INTRODUCTION.

In 1878, the undersigned was applied to by Henry Towne, Esq. (No. 783), a member of the Board of Trade, of Chicago, to arrange the Genealogical Memoranda of the "ANCESTRY and DESCENDANTS" of the late John Towne, Esq. (No. 776), of Georgia, Vt., for publication, in pamphlet form, for private distribution; from family records and memoranda in possession of the family. An examination of the published vols. of the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vols. xx and xxi, revealed a wealth of information, relative to the early history of the family, both in England and America, that, altho it did not give the line of my employer below his great grandfather, yet served to awaken fresh interest in the subject.

A copy of this little pamphlet, of only sixteen pages, coming to the notice of A. N. Towne, Esq. (659), general superintendent of the Central Pacific Railroad, at San Francisco, led to an application from him, through Mr. Henry Towne, for information relative to his line, from the common Ancestor. An examination of the published memoranda of the late Wm. B. Towne soon showed his line of descent, from a brother of the ancestor of Mr. Henry Towne, in the 2d American generation. As in the former case, the published memoranda was only brought down to the fourth generation; it became necessary to visit New England, to consult the Town and Probate Records of S. W., Mass., and N. E., Conn.

The courtesy of John Ward Dean, Esq., librarian of the N.-E. H. G. Soc., in allowing comparison of material already collected with the unpublished memoranda of the fifth and sixth generations of the family, greatly facilitated inquiries necessary to establish this line as well as that of the late John Towne, Esq. (No. 732), of Philadelphia. The result of these efforts is herewith submitted to the present generation of the "Descendants of WILLIAM TOWNE and JOANNA BLESSING," with the sincere wish that, with all its imperfections, it may stimulate others to continue investigations, until a collection shall be gathered worthy of the name.

EDWIN HUBBARD,

COMPILER.

Chicago, Ill., August, 1880.

Although this pamphlet is intended mainly for private distribution, yet a few copies may be retained in the hands of the Compiler, in order that any one who may find the name of a parent or grandparent, in the published list, and shall desire to have any line brought down to the present time, may have the same printed, in the form of PART FOUR, or Appendix, and have the same bound up with the first three parts. Application for this may be made to the Compiler.

THE TOWNE FAMILY.

PART ONE.

HISTORICAL MEMORANDA

OF THE NAME IN ENGLAND, FROM A. D. 1274 TO 1630.

Copied from the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, vol. xx, p. 367, and vol. xxi, p. 12-15, as published by the late, WM. B. TOWNE, Esq., of Milford, N. H.

The name of TOWNE, or Town and Towns, as it is sometimes spelt, is not one of frequent occurrence.* It may, however, be found here and there, generally in communities of Anglo-Saxon derivation, and though surnames began to be used in England about the time of the Norman Conquest, and, from century to century, for three or four centuries, continued to be adopted till they came into general use, this name does not seem to be one that met with much favor.

The earliest existence of it, known to the writer, is A. D. 1274, when William de la Towne, of Alvely, a village in Shropshire, about twenty miles South-east of Shrewsbury, the capital of the county, was, at that time, engaged in the prosecution of a suit-at-law against one of the officers of the parish, and the year following was on a jury at Astley, in the same county.

* The remark that "The name is not one of frequent occurrence" is probably true, as regards the name in England; yet, in this country, it is believed there are few families deriving their name from a single pair, that can show a larger number of descendants than "WILLIAM and JOANNA (Blessing) TOWNE, of SALEM, MASS." Counting only the descendants of the TOWNE daughters, of the first and second generations, a list of more than ten thousand might easily be made out, without coming down later than the earlier portion of the nineteenth century.—E. H.

The next we hear of the name, is one hundred and thirty or forty years later, in the reign of Henry IV., when upon the windows of the Church in Kennington, Kent Co., impaled with that of Ellis of the same place, were the arms of a family by this name, being argent, on a chevron, sable, three cross-crosslets, ermine. Thomas at Towne, who, at this time, possessed much land about Charing, and who bore the same coat of arms, married Benedicta, only daughter of John Brampton, alias Detling, of Detling Court, and thereby inherited a manor in Throwley, where he removed, and erected a seat about one-fourth of mile from the church, and named it "Towne Place," soon after which he died, leaving his possessions to three daughters, co-heiresses.

Of these, Eleanor married Richard Lewknor, of Challock; Bennet, or Benedicta married William Watton, of Addington, and Elizabeth became the wife of Wm. Sondes, of the same parish.

The estate was divided about A.D. 1446, when Throwley was allotted to Eleanor, the wife of Richard Lewknor.

From the manner of the division, it is quite evident that he died without leaving descendants to transmit his name to posterity. The next reference to the name, known to the writer, is in the county of Lincoln, where it has existed for more than four hundred years. In A.D. 1459, William Town, D.D., was collated (i.e., became clergyman of the parish), at Stow in Lindsey, in this county; and in A.D. 1470, he was appointed Almoner to King Henry VI., in accordance with the following commission, the original of which is in Latin. "Concerning the goods of such as commit suicide, and the collection of things given or forfeited to God."

The KING to all, to whom; etc. Greeting.

