridge, Mass., in 1640. His first wife was Elizabeth; his second was Joan or Joanna.

THOMAS PRENTICE, 2d, was in Newton 1659. His wife was Rebecca, daughter of Edward Jackson, Sen. She was born in England.

JAMES PRENTICE, Sen., was also in Newton in 1659, and he and Thomas 2d bought their farms together in that year, and were probably brothers. What connection there was between these seven is yet unknown. I shall give what account I have collected of each of these and their descendants.

As there is no other account of ROBERT PRENTICE, previously mentioned, the following is extracted from the Inventory of his Estate, on Boston Probate Court records, date 7, 12mo., 1665. He was buried 3d, 12mo., 1665.* "The Inventory, appraised by Wm. Parks and Edward Dennison, mentions a house and two acres of land, bought of John Perry, with orchard and barn, £30. Prentice's, land at Gravelly Point, and fresh meadow, near Dorchester sheep-pen : rights in the 1,000 acres, next Dedham 29 acres, &c. Due 'Father' * Palmeter, † for expences about the estate. Peacock, John Weld, Mr. Bracket, of Boston, Wm. Curtis, Robert Pepper, Mr. (Edward) Rawson, for Administration. Total Inventory, £174 16s. 5d. Debts, £29 4s. 6d. Capt. Thomas Prentice deposed in Court, April 26, 1666, 'that this paper contains a true Inventory of the Estate of the late Robert Prentice ; that when he knows more he will disclose it.' — Ed. Rawson, Recorder."

The above is all there is relative to Robert P. on those records. ||

* The term "Father" Palmeter, refers to his age and standing.

† John Parmenter, sometime Deacon at Sudbury, Æ. 83, was buried 1d. 3mo. 1671. "Old Mother" Annis P. widow of John Parmenter, died Mar. 15, 1683. "A blessed saint" (or sister) "was buried 17d. 1mo. 1683."—[Church and Town records, Roxbury.] She had three husbands.

‡ Mr. John Alcock, Physician, died in Boston, 27d. 1mo. 1667, but was brought home and buried (by his wife) 29th day, Æ. 40. [Church records, Roxbury.]

|| This Robert Prentice was one of the signers of the Roxbury petition, dated 25d. 8mo. 1664, to Hon. Gov., Dep'y Gov., and the rest of the Hon. Magistrates and H. of Deputies in Gen'l Court, about the infringement of their privileges in their patent.—[Note, page 394, vol. 5, 1851, His. Gen. Register.]

(1) VALENTINE PRENTISE.¹ "He came to this land, with his wife Alice, in the year 1631, and joined to this church in the year 1632. He brought but one child to this land, his son John, and buried another at sea. He lived a godly life, and went through much affliction by bodily infirmity, and died leaving a good safr (savor) of godlyness behind him."* He was made Freeman in 1632.† "Alice, the wife of Valentine Prentise,‡ after her husband's death, was married (April 3, 1632,||) to John Watson,§ of this church."*

Children.

(2) I. JOHN PRENTICE,² son of Valentine and Alice, born in England, came over with his parents in 1631, admitted to the Roxbury church 24d. 7m., 1665.*

* First Church records of Roxbury, Mass., 1630-1, page 16, &c. Elliot spelt the name tise.

† Farmer erroneously makes him Freeman in 1636.

‡ Hon. James Savage, of Boston, thinks that Valentine Prentice and family came over with the Rev. John Elliot, (the Apostle to the Indians,) and others, from Nazing, Essex Co., England.

|| Roxbury Town records.

§ John, son of John Watson, was born Jan. 2, 1634-5.—[Town records.] John Watson, senior, died ——— 1671. His will, on record, Boston "of Roxbury," mentions four children, sons John and Caleb, and daughters Darkise and Mary. Also, his wife Alice and son (in law) John Prentice, sons in law Timothy Dwight and Married, first, Esther ^{Nichols}. He was a skillful blacksmith, and on that account was offered special privileges to settle in New London, Ct., which he did in 1651 or 1652, six or seven years after the settlement of the place. In 1664, John Prentice, of New London, Ct., was fined £5, "for notching a colt's tail."* At a General Assembly, held at Hartford, † Ct., Oct. 13, 1664, John Winthrop, Esq., Governor, Major Mason, Deputy Governor, "this Court abate John Prentice half his fine of £5, and he is to pay ten shillings for his petition." ‡

Thomas Stedman. Will, March 4, 1670-1. Dorcas, dismissed to the church in Medfield, 10. 3. 1670.

An Alice Prentice died, Concord, (Mass.) 8, (1) 1643.—[Page 32 Concord records, City Register's Office, Boston,] where the births, deaths, and marriages of the neighboring towns were then recorded. She may have been a daughter of Robert, or of John, son of Valentine. A church was called at Newtown, (Cambridge,) to settle a church at Concord, 5. 5. 1636. Newtown altered to Cambridge, 1638.—[First Church records, Cambridge, Mass.] On the records of Concord, Mass., I was unable to find any Prentice in 1849. In the Roxbury First Church records, there is a short account of each settler, and his arrival. Also, a diary of events and deaths of distinguished persons in New England.

(89) X. MARY,⁵ b. Aug. 12, 1751, at Easton. Married, at age of 19, Amos Binney, in Hull, Mass.*

Rev. Solomon Prentice, † (72) after he graduated, prepared himself for the ministry in Cambridge, under the Rev. Mr. Shepherd, the first settled minister there, after Rev. Mr. Hooker and most of his congregation emigrated on foot through the wilderness to New-town, afterwards called Hartford, Ct. While preparing for the ministry in Cambridge, he took written notes of every sermon preached there by Mr. Shepherd and the other ministers who exchanged with him. This manuscript, a narrow, bound volume, is now in possession of Miss M. G. Prentice Binney, Boston.

A day of fasting, with religious services, was appointed in Grafton before his selection, he then being a resident of Cambridge. The day previous to his ordination, a church of twenty persons was formed, with a covenant of a highly liberal and Catholic spirit, used in some other churches. One clause was, "to use the Holy Scriptures as their platform, whereby they might discern the mind and will of Christ, and not the new found inventions of men."

The testimonials of his qualifications, signed by Trowbridge of Groton, Appleton of Cambridge, and Parkman of Westboro', are on the Grafton records.

He was a man of God, pure in heart, and of true piety, of the Calvinist Congregational persuasion.

When he "courted" Sarah Sartell in Groton, they sat on a trunk of a tree in the woods: he proposed in the words of Naomi to Ruth; she accepted him with Ruth's reply.

* Hull records, and marriage certificate in my possession.

† Stephen and wife, Esther Prentice, deed land in Grafton to Solomon Prentice, "Clerk," Easton, 1751; a deed to Solomon Prentice, "Clerk," Easton, 1754; do. of Grafton, Clerk, 1746-7.

The house owned and occupied by him in Grafton was on the land now of Hon. Samuel Woods, and was near the church. The house was purchased by Mr. Charles Prentice, (112) Town Clerk, several years since, when sold, and removed to the foot of the hill, and is a good house yet. One Sunday morning, soon after the settlement of the town, while proceeding to church, he saw a bear on a chestnut tree, not far from the meeting-house. Not thinking it prudent to let him be at large, so near the houses, he returned for his gun, shot him, and then returned to church, satisfied that he had done his duty. His salary being small, he was obliged to devote a portion of his time to agriculture for his support. Great harmony prevailed until 1743, the period of strong religious excitement and controversy in New England, caused by the New Lights and the doctrines of Whitfield, he having been invited to preach by Mr. Prentice. This difference of opinion in religious matters has continued to this day. Owing to the opposition of a majority of the society, a council was called in 1744, who made a temporary reconciliation; but the trouble recommenced, and resulted in his dismissal July 10, 1747. We should call the objections to him trivial. He acknowledged himself guilty to non-conformity with the recommendations of a previous council, and said he never intended to comply with them, as "it was contrary to the light of his conscience." In his reply to the council at his dismissal, he writes in a very feeling manner of his sixteen years' services as their minister, of the troubles with which he and his society were afflicted, and of his efforts to restore harmony, and hopes that the society and church may again prosper, and "entreats them to take a prudent care of his character hereafter." After his dismissal he preached in Easton four or five years, and where his two youngest children were born; he also preached in Bellingham. He preached also in Hull, Mass., from 1768 to 1772, where the proximity to the sea air not agreeing with his health, the town voted him a certain sum, and he being present in town meeting accepted it, and gave up the remainder of the term and returned to Grafton. His salary there was £26 13s. 4d., besides the use of the parsonage lands.

Sarah, the wife of Rev. Solomon P., was well educated, and so conversant with the Bible, that she could repeat any part of it, and could write a good sermon. She had much energy of character, and liberality, and independence. Before 1751, she is said to have inclined to the Baptists, and even been immersed; and in her latter days, to have favored the Quakers. This open difference in religion from her husband and his congregation, also caused much comment and trouble in the parish. She fell while in Ward, and injured her hip, and was in consequence confined to her room the latter part of her life.

The will of Rev. Solomon P. is owned by J. S. Prentice, Esq., (102) Oxford, Mass. The date, March 2, 1773. In it he is styled "Gentleman of Grafton." It is prefaced by a long and very peculiar statement of Faith. His "wife Sarah to live in his house and have all his household goods and furniture and indoor movables; his riding chair and horse, which is to be well kept for her, summer and winter, and replaced if he fails; her firewood cut at her door; as much cyder as she shall have occasion to use in the house; full and free liberty to put up a friend's horse or horses to hay in winter, and grass in summer, when they come to visit her, &c.; all to be provided by Solomon for her sole use and benefit during her natural life. £16, l. m. to be paid her annually by my sons, and this I look upon to be her full right and clear dowry in my estate." Solomon to have all his lands and buildings in Grafton not otherwise disposed of, except the land of Nathaniel's pearl-ash works. Gives to his brother Stephen twenty acres of land he now lives on, for life, then to Solomon. Gives lands to his eldest son, Nat. S., of Grafton. Gives, and also directs Solomon to pay legacies to his daughters Sarah and Mary. Nat., John, Henry, and Solomon, Executors, who are to have all money and books after his wife's decease; and if she leaves anything, to be equally divided among all his children. The will is written and signed in his clear, bold hand.

(103) VII. JOHN,^{6*} b. April 25, 1786. Now cashier of Millbury (Mass.) Bank.

John Prentice † (83) took care of his mother, Sarah, at his house, in her old age, and at whose house she died; but was buried beside her husband in the old burial-ground in Grafton, nearly opposite the wide gate. She carried many of her things with her to Ward, including a silver tankard and considerable other silver ware, which was divided at her death; but none of the heirs had veneration enough to preserve it whole. Some was melted up into spoons. Josiah S. Prentice, Esq., of Oxford, had the large old Bible, formerly the property of her father, Nathaniel Sartell, and which Rev. Solomon P. used in his pulpit, and from which all their children learned to read. This Bible I now have. [See Appendix A.] Sarah (Sartell) Prentice had many brocade dresses, &c., which were cut up and distributed among the grandchildren and great grandchildren. I have some of them, and the stamped gilt and fine painted leather cover to a high back chair, which came over with her from Great Britain.

He married Mary Peters, of Newport, R. I., who died Feb. 10, 1797, and left William and Daniel, "who went into the army."

Mrs. Sarah Brigham, daughter of Rev. Solomon Prentice, was a very active and energetic woman. I can remember her while on a visit to Brigham Hill. After the death of A. B., husband of her sister Mary, who was left with a family on a small place in Hull, nearly ruined by the war and consequent heavy taxes, and depreciation of Continental notes, of which they had a large amount, — Sarah Brigham started alone from Grafton, on horseback, to visit her sister in Hull, a journey of over sixty miles, stopped one night with her friends in Easton, and arrived in Hull next day. On her return, she took Nancy Binney, (now Mrs. Copeland, widow, Boston,) back with her, tying her behind her on a pillion, — stopped over night again at Easton, and reached Grafton the second night, by moonlight. Nancy remained there a few years.*

(88) IX. SOLOMON PRENTICE,⁵ son of Rev. Solomon (72) and Sarah, born at Easton, Mass., Aug. 15, 1748. Married first, Anna Holbrook, about 1770, of Bellingham, Mass. They probably went to Hull, Mass., to reside with Rev. Solomon P., his father, as Solomon was constable in Hull, 1770 to 1772, † and where his daughter Anna was born in 1771. He returned to Grafton in 1772 or 1773, and with his brother, Nathaniel Sartell Prentice, moved to Alstead, N. H., in 1775. On the death of his brother Henry, in Grafton, in 1781, he returned to Grafton, to take care of his mother, for five or six years, until his brother John agreed to take care of her, when he again returned to Alstead, in Nov. 1787. Soon after the death of his wife Ann, in Alstead, March, 1788, Solomon closed up his affairs, and removed to Edenton, N. C., again married —, and there died in 1805.

* Mrs. N. Copeland's account, Boston, 1850. † Hull records.

He is reported to have married a widow with property.* His son Solomon, of Skeneatales, N. Y., in his 77th year, wrote me — “that was the last I have heard of him after his marriage. I have heard that my father, in company with others from South Carolina, searched for ‘Capt. Kidd’s money,’ but it did not amount to much. When I was in Grafton last year, I was surprised that so many of their descendants living near, should have neglected to place a marble slab, or monument, over the remains of our respected grandparents, [Rev. Solomon and wife.] I will do something towards it.”

(116) IV. ASA,⁶ b. Dec. 19, 1777. Learned the hatter’s trade, Providence, R. I., went to Havana, and died there of yellow fever, 1804.

* Letter of Mr. Solomon Prentice, Skeneatales, Onondagua Co., N. Y., March 4, 1850.

† Grafton Town records. The birth of Anna is not on Hull records, but is on Grafton records as “born in Hull.”

‡ Mrs. Crane wrote me, Glover, Vt., April 9, 1850, that her husband lost his property by being surety for a man, and soon after, while they were absent at a funeral, their house with all its contents was burnt, including a Bible of Rev. Solomon Prentice’s, two pewter dishes, a parchment cover of a chair of his wife’s, and part of an old necklace, given “for my name.” My husband died a month after, and left me a widow, with eight children, dependant on my own exertions. Our father went to North Carolina, and left us young, without parents or property; but our Heavenly

(117) V. ANNA,⁶ b. Feb. 16, 1783. Married, Sept. 1806, Noah Starr, at Skeneatales. Resides in Greenfield, Huron County, Ohio, in 1835. Had four sons and five daughters; two sons and three daughters are deceased.

(89) X. MARY PRENTICE,⁶ daughter of Rev. Solomon (72) and Sarah, born in Easton, Aug. 12, 1751. Married, May 31, 1770, by her father, in Hull, Mass., to Amos Binney, born 1745, died in Hull, Nov. 8, 1783, son of Amos and Rebecca (Loring) Binney, descended from John and Mercy Binney, who settled in Hull about 1680. Her daughter, Miss Sarah Binney, gave me, in 1849, the large square Bible, which her grandfather bought with the marriage fee, two dollars, (sixty dollars Continental paper money,) and gave his daughter Mary, and from which her children learned to read. The covers are now off. It contains the record of Amos and Mary's family in his writing, a clear, bold hand.

Amos and Mary resided in Hull, in the old house, now owned and occupied by Mr. Pope, a drawing of which I have. In 1776, when the British fleet were in Nantasket roads, and blockaded Boston, owing to the exposed and almost isolated situation of Hull, the inhabitants were obliged to leave their homes and property, except what they could take with them—Amos and Mary, with their children and his mother, and (Nancy, then an infant,) went in a boat, passing near the British man-of-war. The small boat, loaded nearly to the water's edge, touched at Hingham, but that town "being full," they proceeded to Weymouth, Mass., where they lived until the fleet sailed, suffering much. Amos returned to Hull to fetch off his flocks, and while going in a boat to Pettix Island, for that purpose, with his brother Spencer, they were captured, and taken on board the British vessel, and placed at the guns, until Mr. Haswell, an Englishman, formerly a lieutenant in the English Navy, resident of Hull, and father of Mrs. Rawson, the writer, came off, and interceded with the commander of the ship, a friend of his. He told them that Amos was one of the "Selectmen" of the town, and had a family dependent upon him. He was called, and being dressed in his working suit, the officers laughed at the appearance of their "Selectman," and dismissed him, but kept Spencer until Amos redeemed him with fourteen sheep. On the return of the inhabitants they found their houses plundered of every movable. The town also suffered from the landing of the French troops from their fleet, and from the American troops also. Most of the old gravestones were used for bottoms of ovens,* or to wash on, or broken off by the troops.

Mrs. Mary (Prentice) Binney was an excellent woman; pious, industrious, active, and energetic, and of a good education for the times. She had to support her family from a small farm, and her own exertions, but found time to educate her own and other children.† When her two sons, Amos and John, had gone into business in Boston, she lived with one of them until her death, at Amos's house, May 13, 1813, Æ. 62. She had light hair, and a Prentice look. In 1840, the writer removed her remains, with those of the rest of his family, from the family tomb, Copp's Hill, and those of his mother, from Wiscasset, Maine, to his family lot, No. 681, Yarrow-path, Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

* It was at this time the old lady was so frightened to find a death's head and crossbones, and "Resurgimus" on the bottom of some of the loaves she bought.

(206) VII. BERTHA,⁸ b. Dec. 12, 1844.

(207) VIII. JESSIE PIILENA,⁸ b. July 23, 1847.

Mr. P. removed, with his father, in 1826, from Canton, N. Y., to Albany, and, in connection with his brother John H. and Mr. Packer, commenced the fur and fur cap business. Soon after, when I visited the Springs, I called at their factory, and yet have a fine fur cap they presented me. The business was carried on there and in New York city, until 1841, when E. P. P. went out, leaving his brother James in charge in Albany, and interested, while John H. removed to New York. Mr. E. P. P. built a splendid mansion about a mile from Albany, called "Mount Hope," commanding a fine view of all that passes on the Hudson river. The grounds are well laid out, and with diversified scenery. At one time, after his return from Europe, he had the best breed of English stock in New York State, valued at $10,000, which I saw. They were noble looking animals. A few years after, he sold them nearly all off at auction, to improve the breed in N. Y. State, the farmers of which, are much indebted to him for it. He is President of the Agricultural Society of the State. The large Hall of his mansion contains many fine marble statues in niches, &c., and the works of the best masters are hung around the walls. He well deserves to enjoy the fruits of his success for his generous disposition; and of his hospitality, we may well say, "his latch-string is always out." His father, while living, superintended the farm and garden, and resided in one wing of the house. He occasionally visits Boston. A few years since, a singular robbery of all his large and valuable lot of silver plate occurred there. It was locked in an iron safe, a large dog in the rear of the house, and the house secured, but on setting the table next morning for breakfast, the safe was found open and empty. The family were not disturbed. It was supposed to have been done by some one acquainted with the premises. Proper steps were taken to detect the thieves and recover it, but, for a long time, no trace of it could be found, until one day, Mr. P. himself, on a visit to Philadelphia, in passing a jeweller's shop, noticed some silver with his initials on it, which the jeweller said he bought, with some broken silver, of a man unknown to him.

In 1847, for some account of his ancestors that I sent him, he sent me a valuable signet ring, with the Prentice coat of arms engraved on it, but which, with other family seals and relics, was stolen from my house, while moving in Boston, in 1848. He also sent me a fine engraving of "Mount Hope," and I am indebted to him for much information of his branches of the family. The coat of arms on the seal was, Gyrony of 8, az. On a chief, ar. A fleur de lis, between two crescents, gules. Crest, an Eagle displayed. In his dexter claw, a dagger; in his sinister claw, a pistol. Motto, "Droit et Avant."

On the 25th of June, 1850, he invited President Zachary Taylor to be his guest, and attend the N. Y. State Annual Agricultural Fair. The reply, July 5, published in the papers, was probably the last letter the President wrote before his death.

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT TAYLOR. The following letter from President Taylor, probably one of the last, if not the last which he wrote, possesses a melancholy interest. It will be seen by the date that it was written after the attack of illness which proved fatal. — Boston Journal, July 10, 1850.

"WASHINGTON, July 5, 1850.

"E. P. Prentice, Esq., Albany, N. Y.

"SIR:—I have duly received your favors of May 18th and June 25th, the former wishing me to attend the Annual Fair of the New York State Agricultural Society in September next, the latter kindly asking my company at your house on that occasion. In the extreme uncertainty attending the adjournment of Congress, until which event I cannot leave the seat of Government, I find it quite impossible to give any assurances in regard to my presence at the State Fair. I was greatly disappointed when circumstances prevented my attendance at the Fair of last year, and it is my hope this season to have the gratification of witnessing a similar exhibition. Unless prevented by an extraordinary prolongation of the session of Congress, or by other circumstances not now foreseen, I shall certainly comply with the invitation which you have extended to me as President of the Agricultural Society.

“I fear, however, that I shall be obliged to decline your very kind request, that I should make your house my home during my attendance at the Fair. It will hardly be in my power to accept any private invitations, but should I do so, that of Gov. Fish, which I some time since received, would have the strongest claim upon my attention.

“With many thanks for your hospitable offer, I remain, very truly, yours, Z. TAYLOR.”*

May, 1851, he was one of the vice presidents at the dinner to Hon. Daniel Webster, Secretary of State.

Samuel Kent, of Charlestown, and Abr'm Watson, Jr., of Cambridge, Executors, presented Sept. 17, 1771, gives to his nephew, John Badger, of Boston, "whom he brought up," all his estate, (at his wife Mary's death,) and to his children, if he has any lawful ones, if not, at Badger's death, to go to his (William's) brothers, Rev. Died, Charlestown, June 17, 1782, Æ. 80. Married first, Irene, daughter of Rev. Mr. Emery, of Wells, in Arundel, Me., soon after his settlement there in 1728, where he went for his health. In 1737, the Church at Arundel was dispersed by the Indian War, and Mr. P., wife, and three children returned to his native place, Cambridge. The second volume, page 266, of the Worcester Magazine, article, History of Lancaster, in a note, says, that

Thomas Prentice, who graduated at H. U., 1726, was one of the Masters in the Grammar School, in Lancaster, in 1729. A Thomas Prentice was also a Master in that School in 1736.* But that Thomas was probably Thomas, (735) the son of Rev. John Prentice, of Lancaster, of the Newton branch. After leaving Arundel, Rev. Thomas P. had three invitations to settle as Pastor at one time, from the "New North," Boston, West Cambridge, and Charlestown, Mass., which latter he accepted, and was installed as colleague of Rev. Hull Abbot, Oct. 31, 1739. Rev. Mr. Abbot died April 19, 1774. Rev. Mr. P. was admitted to the Church, Charlestown, Sept. 24, 1739

The following account of the proceedings of Mr. P.'s settlement, by Rev. Mr. Abbot, will show the importance attached to the selection of a minister in those days, when the whole town was the parish. Previously to the selection, they had a Town Fast, Sermon, &c., then Rev. Mr. Prentice was invited to preach two Sabbaths, as a candidate. At a subsequent meeting, "the Church members went to join with the Town in the choice of another pastor," when Mr. P. was chosen, and a committee of settlement and entertainment at the parsonage house of Mr. P. was also chosen. There was not a cordiality of feeling between the two pastors over one parish. After the death of his associate, Rev. Mr. Abbot, Mr. P. continued his labors as sole pastor, to the great satisfaction of his parish, until the opening scenes of the Revolution disturbed and hindered his offices. After Charlestown was burnt, by the British, at the battle of "Bunker's Hill," so called, June 17, 1775, by which three hundred and eighty houses were burnt, valued at £156,960 18s. 8d., the inhabitants were scattered, and Mr. P. returned to Cambridge. When the Church was again united, three years afterwards, he rode from Cambridge to Charlestown to officiate. "The first administration of the Lord's Supper, after the reunion, says (the now aged) Mr. Prentice, (as quoted by Morse on the Church records,) in Charlestown, since the destruction, by the cruelest British enemies, was November 8, 1778, with great solemnity and fullness of members beyond expectation." His meeting-house being destroyed, the Church met in a block house, small and rudely built, which they fitted up for the purpose, and which stood on the same spot, on the hill, where the present Church of Rev. Mr. Buddington* now stands. Here he continued to officiate to a faithful and affectionate audience, until his powers of mind, memory, and body were exhausted. He was a very energetic speaker and retained his warmth of manner to the last. His quick motions often displaced his wig in preaching, when his daughter would quietly ascend the platform and readjust it, without disturbing the congregation. He at last lost his memory, and omitted for two successive Sabbaths, previous to the annual Thanksgiving, to read the Proclamation, when his daughter stepped into the aisle and reminded him of it, which he gratefully acknowledged, but owing to infirmity and temporary confusion at the time, he was obliged to request Deacon Frothingham to read it. The last day that he preached he delivered the same sermon twice; in the morning and also in the afternoon. He lived, the latter part of his life, in his own house in Cambridge, in which he was born, and where he died June 17, 1782, Æ. 80, and was honorably interred on the burial-ground hill, Charlestown, at the expense of that town. The inscription on the Church tablet, erected to his memory, is, "Rev. Thomas Prentice, born at Cambridge, graduated at Harvard University, 1726. Installed Oct. 31, 1739. Died June 17, 1782, Æ. 80."