Although we refer to it with grief, divers persons of our realm, unmindful of the salvation of their souls, laying aside the fear of God, consenting to diabolical instigation, frequently destroy themselves, as well by hanging as by the sword, by drowning or other methods. Whose goods and chattels, by right of Our Crown, ought to accrue to our Almonry (or fund for benevolence), as the goods and chattels are known to do of those, who, without intention, by accident, may have, unfortunately, killed or caused the death of our subjects, as horses, carts, chariots, ships, boats, and such like, commonly called Deodands.* Nevertheless, at the wary suggestion of some of our subjects, goods and chattels, of this kind, are fraudulently withdrawn from our aforesaid Almonry, and, as is said, are not at all applied to it.

We, considering the premises, have, of our special grace, granted, so far as in us lies, to our beloved clerk (or clergyman), William Towne, our Almoner, in augmentation of our Fund for Alms, all the goods and chattels aforesaid, forfeited (?) by the death of persons, as above, who destroy themselves; which goods, chattels, and Deodands now belong, or ought to belong, to us, in any place within our realm of England, from the beginning of our reign to the present time, and for the period in which he has been our Almoner. Moreover, appointing him our Almoner, to make inquiry, from time to time, as often as may be necessary, respecting goods, chattels, and Deodands of such kind as aforesaid, and to seize on, take and carry off the same, by himself, or his deputy, or sufficient deputies, wherever they may be found within our kingdom, as well within the liberties as without. And to distribute them, thus levied and collected, by himself, for us, in Alms, wherever he may think it best. Commanding and prescribing to all and singular the Viscounts, Mayors, Bailiffs, Coroners, Escheators, Constables, and all other our officers and servants, as when within the liberties as without, and to each of them, by the tenor of these presents, that in the execution of the premises, they be supporters, superintenders, comforters, aids, and defenders to our aforesaid Almoner, and his said deputies, under the peril which threatens them. Any statue, resumption, authority of Parliament, or of our council, made, or to be made, in this behalf, or any other thing, cause or matter, whatever to the contrary, held, done, or perpetrated, notwithstanding.

* "DEODANDS." The laws of our English forefathers, respecting this subject, are exceedingly curious; as also, such accounts as have been preserved of the practical application of the said laws. Encyclopedia Britannica, ninth edition; vol. vii., pp. 100-1, gives us the following: (Deo Dandum.) in English law, was a personal chattell (any animal or thing), which on account of its having caused the death of a human being, was forfeited to the King, for pious uses, (omnia quæ movent ad mortem sunt deodanda.—Bracton.) The antiquity of this law is discussed by Blackstone, who quotes the Mosaic law, "If an ox gore a man that he die, etc.," see Exodus, xxi, 28-31; and the Athenian law, "That whatever was the cause of a man's death, was to be exterminated or cast out of the dominions of the republic." This law of deodands was not formally repealed until the 9 and 10 Vict., c. 62, was passed in 1846.

This law seems to have been based upon the assumption (not always true in every case), that every man's life was of value to the community in which he resided.

In its practical operation, no question was admitted as to blame or carelessness. Simply, Did it cause death? if so, a fine or deodand was assessed at the discretion of the magistrate; and the person claiming ownership of the article or animal, refused or neglected to pay, the thing subject to deodand was sold, and the proceeds applied to charitable purposes.—E. H.

In Testimony whereof, etc.

Witness, the King, at Westminster, on the tenth day of December, A.D. 1470.*

In old age he accepted an income† from the parish, and died A.D. 1496.

In 1470, John Towne, Professor of Divinity, succeeded Alexander Prowett as Precentor (Leader of the choir in a Cathedral) of Lincoln, which place he resigned in 1473 for the Prebend of Dunholme.

* Rymer's Fœdera, vol. XI., pp. 668-9.

† His income was £6. 13s. 4d. per annum, and he was buried in Kings College Chapel, with this epitaph:

"Hic Jacet Magister
WILL. TOWNE, Doctor in Theologica quondam
Socius hujus collegii qui obit II die
Mensis Martii anno Incarnationis
Dominici M. C. C. C. X. C. V. I.

John Towne, of Irby, County of Lincoln, made his will Nov. 18, 1540. To be buried in the Church of St. Andrew, at Irby. Legacies to Anne, Thomas, and George Towne; his brother William, of Irby, being principal heir and executor. This will was proved June 1, 1541. John Towne, of Ludborough, County of Lincoln, executed his will under date of Jan. 24, 1637—sons, Leonard, John, and William, and brother Richard Towne. Richard Towne, of Braceby, in the same county, md. Ann ——— and had children as follows:

- 1 Richard, who died in 1617, leaving wife Alice, son Leonard, and daughter Helen, not twenty-one years of age.
- 2 Edward, who had children in 1630.
- 3 Elizabeth, who married Phillips.
- 4 Helen, " " Oxman.
- 5 Prudence, " " Walton.
- 6 Ann, " " Armestone.
- 7 Katherine, baptised October 14, 1599.
- 8 Mary, " April 15, 1601.
- 9 William, " May 21, 1603.
- 10 Margery.

The earliest we find the name in America is 1635, when WILLIAM TOWNE was an inhabitant of Cambridge.

On the 18th of the second month (April), 1637, he appeared before the General Court, and took the requisite oath to become a freeman, or voter. He was Town-Clerk in 1639; purchased land at Cambridge in 1653, of David Stone and Thomas Danforth, and in 1655, of Edmund Goffe, was tything-man in 1680, and died April 30, 1685, aged eighty years. Amount of his estate, £118.13.6. The name of his wife was Martha, and she died in Jan. 1674. Their children were:

- 1 Peter, born in England, about the beginning of the year 1633.
- 2 Mary, born at Cambridge, Mass., in 1637.

Peter Towne married, first Joanna, second Elizabeth, who was living at Braintree, Mass., in 1724. He was Administrator of the estate of his father, and from its settlement, appears to have been an only son; was a constable at Cambridge in 1668, '76, '90, '91, and '94; selectman in 1695, and died Nov. 2, 1705, aged 72 yrs. 10 mos. His name may be found upon a tombstone at Cambridge, with the inscription partially obliterated. The following is a copy of his will, and the final settlement of his estate indicates that he left no one to transmit his name to posterity, and that, with the death of his widow, the name became extinct, so far as relates to this family at Cambridge:

In ye name of God. Amen. I Peter Towne of Cambridge in New England, being Weak in Body, but of sound mind, do make this my last Will and Testam^t: Impr. I com'nd my Soul to ye mercy of God in Jesus Christ, and my body to ye Grave decently to be buryed without profuseness according to ye discretion of those whom I shall constitute ye Overseers of this my last will and Testam^t: and as to my Temporall Estat^e my will is that it be thus disposed of: First of all, I will and bequeath to my Dear Wife the whole of my Real Estate, to be quietly enjoyed and possessed by her so Long as she shall continue my Widow. And as to what shall yet remain undisposed of by me, I will and bequeath ye improvement and use of it to my Dear Wife so long as she shall continue my Widow, to be improved by her for her comfort and support. PETER TOWN, [L.S.]

Signed Sealed and published in presense of William Brattle, Nathaniel Hancock, Sen., Owen Warland.

We now come to William Towne, the Anglo-American progenitor of descendants who have settled in a majority of the States of the American Union. Of his birthplace or parentage we know nothing positively, though he may have come from the County of Lincoln, in England, and may have been the son of Richard and Ann Towne, of Braceby.

William Towne, of Salem, Mass., 1640; supposed son of RICHARD TOWNE, of Braceby, Eng.

From N.E. Gen. Reg. Vol. XXI, p. 12-15.

The earliest positive information we have relative to him is at Yarmouth, Norfolk Co., a city of considerable maritime importance, situated on the East coast of England, one hundred and eight miles in a direct line, and 120 miles by railroad north-east of London. The origin and early history of this place, like many others in the British Kingdom, is quite obscure. The Romans, in the first century of the Christian Era, had a frontier military post* near

* The fortification is about three miles west of the city, and was erected by Publius Ostorius about the middle of the first century. This noble monument of Roman Art, the most considerable, and perhaps the most perfect to be found in Britain, is built upon the brow of the hills which skirt the eastern bank of the river Waveney, at its confluence with the Yare. Quadrilateral in its form, it makes an almost regular parallelogram, its length being 640 feet and its breadth 370 feet, the space within the walls of the camp comprising nearly six acres. The walls are about 10 feet in height, about 9 feet in thickness, and are constructed of rubble masonry, faced with flint, interlaced in regular courses of about 21 inches by three layers of tiles or bricks about 2 inches apart. The bricks are red, of a fine close texture, and as they lay in the wall, a surface is exposed 1½ by 9 inches, and so solid and enduring is the masonry that the writer found it difficult to procure on the premises a piece of the flint and brick an inch square, as a sample of the material of which the wall was built, and a memento of a visit to this interesting locality.

here, and later it was called Cerdick's sand, or Cerdick's shore, deriving its name from Cerdick; a warlike Saxon, who, A.D. 496, with his son Cenrick, and a fleet of five ships, invaded the country at this point, entered the mouth of the River Yare, fought a battle, put the Britons to flight, and founded a colony. It being a low marshy neighborhood, the location proved unhealthy, the settlement was finally abandoned, and the colony took up their residence with the West Saxons.* Henry Manship, Sen., a merchant in 1560, the reputed author of a very reliable and carefully prepared manuscript† history of the place, who tells us he was here "bredd and borne," thus speaks of its origin: "First of the Antiquity of the Towne and Burroughe of Great Yermouthe. The very seate of that Towne, that is to saye, the place and ground where uppon the Towne is buylded and now dothe stand, was percell of a greate sande lyinge within the mayne sea, at the mouthe of the fludd or ryver called Heirus, being contynuallye under water and overflown wýthe the sea, of which river the name of the same Towne was derived when it was firste named, vidz. Heirmouth, or otherwise without aspiration it was called Yermouth. And the tyme that yt was a sand in the sea was when Kynge Canutus reigned in England and long before, which was aboute the yere of our Savior Jesus Christ, his Incarnacion, One Thousand, as by auncient recordes thereof yt doeth appeare." He also says that "In the tyme of the Reigne of Kinge Edwarde the Confessour the saide sand beganne to growe into sighte at the lowe water, and to become more showlder at the mouthe of the said Floode called Heirus, and then there were channells for Shippes and Fyshermen to pass and enter into the arme of the Sea for utterance of there Fishe and Merchandizes, which were conveyed to diverse partes and places as well in the Countye of Norfolk as in the Countye of Suffolke by reason that all the whole leuell of the marshes and fennes which now are betwixt the Towne of Yermouth and the citie of Norwiche, were then all an arme of the Sea, entering within the Lande by the mouth of the Hierus. And this was about the yeare of our Savior M. and XL. and long before." He further says, "In the tymes of the Reygnes of Kinge Harrolde and Kinge William the Conquerror, the sayde sande did growe to be drye, and was not overflowen by the Sea, but waxed in heighte, and also in greatnes, in so muche as greate store of people of the counties of Norff. and Suffolke did resorte thither, and did pitche Tabernacles and Boothes for the entertaynenge of such Seafaringe men and Fishermen and Merchants as would resorte unto that place, either to sell their Herringes, fish, or other comodities, and for providinge suche things as those Seamen did neede and wante."