Mr. G. A. Kettel has several of his manuscript Sermons. His published sermons extant, are, one July 18, 1745, "On a General Thanksgiving on the Reduction of Cape Breton, by Sir Wm. Pepperel, General and Commander in Chief, with a British Squadron, commanded by Peter Warren, Esq. One of January 28, 1747-8, on a Public Fast, after the destruction, by fire, of the Province Court House, Boston. One of May 2, 1755, on the death of Mrs. Ann, wife of Richard Carey, and daughter of Richard Bradley, Attorney General, of New York. She was a very pious woman. One of January 1, 1756, at the 'Thursday Lecture, Boston,' on the Earthquake of the preceding eighteenth of November."

There is a very fine portrait of him, painted by Badger, Boston, 1755, now in possession of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Rebecca, widow of the late Mr. Amasa Stetson,* Dorchester, Mass. The portrait is in fine preservation, has the true Prentice (Roman) nose, &c. He is dressed in gown, bands, wig, &c., and it is a correct likeness.

Rev. Thomas Prentice's first wife, Irene, died in 1745, in Charlestown. He married second, Oct. 16, 1746, Rebecca, daughter of Nathaniel and Rebecca Austin, of Charlestown. She died October, 1748, Æ. 33. He married third, Widow Mary Butman, of Old York, Me. She survived him and returned to York, having no children.

Died at Fort Polk, Point Isabel, Texas, of yellow fever, ———, 1840, Capt. James H. Prentiss, of the 1st U. S. Artillery. This accomplished officer and gentleman, who has fallen a victim to the pestilential climate of our new territory, we knew well and esteemed highly.* His death will be deeply regretted throughout the army, in which he was a universal favorite, as well as by numerous friends out of it. The Metamoras Flag, in announcing his death, says :

"Never have we had to commit to the pages of obituary a name more endearing than that of the lamented object of our notice.

* Published Oct. 5, Watertown. Records, and newspaper, Nov. 8, 1805.

The announcement of his death will carry sorrowful regrets to the many who knew him as a most chivalrous soldier and accomplished gentleman. Eminently endowed with all those traits of character and qualities of head and heart which ennoble our nature, Capt. Prentiss was among the most highly esteemed of the officers of our gallant army. In the peaceful walks of life, as upon the battle-field, the same — the pride of manhood and the soul of honor. Accomplished in scholarship as in arms, he was the delight of the social circle and the idol of the service. He has died in our midst, with the laurels of his fame yet fresh and green upon his brows, that bore them meekly, as only such a soldier could. He has descended to the grave, leaving behind a stainless reputation and a character without reproach.

“Capt. Prentiss entered the service on graduating at the United States Military Academy, West Point, in 1830, as a Brevet Second Lieutenant of Artillery. He served with honor in the Indian war, known as the Black Hawk campaign. Subsequently he visited Europe, with a view to the further acquisition of knowledge in the science of his profession; and there, mingling in the highest and most polished society of the capitals of the old world, he was among the distinguished, ever maintaining the dignity of an American scholar, soldier, and gentleman. In 1839, on the increase of the staff of the army, he was advanced to an Assistant Adjutant Generalcy, with the rank of Captain, which he held until the commencement of the Mexican war, when he took the choice of a Captaincy in the line, and command of a company of artillery. He entered the field of war with the column of General Wool, and held the post of honor at Rinconada during the operations at Buena Vista.

“The voice of eulogy is not wanted to confirm the character of such a man; wherever known he was by all esteemed. The grave has hid from view all that was once the mortal habitation of as noble a soul as we ever knew. Peace to his ashes — perpetuity to his memory!”

(329) III. SARAH ANN H., b. 1816. Married William C. Langley, of Boston, who was in the house of A. & A. Lawrence & Co., now a commission merchant in New York, and very successful in business.

Mr. James Prentiss,* when in Boston, from 1803 to 1812, firm of Bond & Prentiss, was the largest importer there. The embargo ruined him. He then went to England, and imported into the United States a large number of merino sheep, and settled in Lexington, Ky., where he had the largest flock in the United States, then very valuable; but when peace was declared, that kind of property fell from eighteen dollars each, to a small sum, and he was again ruined by the peace. After the war of 1812, he removed to New York city. He is interested in property in Texas, and in claims on Government. The writer met him at Washington, in October, 1850, and found him a man of information and intelligence. He is often at Washington in Winter, as agent for claims. His wife was from the western part of Massachusetts.

Dr. Nat. S. Prentiss (362) was born in Cambridge, Mass. where he lived until he was twenty years of age, in the tavern building, corner of the road to Medford, near Porter's tavern, then in Charlestown. He left, in 1787, at the age of twenty-one. Studied medicine with Dr. I. Atherton, in Lancaster, Mass., who married the widow of Dr. Stanton Prentice, of L., (of the Newton branch of the Prentices,) and her two sons, Cephas and James Otis Prentice, studied medicine at the same time with him. Dr. N. S. P. went from Lancaster to Marlboro', in 1789, where he remained twelve or thirteen years, and where his five youngest children were born. He attended over 1,000 births in M. He then removed to Roxbury, Mass., about 1801, where he taught the Latin School eight years, and fitted for college, among others, the Rev. Samuel Newell, missionary. He resided there over fifty years, was Town Clerk over thirty years, and also practised medicine in Roxbury. In the list of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 1822, he was a "Fellow" of it. Resided in 1850 in Summer, in one of his houses, with his daughters, in Linden Park, Roxbury, and in Winter, with his daughter, Mrs. Banvard, Tyler Street, Boston. In 1851, removed, with Rev. Mr. B. to West Cambridge, where Mr. B. is pastor of the Baptist Church; there he is a welcome and beloved visitor. Mr. B. has a good full length daguerreotype likeness of him, by Whipple, and also a good portrait, by Otis, in 1850, which is in the Athenæum, 1851. At the age of eighty-six, in good health and spirits, with all his faculties, he awaits in Christian resignation and patience, the summons to that home where he has laid up treasure. In 1850, he presented a number of books to the Roxbury Athenæum. Mrs. Capen and Mrs. Weare have a miniature of Dr. P., one of Mr. Capen, of Charlestown, and one of Mrs. Whittemore. Mrs. Capen says that, when she was young, and lived in Cambridge, there were nine families by the name of Prentice there.

The account of Nat. S. P.'s family was given me verbally by himself and his sisters, and by his son Hugh H. Dr. P. says his father or grandfather altered his name, to tiss, when in College, to distinguish it from others of the same name. Dr. P.'s hair is white, he is rather tall and stout, with a full face. He says he is thankful he has been permitted to see so old an age. His Bible is and has been his daily chart; he wants no better commentary than the text, read with attention. And like his class-mate, John Quincy Adams, each time he reads it, finds something new to admire and understand. He thinks that the preservation of the Bible so long, and its being spread before nearly every nation, while most other books have been so short lived, is a great proof of its divine origin, and that God has and will preserve so great a blessing to mankind. Dr. P. has worked hard through life, and his growing infirmities remind him that he has outlived all his early friends. He thinks that he is one of the oldest male Prentices that has lived.

A long notice of Dr. P. from a funeral discourse by Joshua Bates, A. M., of Dedham, gives an excellent character of him, and says:—“He was active in his attempts to promote the spiritual good and eternal salvation of his fellow-men. In this cause, he devoted his zeal and spent his strength.” In the full exercise of his reason, and sensible of his approaching dissolution, he was calm, submissive, and full of hope. He said, “I have viewed this as my closing sickness, from its commencement.” Being asked if he felt reconciled to the will of God, and supported by the promises of the gospel, he answered “Yes;” and after a short pause added, “If the question of life or death were submitted to me for decision, I should say that there are many things which would seem to

* I am indebted to Mrs. Davis for much information of her branch, and she refers to a genealogy of the family that Mrs. Irene Woods of Barre, daughter of Rev. render the continuance of my life desirable; but it is not a question for me to decide. I know not what is best; I give myself no anxiety on the subject; the Judge of all the earth will do right; I have perfect confidence in Him, and willingly leave the decision with Him." Mr. Bates adds, if I believe any of the fallen race of Adam ever attained to a state of perfect holiness below the heavens, I should have believed that our deceased friend was one of the highly privileged number.

——— "For smitten friends

For us they languish, and for us they die,

And shall they languish, shall they die in vain?"

Mrs. Davis writes, that Rev. Dr P., her father, owing to the insufficiency of his salary, of £70, to support his family, adopted a very simple style of living, and usually had from four to six lads in his family to fit for college; among them were the late Jonathan Mason, and John G. Rogers, Esq.; two sons of D. S. Greenough were there at the time of his death; several from New York, the Carolinas, &c., of whom one was James Hamilton, Esq., late Governor of South Carolina. He was a member of the Massachusetts Humane Society, in 1810; the Massachusetts Congregational Charitable Society; the Society for Propagating the Gospel among the Indians, and others, in North America; and the Massachusetts Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge — of the last, a Director for several, and Vice President for two or three years. Fifteen printed discourses of his are mentioned in Mr. Bates's published discourse. Mrs. Samuel Phipps informs me that Rev. Dr P.'s hair, in his old age, was white as snow, which he wore in long, natural curls on his shoulders, while the hair of his widow, at her death, at the age of eighty-two, was jet black. No portrait of him is known, ex-