The which things caused greate store of Seafaringe men to resorte thither; but especiallye the fishermen of this Land; as also greate numbers of the Fishermen of Fraunce Flaunders, and of Holland, Zealande, and all the lowe Countryes. And in the tyme of the Reigne of Kynge William Rufus, Kinge of this Realme, one Herbertus, Bishopp of the see of Norwich, perceyvenge greate resorte and concourse of people to be daylie and yearlie upon the said Sande, and intendinge to provide for their sowles healthe, did founde and buylde upon the said Sande a certen Chappell for the devotion of the people resorting thither, and therein did place a Chappelayne of his owne to saye and read divine service."

In this church, founded in A.D. 1123, dedicated to St. Nicholas in 1251,* and still retaining the name, were married, March 25, 1620, WILLIAM TOWNE and JOANNA BLESSING, and here their first six children were baptised.

Where men are strangely toss’d about,

There thou shalt anchor safe, no doubt.”

THE TOWNE FAMILY.

PART TWO.

GENEALOGICAL MEMORANDA

COMPRISING THE FIRST FIVE GENERATIONS OF THE DECENDANTS OF WILLIAM AND JOANNA (BLESSING) TOWNE, OF YARMOUTH, COUNTY OF NORFOLK, ENGLAND, AND SALEM, MASS.

Compiled, largely, from manuscripts of the late WM. B. TOWNE, Esq. of Milford, N.H.

See, also, N.E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., vols. xx and xxi.

"In this church, founded in A.D. 1123, dedicated to St. Nicholas, in 1251, and still retaining the name, were married, March 25, 1620, William Towne and Joanna Blessing, and here their six first children were baptized."

The next we hear of this family is at Salem, Essex Co., Mass., where, in the book of early grants, appears the following: "11, 8 mo., 1640, granted to Wm. Towne, a little neck of land right over against his house on the other side of the river." He is also referred to in the Court Records of the same year, thus: "17th st., last of 4th mo., and 1st, 5th mo., 1640. Wm. Towne, pl. agt. Jn^o Cook def. in act of debt, Jury find for pl. some to be deputed to measure John Cook's land, and what is remaining, to make up Goodman Town's land and if it be ffyve acres to pay Towne ffyve marks, and what is wanting of ffyve acres to abate 13s. 4d. p. acre: And costs 4s.: 0."

Wm. Towne's residence was in that part of Salem known as the "Northfields," and he remained at this place till 1651, the year following the incorporation of the town of Topsfield, when he purchased a tract of land in the latter place of Wm. Paine, of Ipswich, "containing forty acres of ground or thereabouts, whereof six acres is by the seller, which Wm. Howard, of Topsfield, built, and about thirty-two acres joyning up to the sayd six acres eastward of it, part of which is plow ground, another part is meadow, another part is upland unploughed, all lying together, having the meadow and the plow ground of the said Wm. Howard towards the east and the ground of Walter Roper towards the north, and a certaine River towards the south or south-west. Also, a little piece of meddow of about two acres lying on the south side of the river, directly against the plains of the said Wm. Howard, having ye grounds of the said Wm. Howard towards ye East and the said River towards ye North and upland towards the South."

In 1652, he sold his property in Salem to Harry Bullock, in 1656, purchased additional land in Topsfield, and in 1663, "in consideration of natural affection and the contemplated marriage of their sonn, Joseph Towne, with Phebe Perkins, the dau. of Thomas Perkins," he and his wife conveyed to their said son, Joseph, two-thirds "of the home wherein they then did dwell, with Barne, out-houses, yard, gardens, orchards, lying situate and being in Topsfield, together with a parcel of broken upland by the meddow side, only a cartway reserved between the said land and the meadow towards the South, and the land of Jacob Towne towards the East, and the land of Jacob Towne and Edmund Towne towards the North, and the lands of Isaac Estie towards the West—also, another parcell of land broke up and unbroken, containing, by estimation, thirty acres, bounded by the way towards the South-East and North-East, and a way also towards the South-West; the land of Zacheus Gould and Edmund Towne towards the North-West, and the land of Edmund Towne and Isaac Estie towards the North. Also, a parcell of meddow lying on the North side of the river, having the river for the bounds towards the South, a highway towards the West, and a way towards the North, and meddow of Jacob Towne towards the East, containing, by estimation, fourteen acres." All these conveyances being made with the desire that their said son, Joseph, should have the first refusal of the remaining third when the same should be for sale. William Towne, the emigrant, died at Topsfield, Mass., about 1672, and from the final settlement of the estate of his widow, she seems to have survived him about ten years."