(471) III. HENRY PRENTISS,⁵ son of Rev. Joshua (460) and Mary, born March 7, 1749, in Holliston, Mass. ; died in Medfield, August 31, 1821, in the 73d year of his age. His remains were deposited in King's Chapel burial ground, Boston. Married, by Rev. Dr. Cooper, to Ruth, daughter of Capt. Jonathan Freeman, Sept. 11, 1775.* She was born Nov. 24, 1754 ; died Jan. 6, 1800, † Æ. 45. Mr. Prentiss was a Captain in the Revolutionary Army all the war. His name is on the Revolutionary Rolls, at the State House, Boston, from 1775 to 1780. Was at Cambridge, Long Island, and crossed the Delaware at Trenton. He was a prominent man in Boston — Selectman and Overseer of the Poor, March, 1784 ; ‡ member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, 1786 ; one of the memorable "Tea Party," in 1773 ; and once a sea captain. Was a prosperous merchant in Boston, in 1790, of firm of Prentiss & Skinner. Mr. Skinner was an Englishman, and took advantage of his confidence to defraud him of his property. He resided afterwards for several years, and until his death, with his friends in Medfield, except about a year in Marblehead. He lived, when in Boston, in a stone house he built, said to have been one of the first stone houses built in Boston, near the head of Hanover street, south side, (now the site of White's Bonnet Saloon, 1852,) and was at one time quite wealthy. Henry and his brother Appleton, were both merchants in Boston, and probably together previous to 1790. They were the first ones who introduced the art of printing calico in New England, a coarse blue and red article, on India cotton, a specimen of which was given me by H. J. Prentiss, Boston, cut from a quilt made by Appleton P.'s sister over fifty years ago. A specimen of it was exhibited by Abbot Lawrence, Esq., at the large Fair and exhibition in Washington, a few years since, as a contrast to the prints of the present day. It is now in the Patent Office, Washington. Their print shop was at the corner of Butolph street, Boston, and is now standing. He resided also, and spent his leisure in horticulture, at the beautiful Fresh Pond estate, formerly belonging to Dea. Henry P., which he and Appleton bought. He afterwards bought out Appleton's part of it. A blue and gilt china pitcher, with the inscription, "Success to Henry Prentiss and his Employ, 1789," in gilt letters, was ordered by his crew, and presented by them to him as a token of respect, in Liverpool. A good portrait of him, taken in 1791, in the peculiar costume of that day — said to have been painted by a fellow collegian — is in possession of his daughter, Miss Eliza F. Prentiss, Cambridge, the only survivor of the family. The following anecdote is related of him: — While at Fresh Pond, he lost many melons by the students at college. One year, when near ripe, he inserted in them a strong dose of tartar emetic. Soon after, the melons went again. The next day an express from the college requested his presence, as many of the students were very sick, and as he was acquainted with diseases, they wished him to come. He asked the messenger what the symptoms were. "They were exhausted by constant throwing," &c. He asked if they threw up any melon seeds! He went to see the sick, told them the melons were of a peculiar unwholesome kind, the seed steeped in a West India poison, and they were raised for thieves. He gave them medicine, but told the faculty of the cause. After that, he had plenty of melons. The old clock, in the old Henry Prentice house, in Cambridge, mentioned in Appendix L., Miss Bartlett says, belonged to this Henry Prentiss, and came through his wife, Freeman, whose mother was first, Hatch, second, Freeman, third Stone; when the latter died, Henry's wife had the clock of her mother, Freeman. It was purchased by Mr. Bates at the sale of Capt. Henry P.'s effects.

" Sacred to the memory of Rev. Caleb Prentiss, late Pastor of the First Church in this town, who passed into the world of spirits Feb. 7, 1803, in the 34th year of his ministry, and the 57th of his age. Faith, Piety, and Benevolence, with a kindred assemblage of Christian graces and moral virtues, adorned his public and private character, endeared his memory to a bereaved family, a mourning flock, his brethren in office, and all acquainted with his merits.

" He tried each art, reproved each dull delay,
Allured to brighter worlds and led the way.
Though gone, he is not dead — no good man dies —
But like the day-star, only sets to rise."

" Like Daniel of old, an excellent spirit was in him."*

" His religion was of the heart, not sectarian."*

The following verse is from a poem by his daughter, Sophia, published in the account of the Reading Centennial Celebration.

" A new built church now meets my eyes,
Whose top aspires to reach the skies,
Where PRENTISS mild with kindly word
ENTREATS his friends to love the Lord."

Rev. Caleb P. wrote, Oct. 26, 1802, to his daughter, Sophia, " This is probably the last letter you will receive from me. My disorder has put on all the appearance of a fixed hectic which must put a period to my life. * * I am in the hands of God who will do what is best. I feel myself resigned, and possess that hope which is an anchor to my soul, being persuaded that death will introduce me to realms of light and joy. Fixed is the foundation of my hope. * * You have the prayers and blessing of an affectionate father declining to the grave.”

Like other Patriots of the Revolution, at the Lexington Alarm, which spread over New England with electric speed, Rev. Caleb P. turned out with his musket, and was in the running fight from Lexington to Charlestown. On the route he came across a dead British Pioneer, and took his gun and sword, one side of which was a pioneer's saw. These were long preserved in the family, as remembered by John P. of Keene, N. H. Rev. Caleb also marched, with the militia, to Salem, on an alarm of the landing of the British there to seize arms, &c.* Like many ministers in the country with a large family and small salary he received pupils into his family to educate.

Mr. P. was in a store in his native town, Petersham, Mass., from the age of fourteen to twenty-one. Having acquired a love of study during the many leisure hours to be found in a country store, he decided, at the age of twenty-two, to relinquish trade and fit for college, for which he applied himself with great vigor and energy, and being a good scholar he entered Harvard University after one year's study, but owing to ill health from too close application, he was obliged to leave for a time and taught a Classical School in Virginia. He returned and entered the Theological School, at Cambridge, but, after a trial, finding his health forbid his pursuing his studies, he relinquished it entirely, and engaged under Col. Baldwin in making the first survey of the Western Railroad. He practiced surveying for several years in Connecticut and New Jersey. In 1832, he purchased the farm where he now resides, then a wilderness inhabited by Indians of the Pottawatomic tribe, with whom he lived on friendly terms until their removal, by Government, in 1840. His house, built of logs by his own hands, was the second in the County. His present occupation is farming and attending to a saw-mill, and he has been Judge of Probate for the last nine or ten years.

(698) IX. MARY SMITH,⁷ b. Jan. 10, 1821.

(692) III. SARGENT SMITH PRENTISS,⁷ son of Capt. William (553) and Abigail, born Sept. 30, 1808, in Gorham, Me. ; died in Natchez, Miss., July, 1850, Æ. 42. Married, 1841 or 1842, Mary Jane Williams, of Natchez, whose mother was a Percy, connected with the English Percys, and with the Cadwallader and Sargeant families of Philadelphia, Pa., and Natchez, Miss. Mr. P. fitted for college at Gorham Academy, under the Rev. Reuben Nason. Graduated at Bowdoin College in 1826. Studied law a year with Hon. Josiah Pierce, of Gorham, Me., then with Judge Burnet, of Cincinnati, then went to Natchez, "the City of the Bluff's," where he finished his studies, devoting the night to law, the day to teaching. Here he entered into a short partnership with Gen. Felix Houston. Soon after he removed to Vicksburg, "the City of the Walnut Hills," where he was soon overwhelmed with business. From his first entry in Court, he took a high position. His reading was extensive: his favorite works were, Shakspeare, Scott, and especially the Bible. His absorbing sentiment was Patriotism. Clay, his political idol, Webster and Crittenden his favorite statesmen, believing their principles tended to preserve the Union. In 1836, he was elected to the Mississippi Legislature, and in 1837, to Congress, where, Jan. 17, 1838, he made a speech, which was considered one of the most eloquent and powerful productions of the time, on the famous "Mississippi contested election," his own case. By the casting vote of the Speaker, afterwards President Polk, the contestants were sent back to the people. It was at this time, while canvassing his State, the amusing event occurred, as related by himself at the New England Supper in N. O., as published in the Boston Journal, Jan. 11, 1850, copied from the N. O. Picayune. [See Appendix P.] The result of the new election was that Mr. P. was returned to Congress by an immense majority. Dec. 28, 1828, he delivered a spirited and effective speech on the "Defalcations of Government." In the Presidential Campaign of 1840, he came North, and made a great number of speeches for Harrison. His talents for popular oratory, and "stump speaking," were extraordinary, in which, no man in the South or West ever surpassed him. His power of originating forcible and beautiful natural images of abstract truths was marvellous; but he was quite as much distinguished at the bar for vigorous logic and solid Yankee sense, as for splendid rhetoric. His best speeches have rarely been reported, never perfectly. A good specimen of his style is his speech in the Boston Daily Times, Feb. 18, 1847, at the great New Orleans meeting in favor of the starving population of Ireland, when Hon. Henry Clay and Mr. Crittenden also spoke. Another address is in the New Orleans Picayune, Dec. 23, 1845, before the New England Society of New Orleans, and a speech to the returned volunteers from Mexico, in the same paper, June 12, 1847. He waged energetic, relentless war against Mississippi "Repudiation," denouncing it everywhere as downright dishonesty. He gained an important suit, involving a large amount of "Commons of Vicksburg," said to be one million of dollars in value, his commissions on which were large. His lameness was produced by sickness in infancy. A near relative speaks of his extraordinary filial piety, and unbounded generosity in aiding him to secure a liberal education, at home and abroad. Unfortunately, there is no good portrait of him. An engraving, in the Sept. (1851) number of the American Whig Review, New York, is not considered correct. In one of his last speeches, noticing the sunset, he said, "Friends!

that glorious orb reminds me that the day is spent, and that I too must close. Ere we part, let me hope that it may be our good fortune to end our days in the same splendor, and that when the evening of life comes, we may sink to rest with the clouds that close in our departure, gold tipped, with the glorious effulgence of a well spent life." His funeral took place July 2, and his remains were placed in the burial ground of the Sargeant family, near Natchez, with those of Gov. S., and other relatives of Mrs. P., in presence of a large number of the best and most prominent men of the county. His brother, Rev. George L. Prentice, of New York, is preparing a memoir of him.

Lt. Col. Roger Harlakenden, a man of note, “died of small pox, in Cambridge,” || in 1638, and wills “to Anna my mayde servant 40s., to Mary my mayde 30s., to Gowldinge & Thomas Prentice 30s., each of them.” If this was the above Thomas P. he was then about seventeen years of age, and in some kind of service to H., and may have come over with H.’s family, in 1635, and from him imbibed his military spirit. There is a tradition that this Thomas, or some one of the Prentice name, was in Cromwell’s life guard, or army ; if it was this Thomas, he must have returned to England, served in the army of the Commonwealth, married in 1648, and came back to Cambridge in 1649, with his wife and child, Grace.

The earliest certain record of Thomas P. in America, is in the “Records of the Church in Christ at Cambridge, in N. E.,” which record was begun Nov. 1658, viz. : “Thomas Prentice and Grace his wife both in full Comm : their Children, Grace, baptised in England, and about 4 years old at her parents joining, (in 1652, when he was made Freeman,) Thomas, Elizabeth, Mary, John." Capt. Thomas P. probably came over between 1648 and 1649. He resided in the east part of Newton, where the Boston Water Works tunnel passes. The old well of his house remains, but the house is down.

In 1653, "Thomas Prentice hired Mr. Haynes farm."* In 1656, he was chosen Lieutenant of the troop of horse, at the age of thirty-five, and Captain in 1662.† His brilliant exploits with them in "King Philip's war," are matters of history.‡ In 1661, Stephen Day deeds Thomas P., Sen., 300 acres of land in the "Pequod Country."§ In the Massachusetts General Court records, this land, bounded South by the Sound, West by Capt. Gookin, North East by college land, is ordered to be laid out to Lieut. Thomas Prentice. A part of this land is probably that on which his grandson, Samuel Prentice, Sen., settled in Stonington, Ct., about 1710.

In 1668, he was appointed one of the persons to proceed to Quinsigamond, (Worcester,) and view the plantation, with an object of its settlement, and signed the report Oct. 20, 1668.§ He is named as one of the owners of the first fifty-eight houses with sixty acres of land, in Worcester. His name appears as an active and conspicuous personage for many years on its records, and in 1684, he is called "of Woburn," and had fifty acres of land in Worcester, on the division of the land, "for his public services;" he also had land, by grant and purchase, in Billerica and other places. In 1672, he represented Newton in the General Court. In 1675, he and his troop is mentioned nineteen times in the Massachusetts Colony Treasurer's (John Hull) books. In 1675, he made a desperate charge with his troop, and brought off Vincent Duce, one of them, seriously wounded, in one of the Indian fights; Duce died in 1777, and Capt. P. witnessed his will Nov. 29. In 1675, he bought of Edward Frost, and his wife Thomazin, 85 acres of land south side of Charles river, in Cambridge, bounded by James and Thomas P. (the 2d?) Oct. 7, 1679, Capt. Thomas Prentice, Dea. John Stone, and William Bond were appointed a committee by the General Court, under a law then in force, to rebuild Lancaster, Mass., the inhabitants of which, in King Philip's war, after destroying all their own houses but two, deserted the place. After Philip's death, Aug. 1676, it was uninhabited for three years.* In 1705-6, he settled his estate himself, by deeds of gift: one to his grand-son, Thomas Prentice, of a house and eighty acres of land, in Newton; one to his grand-son, Samuel Prentice, (since of Stonington, Ct.,) of his mansion, and one hundred acres of land in the southerly part of Newton — acknowledged it Feb. 1705-6.† No will, inventory, or other paper is on record.

“He that’s here intered, needs no versifying,
 A vertuous life will keep ye name from dying,
 He’ll live, tho’ poets cese their scribbling rym,
 When that this stone shall mouldered be by time.”

The stone is a small smooth one, with no name, date, or inscription, except the verse. It is now six paces Northwest of the old Capt. Thomas Prentice’s gravestones, (which remain in their original position and entire.) Mr. Francis Jackson, of Boston, well acquainted with the history of Newton, says, that he discovered, in 1851, to whom this stone belonged, and that it had been removed some feet from its true position to straighten the walks. He has urged the Selectmen to replace it in its original position. The male descendants of the old Capt. Thomas P., in Newton, ended with Capt. Thomas P. of the third generation. In 1719, he owned 30 acres of land in Worcester, of which he and wife Elizabeth, of Newton, in 1725, deed to Simon Gates a house lot in Worcester, “formerly of Capt. Thomas Prentice, deceased.”

Lincoln’s History of Worcester, says, “Dr. Samuel Prentiss; a man of talents, and eminent in his profession; came from Stonington, Ct., (to W.) in 1783, was Secretary of a Medical Society in Worcester County, 1785, but which was not sustained. He removed to Keene, N. H. (?) about 1786, thence to Saratoga, N. Y.” Dr. P. received a good academical education, and studied Medicine with Dr. Philip Turner, of Norwich, Ct., one of the best American Surgeons of the age in which he lived. Dr. Prentiss entered the Army quite young, as military waiter to his father, Col. Samuel P., and soon after returned to civil life. About the time of Shay's rebellion, he removed to Northfield, Mass., and was zealous and active on the side of government. Sam. Prentiss

The following obituary notice of Mrs. P. is from the Vermont Chronicle, Sept. 29, 1841 :— “ Died in Montpelier, Vt., 20th inst., at the residence of her son, Lucretia Prentiss, relict of Dr. Samuel Prentiss, of Old Hampshire County, Mass. It has been her peculiar fortune, after having passed through the trying scenes of the revolution, to see two of her sons at the same time taking part in the Government which was one of the fruits of that revolution ; the one, Col. John H. Prentiss, of Cooperstown, N. Y., twice a member of the House of Representatives of the United States, the other, Hon. Samuel Prentiss, of Montpelier, Vt., a member of the United States Senate. In her long life, she possessed the high esteem of her numerous relatives and friends, and in her death, was sustained by the consolations of Christianity.”

(994) II. HON. SAMUEL PRENTISS,⁵ Judge, son of Dr. Samuel (986) and Lucretia, (Holmes) born March 31, 1782, in the old house in Stonington, Ct. He received the degree of LL. D. at Dartmouth College, 1832.* Married Oct. 3, 1804, Lucretia, eldest daughter of Edward Houghton, of Northfield. She was born March 16, 1786. The writer has heard the highest eulogy of Mrs. P. as a lady, wife, and mother. Judge P. studied law, with Solomon Vose, of Northfield, and John W. Blake, Esqrs., of Brattleboro', Vt. Admitted to the bar in 1802. Commenced practice in Montpelier, Vt., May, 1803. In 1822, was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of Vermont, but declined giving up a lucrative profession so early, with a large family. In 1824 and 1825, he was a member of the Vermont Legislature. In 1825, he was appointed an Assistant Justice of the Supreme Court, under a new and improved organization of the Judiciary System, and held it till 1829, when he was appointed Chief Justice. In 1830, he was elected Senator to Congress for six years, and re-elected in 1836, for the same period. In 1842, he was nominated and confirmed "unanimously," and so ordered to be entered on the Journal of the Senate, as Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Vermont, which office he now holds.

The following extracts from the papers of the day, relative to events of some importance in his life, will show the estimation in which Judge P. was held when he retired from the Senate. The Washington Statesman, then edited by Rev. Mr. Gurley, since for several years Chaplain of the House of Representatives, at Washington, says of the existing act relative to duelling in the District of Columbia, which Mr. P. drew up, introduced and carried through the Senate:— "The course of Mr. Prentiss on this bill, and his most able speeches on that subject, give him the highest reputation both for moral and intellectual power. Our respect has been raised to admiration by his strength of principle, perfection of argument, and calm but finished and subduing eloquence, on this bill. Vermont never sent forth from her green mountains a representative better entitled to her confidence, her esteem, and her brightest honors."

His appointment to the Judicial Chair was thus noticed at the time:— "He was unanimously confirmed by Senators of all parties, who vied with each other in expression of their opinion of his eminent fitness for the office, and regrets that a man so pure and firm, and of so much soundness of mind and views, of so much and so rare delicacy and conscientiousness,— a man as necessary in the Senate as he will be useful on the bench, was to be removed from them." — Boston Daily Atlas.

"His letter to the Senate apprizes us of his retirement from that trust, which he has so many years discharged with such uprightness, firmness, moderation, and urbanity, as has secured to him the universal respect and esteem of his associates, and which was freely expressed by Senators of all parties, when his letter of resignation was read, and which have equally inspired all who have known him here, who we know will cordially unite with us in the wish, that the remainder of his life may be as serene and happy, in his new station, as its prime has been useful and honorable in that he has vacated.”

National Intelligencer.

“There is not, we presume, a member of that body, of any party, who will say that Samuel Prentiss, during the period of eleven years, ever uttered a sentiment, or gave a vote, in opposition to his own conscientious convictions. He is a man of clear and strong intellect, of comparatively few words, and has shown himself on all occasions too well informed to be deceived by the designing, and too stern to be biased by factions. The President, in tendering him the office of United States District Judge, has performed an act which even party animosity will never impugn.”—Philadel. North American.

“Judge P. is a distinguished gentleman, well known and universally respected in New England, both as an eminent Jurist and accomplished politician. While in Congress he was an exceedingly active and influential member, yet had but few enemies, and was warmly admired by all parties for his judgment and moderation, and was of unquestioned integrity.”—Cleveland (Ohio) paper.

In reference to Judge Prentiss as Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Vermont, the Law Reporter, a periodical of high repute, published in Boston, Vol. ii., p. 422, N. S., thus speaks:—“It may not be amiss to allude somewhat to the character of the decisions of Mr. Justice Prentiss. They display great learning and legal acumen, and clearly entitle him to a high rank among the jurists of the country. It is one of the most gratifyng reflections suggested by the operation of our republican system, that gentlemen who have been distinguished in the elevated position of Federal Senators, can retire to a less conspicuous position on the bench of a local Court, and there, protected from party clamor, vindicate by their learning and uprightness, their claim to the unqualified respect of all classes of our citizens. In confirmation of this, we can proudly refer to the popular estimation of the District Judges of Vermont and Massachusetts."

"He would not be understood as undervaluing popularity, because he disclaimed it as a rule of conduct; but he was quite too humble and unpretending an individual to count greatly upon it, or to seek for or desire any which did not arise from the pursuit of right ends by right means. Whatever popularity that might bring, might be as grateful to him as to any one, but he neither coveted nor was ambitious of any other." — Extract from his Speech in the U. S. Senate, March 2, 1841.

Children.

(1001) I. GEORGE HOUGHTON,⁶ b. June 25, 1805; educated at West Point; commissioned as Lieut. in U. S. Army, July 1, 1827; resigned on account of ill health; studied and commenced the practice of Law; died Sept. 3, 1833, Æ. 28.

(1002) II. SAMUEL BLAKE,⁶ b. Jan. 23, 1807. Married Jane Abbot Russell, April 15, 1851. Entered the University of Vermont; after the College was burnt, studied Law with his father; admitted to the bar, 1828; to the Supreme Court, 1831; practiced in Montpelier, until 1840; then settled in Cleveland, Ohio, in company with his brother, already there. In the Plain Dealer, published at Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 25, 1851, is the following:—“There are few men at our Bar, and indeed but few at any Bar in the State, who have acquired a more enviable reputation as a Lawyer than Mr. P. Mild and unassuming in manner, quiet and retiring in his disposition and habits, adverse to anything like ostentation and display, wedded to his calling, and asking no honors but those which are to be won strictly within the pale of his profession. He has been the architect of his own fortune, won at the expense of great toil and unwearying labor. From his father he inherited those high principles of honor and rectitude which have always marked his character, both in professional and private life. With an uncommon sound mind, talents of a high order, indomitable resolution and determination to master whatever he undertakes — though not exactly a popular orator, he is a speaker of very high order — too quick of temperament and with voice not strong enough for masses, but when addressing a Court or Jury, he is a chaste and beautiful speaker; — in arguing, without excitement, always cool and collected, clear and precise, ingenious, forcible, and logical, perhaps over fond of drawing nice and delicate distinctions upon legal questions. He is gentlemanly and courteous to opponents, and never attempts any dishonorable or unfair means to gain a suit—presses his points with great pertinacity, and “backs them up” with every authority and precedent—his legal opinion deliberately and carefully formed, is not to be lightly questioned. In person, he is about five feet ten in height, neat and careful in dress, has a finely shaped head, broad and high forehead, large blue eyes, regular features, and pleasing expression of countenance; dark hair, slightly mixed with gray, and is polite and affable in manner.”

(995) III. COL. JOHN HOMES PRENTISS,⁵ son of Dr. Samuel (986) and Lucretia, born in 1785, in Stonington, Conn. ; served a regular apprenticeship as a printer ; removed to Cooperstown, N. Y., Oct. 8, 1808, and there established a weekly political newspaper — the Freeman's Journal — favoring the Democratic party, and which he continued successfully over forty years, until he sold out his interest, Jan. 20, 1849 ; having during all this time, (except four years service as Representative in the Congress of the United States, during the whole of President Van Buren's term,) given his personal attention in the printing office, to the mechanical department, and also being sole editor of the paper, and attending to the financial department. The paper had a large circulation, and its political character exercised an influence in the County of Otsego, which made it one of the strongest Democratic counties in the State of New York. Gov. Clinton conferred on him a Commission as Colonel in the Militia, by holding the appointment of Division Inspector — this he resigned under Gov. Yates — since which, he is designated by the title of " Colonel " Prentiss. At the good age of sixty-six, he now enjoys a competency, and a freedom from the cares and anxieties of business, thankful to a kind Providence for his blessings, and for such an extraordinary degree of good health, never having been visited by disease of any kind, which he mainly attributes to constant and regular employment, having made it a rule to be engaged in his business from ten to twelve hours daily, by which he acquired the enviable notoriety of working more hours in a day, during forty years, than any man in the county. Many young men of eminence, in the profession, served their time in his office, one of whom was Col. Wm. L. Stone, deceased, editor of the

New York Commercial Advertiser, and of high repute also as an author. Col. P. married first, on the 18th of Jan. 1815, Catherine Cox Morris, aged nineteen years, youngest daughter of Gen. Jacob M., of Butternuts, Otsego County, N. Y. His father was one of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Gen. M. was aid to Major Generals Lee and Greene, in the revolution, was a gentleman of the Old School, and died at the age of 83. Mrs. P. died June 28, 1818. Ten years after, Col. John J. Prentice (145) was born in Worcester, Mass., not in Mount Vernon, and married Mary Ann Parker ; practised in Henniker, not Herkimer ; and Henry (146) was born, 1823 ; died at the age of four years.

Note on page 43. Bishop Hobart resided in Catskill, where H. Hobart P.'s father, Rev. Joseph Prentice, lived.

John P. (103) removed from Worcester to Gloucester, Mass. ; was Cashier of Amherst Bank eighteen years. H. H. P. says that his father is not connected with him in business. These errors arose from not answering my letters.