"Taken away from the Evil to come,"

might have been the epitaph on their tombstone; in view of the terrible fate of their daughters, some ten years later.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. The children of William¹ and Joanna (Blessing) Towne, of Yarmouth, Eng., and Salem, Mass., were:

- * 2. i. Rebecca,² bapt. Feb. 21, 1621, m^d Francis Nourse, of Salem. She was hung as a witch, at Salem, July 19, 1692; her husband survived her, dying at Salem, Nov. 22, 1795, æ 77. Their descendants have been numerous and highly respectable.
- 3. ii. John,² bapt. Feb. 16, 1624; died before his father.
- 4. iii. Susanna,² bapt. Oct. 20, 1625; died before her father.
- + 5. iv. Edmund,² bapt. June 28, 1628; m^d Mary Browning.†

* "These sisters suffered terribly during the witchcraft delusion at Salem, in 1692—Rebecca and Mary being executed, and Sarah barely escaping with her life."

† "At a county court held at Salem, in 1660, in the case of Henry Bartholomew pl. vs. Jacob Towne def.; William¹, Edmund², and Joseph² Towne were witnesses, and in their evidence, William¹ stated that he was threescore years old, Edmund² that he was thirty-one years of age, and Joseph that he was about one and twenty; and in the case of Norman vs. Orze, at Ipswich, in 1685, Jacob Towne, Sen., aged about fifty-four years, testified and saith that he lived in Salem, in the Northfields, that he was there an inhabitant near twelve years, and that he had been absent from there this four and thirty years."

Additional note, by the Compiler.

The William¹ Towne, whose testimony was given in the above case, was probably the executor named in the will of his mother, Ann Towne, of Bracey, as given on page 13, of Part One.

This strengthens the probability that our William¹ was of that family.—E. H.

- + 6. v. Jacob,² bapt. March 11, 1632; m^d Catharine Symonds.
- * 7. vi. Mary,² bapt. Aug. 24, 1634; m^d Isaac Esty; she was also hung as a witch, 2 months and 3 days after her sister, Rebecca.
- * 8. vii. Sarah,² bapt. Sept. 3, 1648; m^d 1st, Jan. 11, 1660, Edmund Bridges, and 2d, Peter Cloyes; she narrowly escaped the fate of her sisters, Rebecca and Mary; she has descendants by her first husband, now living in Cook Co., Ill.
- + 9. viii. Joseph,² bapt. Sept. 3, 1648; m^d Phebe Perkins.

Rebecca² married Francis Nourse, of Salem Village (now Danvers), and Mary married Isaac Estey, of Topsfield. They were both estimable women, and were executed for witchcraft, at Salem, in the delusion of 1692, the first July 19, and the second September 22. The former was taken to church in chains the Sabbath previous to her execution, and there publicly excommunicated by her minister. "But (says a writer of that day,) her life and conversation had been such that the remembrance thereof in a short time wiped off all the reproach occasioned by the civil and ecclesiastical sentence against her," and in 1712, the church, to which she belonged, reversed its decision by blotting out the record of her excommunication.

Lothrop's company, at Hatfield, Aug. 12, 1675, and may have been one of the very few of that company, numbering eighty-eight men, who escaped from the fatal encounter with the Indians, on the memorable eighteenth of September following at Bloody Brook.*

He was, at this time, about twenty years of age, and the historian of the period; see "Hubbard's Indian Wars," says "The company was made up of young men, the flower of Essex County, who were not afraid to speak to the enemy within the gate." tion have any adequate idea of the terrible nature of the struggle that our ancestors were engaged in, at this time, for their very existence, as well as for home, and all that the word implies. There can be no doubt, that it was the most severe and bloody war that this country was ever engaged in, taking into consideration, the destruction of life and property, in proportion to what was exposed to its ravages.

Although it lasted but about one year, yet more than 600 men, women, and children fell victims to the bullet, the tomahawk, and the scalping-knife, of the savage foe; more than 18 towns and villages were either entirely, or partially destroyed and abandoned; more than 600 families were burned out, and so great was the suffering and destitution, that subscriptions were taken up, in many places, for their relief.

Very few of those, in this country, who have, recently, so nobly and generously contributed for the relief of the suffering in Ireland, knew that they were repaying an obligation more than two hundred years old. Yet it is a matter of history, that on the 7th of Aug. 1676, a vessel sailed from Dublin, Ireland, laden with provisions, to the amount of several thousand dollars, for the relief of the destitute in the colonies of Mass., R. I., and Conn. Those interested in a more full account of these matters, should read the introduction to "Goodwin's Foote Family;" and "N. E. Gen. Reg.," Vol. II, p. 245-50.

Verily, the Word of the Lord standeth sure: "Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it again after many days," and "Give a portion to seven, and also to eight; for thou knowest not what evil shall be upon the earth." ECCLES. XI, 1, 2.

OF THE
TOWNE FAMILY IN AMERICA.

Compiled mainly from family records and private correspondence.

SIXTH GENERATION.

(487.) Joel⁵ Towne (Simon,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Jacob,² William,¹), was born in the town of Oxford, Mass., March 12, 1776. He was fourth, in a family of ten children. When he was about 4 years of age, his father removed to Charlton, the town adjoining Oxford, on the west. Of this town, incorporated in 1754, "Barber's Hist. Coll.," p. 561, says: "The lands of this township were, at first, thought of very little value, being rough and hard of cultivation, and the settlement proceeded slowly. In 1783, Rev. Archibald Campbell was installed over the church here, and continued with them for 10 years." He was a direct descendant of Robert Campbell, a Scotchman, who emigrated from Ulster County, Ireland, in 1719, and settled at Voluntown, Conn., in 1723. One or more of his descendants intermarried with the Towne family; and he was also the direct ancestor of GEORGE C.⁶ CAMPBELL (Charles,⁵ Isaac,⁴ Charles,³ Charles,² Robert¹), now one of the leading lawyers of Chicago. The family soon after removed to the adjoining town of Dudley bordering south on the Conn. line. They seem to have remained here but a short time, as they are heard from, soon after, at Woodstock, Conn., and then at Ashford, in the same State, where the father of the family died in Dec., 1837, aged nearly ninety, and the mother, Mary (Pike), died the next year, aged ninety-three.

Joel^r Towne married Elizabeth Willard.

Their children, born at Dudley, Mass., were:

651. i. Celestina,⁷ b. Oct. 8, 1801; m^d, Jan. 20, 1822, John Pope, of Thompson, Conn.; who was b. Sept. 1799, and d. in the town of Somerville, Mass., Dec. 13, 1870; she d. April 11, 1871, at the house of her dau., Mrs. P. M. Harwood, of Somerville. Their children were: i. Willard, who d. at the age of 11 or 12 years; ii. William, who d. in 1871; iii. Louisa C., who m^d P. M. Harwood, and d. Jan. 8, 1876; and iv. Mary, who d. Aug. 25, 1871.

The following sketch is taken from "The Contemporary Biography of California's Representative Men."

ALBAN NELSON TOWNE.

IT is less than sixty years ago, that Thomas Gray, a thoughtful man, stood, one day, near a coal mine in the north of England, and watched a small train of wagons, impelled by steam along a tramway, which connected the mouth of one of the collieries of that district with the wharf at which the coals were shipped. "Why," asked Gray of the engineer, "are not these tramroads laid down all over England, so as to supersede our common roads; and steam engines employed to convey goods and passengers along them, so as to supersede horse-power?" The engineer laughed, and replied: "Just propose you that to the nation, and see what you will get by it; you would be worried to death for your pains." But the idea of superseding horse-power by steam, and the common roads by railroads, took possession of the brain of Thomas Gray; and, after long perseverance, during which he was opposed by the great majority of thinking and influential men, parliament, in 1826, passed an act authorizing the construction of the first British railway, properly so called. To Robert Stephenson, however, is commonly awarded the honor of first constructing a railway for general transportation. And the obstacles thrown in that man's way by all classes would probably be discredited at this day. Stephenson, himself, was once ducked in a fish-pond, by the Duke of Bridgewater's servants, while making a survey near the grounds of the Duke. Lord Derby's farmers, also, resisted the progress of Stephenson's surveying party. Members of parliament declared that the proposed carriage would have to be stopped every time it rained; one member said that a gale of wind would sweep it from the track; another claimed that Stephenson was crazy, and that balloons and rockets were more feasible. One rabid opponent concluded a speech as follows: "Why, these lunatics claim that they can gallop at the rate of twelve miles an hour, with the aid of a devil in the form of a locomotive, sitting as postilion on the fore-horse, and an honorable member sitting behind him to stir up the fire and keep it at full speed. I will show that they cannot go six miles an hour, and that we can keep up with them with the canal." Upon the trial trip, however, over the Stockton and Darlington Railway, Mr. Stephenson drove his own engine, with a train of thirty-eight vehicles, including twenty-one wagons, with passengers, and a carriage filled with directors and their friends, at a speed of twelve miles an hour. The first use of a locomotive in this country, was in 1829; and, in all probability the most talked-of event of that year, was its arrival on the ship John Jay, at the foot of Beach Street, New York, in the month of May. This locomotive was called the Stourbridge Lion, and was built in England, for use on the railroad constructed by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, in 1828, from their coal mines to Honesdale.

On the twenty-sixth day of the month, made notable by the arrival of the first locomotive on this continent, A. N. Towne was born, at a village called Dresser Hill, in the south part of Charlton, Worcester County, Massachusetts. There was a peculiar and striking fitness in the coincidence of the birth of one who was destined to control and influence, in a very great degree, the utility of the new power, and the introduction of said locomotive itself. In the "New-England Historical and Genealogical Register," memoranda of the Towne family date back to the year A.D. 1274, when they are found to have been established at Alvely, a village in Shropshire, Eng. The lineage, as traced through succeeding generations, is an honorable one; about the year 1640, the first of the name, known in the annals of local American history who left descendants, was an inhabitant of Salem, Mass. This was Wm. Towne, the progenitor of most of the name in the States of the American union. The descendant of whom this biography treats, was the eldest of a family of nine children, consisting of five brothers and four sisters, of whom all are living at the present time, with the exception of two of the sisters. Alban received a first-class home education, under the influence and teachings of a kind and considerate father, and an amiable mother, who endeavored to impress upon his mind, among other things, the honor and dignity of labor, and to inculcate principles of practical industry. Only limited school advantages, however, were allowed him, as circumstances beyond the control of either his parents or himself precluded the possibility of his entering the more advanced institutions of learning. But he acquired the rudiments of a fair English education, and improved upon his mental storehouse by constantly taking advantage of every opportunity for observation; which habit, to a great extent, neutralized the deficiency of what was in those days termed book learning, and enabled him, not only at that time, but through an active and elevated life, to more effectually overcome all obstacles.