On p. 161, No. (790) should be (796).

The following is a correct list of the family of John Prentiss, (514) who married Amelia F. Kennedy, of Baltimore, Dec. 22, 1825, and which was received after the account on page 107 was printed.

(1202) or (519) IX. MARCIA GRAY,⁷ b. Aug. 25, 1844; died Dec. 4, 1850.

The two youngest lads are at school with their father.

John Prentiss, (514) of "Medfield," his residence, (named for his native town) three and a half miles from Baltimore, studied at home until his father died, and then at Phillips Academy, Andover. Entered Harvard University, 1814, at the age of sixteen; taught school in the winter of 1814-15, at East Sudbury, now Wayland, Mass., and in 1816-17, in Medfield. Graduated at H. U., as A. B., 1818. The principles of pure religion and the precepts of the best of mothers were his shield from the usual temptations of so early an age in College. To repay his collegiate expenses and those of his intended theological studies, he took charge of the Female High School in Charlestown, Mass., as its first master, with the aid of one female assistant only, to three hundred pupils; he relinquished it in 1819-20, having accomplished his object, and entered the Divinity School of Harvard University, remaining till 1822. While there, he took charge of the Female High School of the late Rev. Henry Colman, during his illness of several months, and while in his family acquired in him a fast friend, to his death. In 1823, Mr. Prentiss accepted the appointment of a tutorship in Baltimore College, and subsequently, in 1824, he was chosen Principal of one of the Maryland State Academies, at Garrison Forest, about ten miles from Baltimore. In 1825 he opened a private school for boys in Baltimore, which he resigned from ill health in 1841, and returned to his farm. In 1833 he was elected President of the Collegiate and Principal of the Academic Department of Baltimore College, and governed by moral suasion with eminent success, eight years, when he returned finally to his farm, combining the management of that, with fitting a few lads for College, thus giving them useful instruction, with what is of as much consequence to them, a sound constitution.

On page 5, &c., John Prentice, (2) of New London, Ct., is called the "Smith," to distinguish him from other Johns, "though he pursued that calling for so short a time after he settled in New London, and spent so many years in other pursuits, that that designation is somewhat inappropriate."

Page 6, (9) Mercy, daughter of John and Esther Prentice, died in 1689.

Page 6, (13) Ralph died unmarried.

Page 6, note, "There is no doubt that the tombstone was set up for Capt. John Prentis, (19) and that the inscription was neglected to be cut." The date named there, 1630 to 1640, should be 1730 to 1760.

Page 7. Jonathan Prentis (5) was the (3d) son of John the "Smith," and Capt. John Prentis (19) was the Breton Capt., and was son of Jonathan and Elizabeth, and there is no link wanting in the regular chain of descent from John (2); therefore the remainder of the note on page 7, beginning, "He thinks with," &c., to foot of the page, should be omitted. Capt. John, it now appears, died in London, after his return there from a visit to the seat of the Edgecombs, in Cornwall, of small pox, contracted while there.

Page 8, &c., read Christophers for Christophus. (21) Read two sons, for one son. (24) Read Mellally for Maloney.

Page 9, (26) read John for George Hallam. (28) Read The Right Rev. John Prentis K. Henshaw,* of Providence,

THE OLD SARTELL BIBLE, &c.

The following is a copy of the memorandum written by Nat. Sartell, when he was shipwrecked; it is on the last cover of the Bible, inside:—

“Feb. ye 14, 1718. I was cast on the rocks of Quibberone, near Bellisle, in the bay of Resimea, all my men lost. N. SARTELL.”

He then put the Bible in a cask, and threw it overboard, expecting to be lost himself. When the vessel went to pieces, he took the cabin boy on his back and swam to a rock, where he remained all night, much bruised and exhausted. The boy died in the night; he was rescued next morning. The Bible was also saved. This was one of the voyages he made to New England. He was gone so long one trip, probably this, that his wife, in England, sent a vessel over in search of him; but on her arrival, he had returned to England. He is supposed to have brought his family over soon after. They first settled in Charlestown; next in Groton, Mass., where he died, Jan. 16, 1741, Æ. 60.* When he was shipwrecked, besides vessel and cargo, he is said to have lost a large quantity of silver, &c. He was wealthy, and brought over many costly articles of furniture; brocade, and other dresses, for his daughter Sarah, then about nine years of age. The writer has a piece of a rich brocade silk dress ; one of the embossed, stamped, and gilt leather covers for high back chairs, painted with high and variously colored flowers, (mentioned in his wife's will ;) also a piece of her silk christening blanket, of needlework, the figures stalks of cherries with leaves, and birds, the colors quite bright ; also, a very large, deep pewter platter, nearly two feet in diameter. Mrs. N. Copeland, Boston, had one of Sarah Sartell's high back chairs.*

The Bible above-mentioned, (title-page gone,) date, printed in 1707, for the Translators ; time, Wm. Rex. ; date of the Psalms, of Sternhold and Hopkins, at the end, is 1702. The covers are of half inch oak, with stamped leather outside, and large wrought brass clasps ; the covers project an inch, which has preserved the leaves. The family record, on the first cover inside, is in Nat. Sartell's hand writing till 1740, nearly faded, then continued by Rev. Solomon Prentice. On the blank leaf, before the New Testament, is a record of John Prentice's family, by himself, and continued by his son, Josiah Sartell Prentice, Esq., of Oxford, Mass., who gave me the Bible a few years since.

When Rev. Solomon Prentice married Sarah Sartell, her brother, Josiah, and some of her family, disliked her marriage to " a poor country minister," and refused to allow her share of her father's property. It was supposed that Josiah's wife, a Green, influenced him ; but before Josiah died, he told the sons of his sister Sarah, that he would give them property to educate them. And it was believed he made a second will in their favor, but on his death, only the first will was produced by his wife, in which he left her the property for life, and at her death, to " the Town of Groton, Mass.," the income to support " the minister " and a school, " but not to sell the property."

Just before his widow died, a long while after his death, she became frightened, and told some of the Prentice family, that her husband did make a second will, in their favor, but "that she buried it under his head in his coffin!" It was too late then to get it. The property was afterwards contested by the Prentice and Brigham heirs, in the name of Sarah (Prentice) Brigham, daughter of Rev. Solomon P., of Grafton, (see Vol. 10, Pickering's, Mass. Reports,) "for a deviation from the will," the town of Groton having sold the lands. But they had possession too long; and the decision was, that if the property belonged to any one besides the town, it would belong to the executors as residuary legatees. Daniel Webster was one of the counsel for the town. The heirs then alive, shared the expense of suit. This Bible was produced in Court on account of the record.

The old house on the farm in Groton, north of the burial ground, still remains. The ministerial fund is now held by the Unitarian Church, but has been a bone of contention with new societies ever since. Butler's History of Groton gives an account of the funds and donors to church and school. The families of Prentices, descended from Rev. Solomon P., learned to read out of this Bible; and he always read from it in his pulpit, after the reading of the Bible was introduced as part of the regular services, which was not the case at first. Nathaniel Sartell's will, (on record at East Cambridge Probate Office, Middlesex County,) was dated Aug. 2, 1710, at Gosport Co., South Row, Mar. England, when he was about sailing on a voyage to America, and he is called "of Gosport, sometime of Charlestown, in the Colony of New England." His name was written by the notary in it, Nath'l Sattel, omitting the letter r, and he so signed it, probably to save making a new copy. At his death, his wife, the Executrix, proved it, Aug. 2, 1742, who said "her husband gave it her at its date, and she had had it in her possession ever since." He leaves all his real and personal estate, at his death, to her and her heirs. His son Josiah disputed it on account of the signature, and length of time, supposing there was another will, but afterwards withdrew his objection. He left £3348 14s. 3d., property in Groton, and £1120 3s. 4d., in Charlestown, including "warehouse at town dock;" his silver ware was £47; fourteen gilt leather chair bottoms; books, surveying instruments, &c. The Judge allowed the will as to personal property only — the real estate in Groton, Townsend, and Charlestown, was divided, the lands in Groton and Townsend to Josiah.* In 1750, March 8, Sarah Sartell, his widow, wills to her grand-daughter, Sarah Prentice, "my best suit of silk clothes and gold necklace;" to her daughter Sarah, wife of Rev. Solomon Prentice, half of all that gilt leather, (chair covers,) and half of all my velvetts, and all the notes and debts due her by her husband, Rev. Solomon Prentice. Several bequests to her children, the Sartells, and "all the rest of my property, real and personal, to my daughter, Margaret Gibbs."

The following Obituary of Mrs. Mary P. Hurlbut, is from the Puritan Recorder, Boston, July 26, 1849, signed J. B. :—“Died, in Sudbury, 13th inst., Mrs. Mary P. Hurlbut, Æ. 59, relict of Rev. Rufus H., who died May 11, 1839, having been Pastor of the Church in S. twenty-two years. Mrs. H. was the daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Prentiss, Pastor of the Church in Medfield, and grand-daughter of the late Mr. John Scollay, of Boston, well known in Revolutionary history. Mrs. H. was truly a spiritual and prayerful woman, and like her godly mother, did much good in secret. Religion was her consolation and support through life, and in the hour of death. Her faith was strong to the end; the last enemy was easily overcome, and scarcely did the victory cost a struggle. She is lamented by the Church, of which she was an ornament, by those who found her a devoted mother, an affectionate sister, and a firm and confiding friend.”

F. (p. 108.)

The following tribute to the memory of the late Mr. William Prentiss, of Baltimore, was written by his class-mate and personal friend, Seth Ames, Esq., of Lowell, son of the late Hon. Fisher Ames :—“Died, in Boston, April 25, 1834, Mr. William Prentiss, of Baltimore, aged 29, a native of Medfield, in this State, and a graduate of Harvard University. This gentleman, though of late years he had been a citizen of Maryland, and of course only an occasional visitor among us, has left behind him many friends in this, his native State, to mourn over his early death. No man ever lived more free from guile; his life was a constant example of the beauty of truth. The manliness of his character was reflected in the frankness of his manners; sincerity stamped her impress on his features, and spoke in every tone of his voice. But upon the qualities of his heart we dare not enlarge. His unwearied application, his extensive acquirements, his clear and vigorous intellect, united with a character of unusual energy and resolution, seemed to promise him high distinction in his chosen profession, the law. Like many young men in this country, he was compelled to toil for support as a teacher, while he engaged in the still more arduous toil of a faithful study of his profession. He was too ambitious and high spirited to be satisfied with a superficial and imperfect knowledge of the law, and too conscientious to do less than his whole duty to the pupils under his care. His strength failed him in the midst of his labors. Sickness and death met him at the threshold of his profession. * * * Short as his life has been, it was full of good example. To express all in one word, it was, (so far as human eyes could see,) irreproachable, and the blessing that is promised to 'the pure in heart,' will be his reward."

H. (p. 159.)

John Prentiss, of Keene, N. H., writes me, March 30, 1849, "That our ancestors were 'Roundheads,' and of the Puritan family, there can be no doubt; that they belonged to the disbanded army of Cromwell, is probable, and that they were three brothers, (?) as all in New England can be traced to one of the branches; but there is certainly a difficulty in accounting for their leaving at the Restoration,* when the records of Cambridge show the name in 1640, or thereabouts,"† [as well as the Church and Town records of Roxbury, in 1631.] Macauley, in his recent History of England, says, "The Royalists themselves confessed, that in every department of honest industry, the disbanded warriors of Cromwell's army prospered beyond other men; that none were charged with any theft or robbery, that none were known to ask alms, and that if a baker, mason, or wagoner attracted notice by his diligence and sobriety, he was in all probability one of Oliver's old soldiers." This is really worth more in our Republican country, than all the coats of arms preserved of the Prentice, Prentiss, or Prentys families. Our ancestors were no cavaliers, and of the Whig, rather than the Tory party, as they afterwards were designated.

* 1660.

† Charles I. was beheaded in 1649. Cromwell died, 1658.

Louisburg was a very strong place. The Expedition was by New England troops, assisted by an English squadron. It was taken in a short time, on the 17th of June, 1745, (a memorable day in our annals.) The troops were obliged to haul cannon two miles through a morass. After the place capitulated, the combined forces kept the French flag flying as a decoy, and thereby captured several valuable prizes, which arrived from France. The weather was fine during the siege, but the day after they took possession, storms and rain set in, which continued for ten days. The names of the British fleet and commanders are mentioned in one account; also, several ships of twenty guns, from N. England, with others, and also several sloops-of-war from Connecticut, &c.; but no names in that account. [See published Journal of the Siege and map and plan, in Hist. Society, Boston, 1850.]

The following beautiful lines, composed by SOPHIA PRENTISS, daughter of Rev. Caleb Prentiss, who died in 1807, at the age of twenty-five, are from a book entitled "Remains of My Early Friend," published by Mrs. Frothingham, of Belfast, Me., and also in the Reading Bi-Centennial Celebration, in 1844:—

ADIEU TO READING.

By the last beams of parting day,
 Let me this charming scene survey;
 Trace every spot I loved so well,
 The lofty tree, the lowly dell.
 Dear, lovely landscape! now adieu;
 When distant — I will think of you.

The enraptured eye beholds around,
 Here verdant plains, there rising ground;

The flowery field, the fleecy fold,
 The mountain, tipped with blue and gold.
 Oft fancy shall these haunts pursue,
 And still, though distant, dwell on you.

The Village Church first greets my eyes,
 Aspiring, seems to meet the skies.
 There the beloved Pastor taught
 Each truth sublime, each noble thought ;
 Taught us a brighter world to view :
 When distant far — I'll think on you.

The humble school-house next appears,
 Where sweetly passed my early years ;
 There knowledge first with pleasing art,
 Conveyed her treasures to my heart :
 Then while that heart 's to Virtue true,
 With pleasure, I will think on you.

Behold the venerable roof,
 Where I have felt each tender proof
 Of love paternal and sincere,
 Its pleasing smile or anxious tear ;
 Ah ! happy days, how fast ye flew !
 Yet I will often think on you.

The ancient elm that arches o'er,
 The cherries, shading it before ;
 The garden and its vine-wrought bower,
 Where passed the gay or serious hour,
 When little of the world I knew ;
 I'll quit that world to think on you.

The fields of cultivated land,
 The orchard, planted by that hand
 Which in the dust is mouldering laid,
 Now yields its blossoms, fruit, and shade ;
 'T was from his fostering care ye grew,
 And I shall love to think on you.

Fair lake, how oft I've wandered o'er
 Thy grassy banks and pebbled shore,
 While on thy surface sunbeams played,
 And distant trees, in lengthened shade,
 Met the mild sky's ethereal blue :
 When can I cease to think on you ?

See the calm mansions of the dead,
 Where some loved friends are peaceful laid ;
 Long may'st thou be with rev'rence viewed,
 And thy green turf with tears bedewed ;
 Till I shall sleep in silence, too,
 And can no longer think on you.

JJ. (p. 123.)

The following obituary notice of Mary Prentiss, daughter of Dea. Caleb P., written by His Excellency Governor Kent, of Bangor, appeared in a newspaper of Bangor, Me., in 1836, was sent me by Miss Ellen P. Frothingham, of Belfast, Maine :—

“ To the Editor of the Mechanic and Farmer, Bangor :— You may remember that soon after the dedication of Mount Hope (Cemetery,) in July last, I informed you that I had in my possession some stanzas composed by a lady of this city, which I intended to offer for publication. I am forcibly and sadly reminded of that promise, by the death of the author, Miss Mary Prentiss, daughter of Dea. Caleb Prentiss, of Paris, Me., who died in Bangor on the 16th inst. I will not attempt a formal newspaper eulogium on her character. To those who knew her, had witnessed her life of unobtrusive usefulness and conscientious discharge of duty, and had been blessed with her friendship and love, such an eulogium would be useless. Her friends will long remember her as one who, without adventitious and accidental advantages, had won her way to their hearts and affections, by the vigor and discipline of her mind, by the gentle kindness and disinterestedness of her life, by an almost excessive sensibility, tempered and subdued, that she might never shrink from duty, and an expansive benevolence, that embraced the whole human family, and a remarkable absence of that selfishness, which regulates and calculates not its actions, without a reference to personal comfort. At the time above alluded to, (the dedication of Mt. Hope,) she was deeply interested in the object and the occasion, and in a note to a friend, enclosing the annexed lines, she says, ‘Ever since I heard of the arrangements for the dedication of Mt. Hope, I have imagined myself dead, and buried there. I send you the fruit of my strange imagination.’ At that period, and until a short time before her death, her health was excellent. There is something in the lines and thought, of that mysterious and indefinable presentiment, that warning of the spirit, that far-reaching vision, dim and indistinct, and yet almost real, which we sometimes fancy is vouchsafed to the pure in heart, as they approach near to the Spirit-land.”

A SPIRIT AT MOUNT HOPE.

I am no more a child of earth,
 My spirit from its clay hath fled ;
 And yet I linger round the spot,
 Where they have made my low, last bed.

The strong deep wish to be beloved,
 Has not departed with my breath ;
 It had its origin in Heaven,
 And was too pure to yield to death.

I see the tears the mourners shed,
 I catch the murmur of their sighs,
 And through their long and weary days,
 I watch them with my spirit-eyes.

My home is in a better world,
 Of ceaseless bloom and cloudless light,
 And the soiled robe I wore below,
 Is changed for one of spotless white.

Deck then my grave with earth's frail flowers,
 And teach the mourning trees to bend,
 But do not water them with tears ;
 Plume the soul's pinions to ascend.

If it is bliss e'en here to mount,
 Where we must bear the heavy chain,
 Which checks us in our highest flight,
 And drags us to the earth again —

Think of the Soul with nought to clog,
 With nought to dim its eagle sight,
 Forever drinking in new joy,
 Forever catching some new light ;—

If this dark stream is beautiful,
 Which waters but an earthly clod,
 Think what must be that purer one,
 Which sparkles from the throne of God.

Oh, dry your tears, no longer weep,
 The grave is not a gloomy place ;
 Religion sheds a radiance,
 Which every lingering cloud should chase.

“ Beneath those venerable oaks, in that resting place of the dead, her mortal remains are deposited, and her pure spirit has gone onward to that world of ‘ ceaseless bloom and cloudless light ’ she so beautifully described, and if her spirit-eyes can look back to earth, she sees that the tears of many mourners have watered that grave, and that the memory of her good deeds and spotless example, will not pass away.”

THE FAMILY OF MARY (PRENTICE) BINNEY. (89)

MARY, (Cushing) daughter of Amos and Mary (P.) Binney, of Hull, Mass., had a daughter Mary, b. Nov. 9, 1788, who married Gorham Lincoln ; he resides at Rocky Nook, Hingham, the old Cushing place. Mrs. L. died 1833, had seven children, four daughters survive, 1852. 1, Elizabeth Cushing, who married, in 1842, Wm. Edward Doane, Surveyor, of Cohasset; has a family; went to California, 1852. 2, Sarah Binney, married Henry Ware Lincoln, Chemist and Apothecary, Boston, has one child. 3, Catherine Kilby Thaxter, and 4, Mary, reside with their father at Hingham.

NANCY, daughter of Amos and Mary (P.) Binney, married John Copeland, of Weymouth, 1799; he died, 1835, no children; she enjoys fair health, at the age of 77, waiting with Christian hope and resignation the summons to join her family above.

AMOS, son of Amos and Mary (P.) Binney, was born in Hull. Married Mary Dolliver, 1799, in Boston. He was an active, enterprising, and benevolent man, of the liberal Methodist Church; was Navy Agent for the port of Boston before, and many years after, the war of 1812. His exertions in that war to fit out the vessels of our then infant and unknown Navy, which was in bad repute with many, were great and unparalleled, both day and night. Without any, or scanty official funds, he was often obliged to pledge not only his own means and credit, but that of his brother and friends, among whom was the celebrated Boston Merchant, "Billy Gray," who was satisfied of the stability of the Government. By Mr. Binney's great and unceasing exertions, seconded by Com. Hull, he was enabled to fit out the frigate Constitution, ("Old Ironsides,") in time to capture the "Guerriere." Mr. B. did much to develop the mineral resources of the country, and was largely engaged in manufactures and lands in the vicinity of Boston, which rapidly increased in value. He was an efficient President of the Boston and Worcester Railroad Company, and President of the Market Bank, Boston. He was the means of preserving "Joy's Building," at the large fire in Washington Street, Boston, by obtaining, on his own responsibility, all the bales of Blankets he could procure, and having them nailed over the building, and kept wet—for which service due acknowledgment was made. His family possess a valuable service of plate, which was presented to him. He died at his residence in Boston, Jan. 11, 1833, Æ. 55. Mrs. B. died in Boston, Feb. 18, 1847. The family have excellent portraits of him, of his son, Dr. A. B. and wife, and others of the family. He left five children, (six others having died, one of whom was Henry Prentice,) viz:—

I. AMOS, b. 1803. Brown University, 1821, M. D., H. U., 1826. Studied Medicine with Dr. Geo. C. Shattuck, Boston. His health preventing practice, he travelled to Ohio, in 1824, on horseback.

At his father's death, he took charge of his affairs, and continued his place of business with success. He was elected President of the Hancock Bank, to wind up its affairs. He visited Europe in 1825, for health, and again, with his wife, in 1847, and died in Rome, Italy, Feb. 18, 1847, about the time his mother died here. He devoted much time to Natural History, and accumulated the most valuable Library on that subject, in this country. He collected many valuable specimens of Sculpture and Painting. He was one of the founders and President of the Boston Natural History Society. His costly and elaborate work in three volumes, with plates, on the "Terrestrial Mollusks of the United States," has been published by his direction, by Dr. A. A. Gould, Boston, with a Memoir of Dr. B. A splendid marble monument, by Crawford, was erected to his memory, by his widow, at Mt. Auburn, where his remains were interred. He married his cousin, Mary Ann Prentice, daughter of Capt. John Binney, Boston, and left five children. 1, Amos, who married, in 1851, Harriet, daughter of Hon. James Savage, Boston; they are now travelling in Europe. 2, John, died Oct., 1851, Æ. 20. 3, William Greene, Student, H. U., 1852. 4, Sarah Ann. 5, Henry Prentice. Mrs. B.'s residence is in Boston.

The father of Amos Binney, who was born in 1745, died 1783, who married Mary Prentice, 1770, was Amos Binney, Sen., of Hull, born 1711, died 1778; he married Rebecca, daughter of Dea. Ben. Loring, of Hull, in 1731. Amos B. Sen.'s father was Dea. John Binney, of Hull, born 1680, died 1759, who married first, Hannah Paine, of Eastham, Mass., 1704; second, in his old age, Sarah Crosby, of Boston, in 1757. Dea. John's father was John Binney, died in Hull 1698, who with his wife Mercy, who died 1708-9, settled in Hull, about 1680, and was supposed to have come from Hull, England, or its vicinity, near where, "in Worksop, Nottinghamshire, the Binney family have buried from 200 to 250 years, and one or more of the name came to America early." [Per Thomas Binney's letter, Hull, England, 1850.] The Halifax, N. S., Binneys and their descendants there and in England, are descended from Hon. Jonathan, son of Thomas and Margaret Binney, born in Hull, Mass., Jan. 7, 1724-5, who left Boston in 1753, after the death of his wife, Martha, (Hall) and settled in Halifax, N. S.; their son, Stephen Hall Binney, died in Boston in 1760, aged eleven years. He was a member of H. M. Council, &c., and married his second wife, Hannah (Newton) there. THE OLD HENRY PRENTICE HOUSE AND CLOCK.