On the early decease of his father, leaving a large family of children of tender years, Alban, in common with his brothers who were old enough to work, deeply felt the importance of putting forth every possible effort to assist the mother and those dependent upon her care. Although but eighteen years of age, and unable to earn much at a time and in a section of country where wages paid master-workmen, even, were small, he felt all the more actuated by a desire to make his mother and the younger children as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, and fully recognized the necessity of labor, and became impressed with its dignity and of the importance of establishing a reputation of the highest character, to the end that he might enjoy the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. This and the uninterrupted affection he entertained for his mother, together with her desire to see her son succeed, animated him in all of his early movements along the sometimes turbulent and dreary current of life, and his rapid successions to honorable positions must be credited, therefore, to manly perseverance and the fulfillment of filial obligations, rather than to that prominence often attained through that germ generally denominated luck. Even before the death of his father, who, being a millwright, and who, necessarily, was away from home a great deal of his time, engaged in the erection of establishments that required the use of his mechanical skill, the subject of this sketch, for three years previous to his departure from home, had charge of, and ably managed, the farm upon which the family resided. At the age of seventeen, he entered into the service of an uncle, who was extensively engaged in the business of house, sign, and carriage painting, in the neighboring town of Webster, employing a large number of men. At the expiration of a two years' term of service with his uncle, he continued in the trade on his own account, but finding it not suited to his inclinations, and, besides, injurious to his health, he soon after abandoned it, and accepted a position in a mercantile house of the same place. In a year from this time, young Towne is found employed, in the same business, at Worcester, the county-seat, from whence, after a residence of eighteen months, he removed to the town of Danvers, having accepted an interest in a large mercantile business located at that place. Despite the bright prospects which this partnership held forth, it proved unsatisfactory, and at the end of fifteen months, he retired and went to Galesburg, Illinois, where two brothers were employed upon the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad. His intention was to continue in mercantile pursuits; but the general outlook at Galesburg, at that time, was not encouraging, and he was about to proceed to Chicago, when a position as brakeman upon a freight train was offered to him, through the intercession of one of his brothers, by Henry Hitchcock, the assistant superintendent, between whom and the recipient has since sprung up, and existed, a lasting friendship. One of Mr. Towne's notable characteristics is to decide quickly and act promptly; the offer, therefore, was at once accepted, thereby changing, in a moment, the plans and destiny of a life.

Reared a farmer, mechanically inclined, and trained a merchant, he possessed at this time a knowledge of men and business beyond his years, but, reasonably, could not then have realized what he soon afterwards must have learned in regard to the innumerable responsibilities attending, and the unceasing vigilance demanded by, railroad service. "I felt satisfied," Mr. Towne has since been heard to say, "that there was very much to learn, and that integrity, perseverance, and good temper, were elements I should possess if I would succeed." There were neither rich nor influential friends to push him forward; but energy of will, integrity of purpose, and years of patient labor have enabled this truly self-made man to attain an almost unparalleled eminence in his chosen profession. Comprehending and encountering the many obstacles that lie in the pathway of success such as he has attained, he labored incessantly to accomplish every task undertaken, and every duty imposed, however difficult or arduous it might be, or seemed to be. These efforts were evidently appreciated by his superiors, as promotion from the lower to the higher grades followed in quick succession, enabling him to rapidly acquire a general knowledge of details pertaining to the different departments, as well as of the duties and responsibilities devolving upon men occupying high official stations. Passing through the various positions of train, track, and station service, he soon became thoroughly acquainted with the duties thereof, and being possessed of a good knowledge of mechanism, he took especial interest in the rolling stock, and made himself familiar with modes of construction and repairs. Naturally it was not long before he suggested and introduced many improvements in all branches of the service. From his boyhood days, it has been a habit with Mr. Towne to constantly observe, study, and define the characters of men, and he appears to have particularly adhered to this practice during the early years of his railroad experience. And to his regret, he discovered that many of the members of his profession, were men of weak morals; he was, also, brought into companionship with others who cared little for the interests they subserved, and apparently still less for their own future; and there were some among whom he was thrown, as in all other kinds of service, who were jealous and suspicious of those who rapidly ascended the ladder of life. But by unequivocally pursuing what he deemed to be right, in all things, Mr. Towne moved onward in a useful and active career, and nobly surmounted all such obstacles. The struggle upon many occasions, was certainly against great odds, as there were, at times, men of mark themselves who failed to discover, or who pretended not to see, the reasons for Mr. Towne's rapid promotion to positions of trust and responsibility. At comparatively an early day in the history of his identification, with the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad, he was called to the general office of the company, in Chicago, and received notice that he was to serve as yard and train master. This promotion placed Mr. Towne more than ever hitherto in close business relationship with the general superintendent, Col. C. G. Hammond, one of the most superior railway managers our country has produced, and a man eminently known for his rare christian virtues; it resulted, as a matter of course, that a model, such as Mr. Towne had developed himself to be, arrested the attention of the veteran superintendent, and after bestowing upon him a fatherly kindness, and extending much information acquired by years of labor and experience, Col. Hammond soon after appointed Mr. Towne assistant superintendent, which position he held for three years, when he accepted the general superintendency of the Chicago and Great Eastern Railway, connecting Chicago with Cincinnati. At the end of the year, for which he had been engaged, he became again attached to the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad, in the high capacity of assistant general superintendent. In the meantime, he had been made the recipient of several excellent offers, among them two very tempting ones from the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. He continued as assistant general superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railway, however, until September, 1869, when he gave way to the alluring offer tendered him by the managers of what he considered the greatest railway in the world, and he accepted, and at present holds, the general superintendency of the Central Pacific Railroad. Thus, it will be seen that this gentleman has now given nearly a quarter of a century, the best portion of his life, to his profession, and has managed properties that must have demanded the greatest amount of energy, time, and talent, while his success is, moreover, in a measure, the reward of the long, honorable, and varied experience through which he has passed.