This house stands by the tall elm, about forty rods north of the Washington elm, near Cambridge Common. The house fronts south, in a yard, the east end near the street, which runs by it, to the Botanic Garden, &c. It is now occupied by Miss Elizabeth Bates. The house was built of oak, and is in good preservation — the walls filled in with brick — the beams passing half-way through the ceiling of the room. It is of two stories, about thirty feet front, the front door in the centre, is time-eaten — rooms on each side of the entry — a very wide staircase — two windows in front below, three above. The chimney is a heavy, old-fashioned one, in the centre of the house, with a niche in the front at the top. This house was occupied by Dea. Henry, son of Solomon Prentice, Sen., and perhaps by Solomon, Sen., and the first Henry. Miss Bates says her father bought the house sixty or seventy years since, and it was then over one hundred years old. The old clock there was purchased at a sale of Henry Prentice's effects, by her father, a long time since. It belonged to Henry P.'s wife. It evidently was made before 1700.

In Solomon P.'s, (Sen.) inventory, and settlement of the estate, his son Henry had "the E. half of the house his father lived and died in," the widow the other half; and Henry had in payment of four and a half years' services to his father, in his brick yard, £60, which he was to have out of the new house. Solomon P., Sen., died in 1719, and the estate was settled in 1719–20. If the house was the new one, it is now 131 years old. The gravestones yet legible — of Solomon P., Sen., who died in 1719, Æ. 73; Hepzi-bah, his 2d wife, died in 1741, Æ. 89; of Thomas P., died Nov. 14, 1775, Æ. 67; of Mrs. Elizabeth P., died May 14, 1727, Æ. 43; of Thomas P., died Dec. 7, 1709, Æ. 33, 3, 12, (should be 35;) of Irene P.; of Mrs. Mary Lyon, previously the widow of Thomas P. — are all near each other, about the centre of the burial-ground, opposite the colleges, and near the north side, nearly overgrown with lichens.

O. (p. 115.)

A yearly family gathering was begun by all the children of Rev. John Mellen and wife, Rebecca, (Prentiss) with their husbands and wives. It commenced in Concord, Sept 22, 1795, with choice of a President and Secretary. They met yearly, at each other's houses, recording the transactions then, and the occurrences in each other's families during the past year. In 1830, Death had made such inroads in their number, that, by general consent of the few survivors, the meetings were dispensed with.

In Oct. 1838, of the original members, including Rev. John Mellen and wife, and their seven children and their husbands and wives, sixteen in all, who met in 1795, but two then survived, Col. William A. Kent, of Concord, N. H., and Chief Justice Prentiss Mellen, of Portland, Me., both of whom were dead in 1840.

“Our Fathers — where are they?”

“From death's arrest — no age is Free.”*

The Mellen and Prentiss families, who were connected for many years, “celebrated their marriages under an oak tree, in Hopkinton, Mass., which yet stands and flourishes, in a green old age,”— while we trust that all those, who are departed, are in that abode, where the broken links of affection are again united.

A gathering of the Prentice or Prentiss families, or as many of the members as could meet together, on a certain day of the year, at some convenient place, with choice of a President and other officers, book for signatures of all, and record of the proceedings and minutes of each family, with an Address and a Poem, and a collation, would be very interesting, and might be continued, in different locations, as often as wished, and called by public notice in the different papers, and by circulars. This suggestion is made for the consideration of those interested.

P. (p. 145.)

S. S. PRENTISS. The following is the incident referred to as having occurred at the New England Supper in New Orleans, when the following toast was proposed:—

“The State of Mississippi — She has sent us her best apprentice.”

Judge Bullard moved as an amendment the addition of — “And we have made him a master workman.”

It is needless to say that the toast was drank with all the honors. Mr. Prentiss replied in his happiest style. He spoke with deep feeling of his attachment to Mississippi, of the honor and chivalry of its many gentlemen of all parties. In the course of his speech he told two of his electioneering reminiscences, which “set the table in a roar.” He said that six, or eight, or twelve years ago, he did not like to be particular about dates, he went to Washington, thinking he was a member of Congress, but he found out his mistake, and came home as fast as possible to get right. He made speeches in fifty-four out of the fifty-six counties in the State. He sent printed bills containing his appointment twenty-six days ahead of him. Now there was a caravan just at this time perambulating the State, and the proprietor availed himself of the gatherings collected by Mr. P.’s notices. This, by the way, said Mr. P., was quite in the ordinary course of things, as an observer of political excitements must have remarked, that a caravan of some kind or other usually follows in their wake.

The first time Mr. P. saw the elephant was in — county, in the northern part of the State, near the Alabama line. It is one of the most beautiful counties in Mississippi, its population chiefly from South Carolina, and though they had voted against him on the previous election, he hoped their State rights notions would bring them into his support at this contest, when he did not run so much the candidate of a party as the Representative of the State whose dignity and sovereignty had been outraged in his person. At the appointed hour he found over three hundred ladies and gentlemen assembled to hear him. He was in “high feather,” and began to speak with more than usual energy. The audience listened with marked attention, and he felt sure of bagging game. When he had spoken about an hour he began to observe some of the outsiders looking over their shoulders, and this movement was gradually followed by most of his audience. He began to think he was growing dull, and endeavored to rouse himself up to more animation ; but it was no go. He at length looked in the popular direction, and there, to his horror, just coming over the hill, was the elephant, dressed in his scarlet trappings and oriental splendor, with a houdah on his back, occupied by the musicians, and in the rear came a long line of wagons and cages. A foolish feeling of vanity not to be outdone by the elephant, came over him, and he continued to talk, appealing to the people in the name of the State, their patriotism, &c., &c. ; but all in vain. A few well mannered persons remained, but evidently they were retained only by their politeness.

He found it was no use. So he said, " Well, ladies and gentlemen, I am beaten ; but I have the consolation of knowing that it is not by my competitor. I will not knock under to any two-legged beast, but I yield to the elephant." To be sure, he was at first provoked by the preference shown to the beast over himself ; but, on reflection, he was inclined to think the people were right. A Bengal tiger or an India elephant was an animal to be seen once in a lifetime, but politicians they could see every day.

He said, however, he had his revenge a few days after. He found that he must come to some understanding with the caravan. So he agreed with the proprietor that at Holly Springs he would address the people under the great awning for one hour, and then he would give way to the monkey and clown. He hoped this would not be charged on him as " bargain and corruption." At any rate, it was honestly carried out by both parties. Between himself and the caravan, a large assemblage was gathered under the immense awning.

One of the cages was converted into a rostrum. He heard a low sound, which resembled a growl, and learned that the hyena was the nearest listener. There were large augur holes in the top of the box for the admission of air. He commenced speaking, and when he reached the blood and thunder portion of his speech, he run his cane into the cage and called forth a most horrid yell from the enraged animal, at the same time he gesticulated violently with the other hand. The effect was electric ; he called down the house in a perfect tempest of enthusiasm. From this time he had it all his own way. He hurled his anathemas at his foes, and enforced them by the yells of his neighbor. The hyena was good for a hundred votes, and he thus converted a mischief into a profit.

[The following account of the family of LUKE PRENTICE, of North-bridge, Mass., was received too late for insertion in its proper place, and is now printed, as an extra, at his request.]

(823) THOMAS PRENTICE, the 2d, (see page 169) born about 1632-3, probably in England, died in Newton at great age about 1722, Æ. 90 or 93. He married Rebecca, daughter of Edward Jackson, Sen., of Newton, by his first wife. She was born in England, about 1632-3. This Thomas (823) was brother (?) to James Prentice, Sen., (871) of Newton. He and James bought their farms together in 1657, in Newton. The connection, if any, between these two brothers, or the other first ones of the name in Roxbury, Cambridge, and Newton, from 1631 to 1640, is yet unknown.

Thomas Prentice (823) had eight children. 1, Thomas, (824) born about 1669. 2, John, called "cordwainer" in his father's deed of gift in 1714, and is probably the one who petitioned the General Court of Massachusetts, December 3, 1720, for an allowance for services when impressed, in Capt. Willis's company, several years before, in the public service; was wounded in the thigh and both arms, and incapable of husbandry work, indigent, &c. The Court granted him £6. He was alive, in Newton, after 1721. 3, Edward. 4, James. 5, Rebecca. 6, Hannah. 7, Enos. 8, Ebenezer, constable of Newton in 1687.

(824) THOMAS PRENTICE married Elizabeth ——. He died in 1725. Children, (844) 1, John, born March 16, 1691, settled in Preston, Ct. 2, Rebecca, born in 1693. 3, Ebenezer, born 1706, blacksmith, married Elizabeth ——. 4, Thomas, a selectman in Newton 1753-4.

(844) I. JOHN PRENTICE married September 29, 1715, Elizabeth —, in Newton. Children born in Preston. 1, Mary, born 1716. 2, Elizabeth, born 1719. 3, Samuel, (1078) born Nov. 3, 1721. John Prentis, of Preston, New London Co., Ct., "husbandman," and Ebenezer Prentis, of Newton, Mass., "blacksmith," deed land in Newton 1728. [See note page 174.] Luke Prentice, of Northbridge, Mass., has a bond of Daniel Elliot, of Sutton, Mass., to "John Prentis, of Canterbury, Windham Co., Ct., Oct. 9, 1737," and as John's wife, Elizabeth, did not sign the deed with him in 1728, he may have removed from Preston to Canterbury and again married and had other children; as Luke says he had four sons and one daughter, besides Samuel, namely: — John, Jonah, (or Jonas,) William, Rufus, and Dilly, and perhaps Ebenezer.

(1230) IV. JOHN PRENTICE, a "cooper." In two deeds, to John Prentice, in Sutton, 1740 and 1741, he is called "housewright." Born —. Married Mary McLellan. Children.

(1231) I. SHUBAEL.

(1232) II. ELKANAH.

(1233) III. THADDEUS, and several daughters who settled in Vermont.

John was in the revolutionary army under Col. Read, from Uxbridge, Mass. He was drowned in crossing a river in Uxbridge, when Luke Prentice was young.

(1234) V. JONAH (OR JONAS) PRENTICE, an "itinerant blacksmith" in Uxbridge, 1753 and 1759. Born —.

(1235) VI. WILLIAM PRENTICE, a "clothier," born —. Married — Darling, of Uxbridge. In 1755, went to "Chestnut Hill," Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass. Alive in 1785, and perhaps in 1806.

(1236) VII. RUFUS PRENTICE, born ——. In Douglass, in 1762.

(1237) VIII. DILLY PRENTICE, born ——. Married Mr. — Brown. "She lived to near 100 years of age."

Luke P. mentions a tradition from his father, James Prentice, that his ancestor, John Prentice, (?) came from near Coventry, England, (?) to Preston; that he was a carpenter, and was induced by high pay to enlist in that capacity in the expedition to Louisburg, Cape Breton, (in 1745) and there died; and that he left money to his heirs in the "Exchequer" in England, and that his son Samuel and others received gold from England. If this is correct, then there were two John Prentices; Capt. John Prentis, (19) of New London, Ct., and this John, in that expedition; and the Exchequer story probably related to his share of the large amount of prize money paid by England to those in that expedition. Luke also says his father told him that Ebenezer Prentice,* brother to John, was a bachelor, and lived in Roxbury, or Newton, and died there at great age.

(1078) III. SAMUEL PRENTICE, son of John (844) and Elizabeth, called "housewright" and "husbandman" in fifteen deeds to him, 1745 to 1765, in Sutton, Mass., where he resided; was born in Preston, Ct., Nov. 3, 1721. Married first, Phœbe Rist, of Uxbridge, Mass. She died of consumption. Married second, in Sutton, Abigail Leland, of Providence, R. I. In 1801 he gave all his estate to his son-in-law, Clark, of Sturbridge, Mass., and removed and died at his daughter's there, July, 1804, Æ. 83. He was constable and collector of taxes from 1769 to 1772 in Sutton.

* An Ebenezer Prentice was in Uxbridge in 1724 and 1730, "from Walpole." [See note, page 18.] Luke, in one place, calls him brother to Samuel.

Children, by Phœbe.

(1238) I. JAMES, born July 23, 1746, O. S.

By Abigail.