Born at the very beginning of a new epoch in the history of this country's prosperity, he has been fortunate to live through a period in which are chronicled great events, and unexampled progress. The summing up of the railways of the world built during that time will show them to number nearly two hundred thousand miles; the United States alone having upwards of eighty thousand miles, of which, perhaps, a thirty-fifth part is under Mr. Towne's supervision, embracing twelve different and distinct companies. He also has under his control steamer lines on the navigable waters of the Sacramento and Colorado rivers, aggregating over three thousand miles of transportation lines.

The duties devolving upon a general superintendent at the head of transportation lines of such proportions are of so important a nature, that a never sleeping vigilance is required to fulfill the great and unceasing responsibilities. To efficiently discharge them, and to properly protect the interests and rights of the companies, the incumbent must possess certain special attainments. He must have a thorough knowledge of men, in order to select and organize efficient assistants as heads of the various departments, who are in constant communication with him on questions of complicated detail and matters of interest transpiring at all times over the entire system under his control. He must seek every possible avenue of earning, and know exactly the cost of operating, so as to secure the greatest amount of revenue; he must be familiar with the wants of the trade of interior sections of country, and possess a knowledge of their various products, and seek as much traffic as it is possible to secure; he must encourage and develop business, regulate rates, provide means of transportation, at all times, and direct in making and changing time-tables; his judgment must be called into requisition to decide, as it becomes necessary, for additional stations, tracks, buildings, rolling, and floating stock, and the repairs of the same; he must inspect and pass upon vouchers, examine reports, and inquire into the cause of accidents involving loss of life or damage to persons or property, and fairly and intelligently, and sometimes summarily, dispose of such cases; he must give attention to the complaints of the patrons of the lines, and, indeed, listen to all persons aggrieved, and listen patiently, too, to many senseless murmurs and demands; he is compelled to carefully dispose of all those who press their claims for favors to the exclusion of others; he has, also, to meet deputations of merchants, farmers, mechanics, and others, and consider their propositions, which are often of a nature demanding privileges and concessions that are inconsistent with the policy of the company or the laws of equity.

Personal magnetism, executive ability of a rare order, a conciliatory spirit, and good address are the characteristics which eminently fit Mr. Towne for his high position. No person entirely unfamiliar with this great question of transportation—the greatest and most important of the age—can for a moment comprehend the weighty and pressing matters he has to lay before, and sometimes urge with, the board of directors or members thereof, with whom he is in daily and hourly communication and consultation; yet, how carefully and methodically one so greatly pressed with business must act, so as to be prudent and economical with his time, in the employment of each minute, is apparent to all business men. Of all the momentary trials with which the position is beset, however, there are probably none more difficult to endure and overcome than the many appeals of the unemployed seeking positions, and the continual demands for the alleviation of distress. To discriminate between capacity and incapacity, or between honest worth and imposition, surely burdens the thoughts and excites feelings of emotion, which must produce a great sympathetic strain upon a man of a sensitive nature.

Mr. Towne was married on September 25, 1850, to Miss Caroline Amelia Mansfield, daughter of Asahel Mansfield, of Webster, Massachusetts, whose family name appears conspicuously among the early settlers of New England. The only issue of this marriage, Miss Evelyn Amelia Towne, was born on September 2, 1862. Fond of general society, and subject to its demands, and having a large business acquaintance in this and foreign countries, Mr.

Towne's social circle is, of necessity, very widely extended; yet he loves his home so devotedly that the greeting and pleasure enjoyed there is far more welcome to him than that of any other place, and the greater part of his time, out of active business life, is spent with his family. He is and ever has been, a strictly temperate and prudent man in all things, is a gentleman of polished, quiet, and unassuming manners. In politics, he has ever been a staunch republican, taking an active interest in the welfare of the party, though never seeking nor desiring any political power or place. The benefactions and charities bestowed by him, without the slightest ostentation, are of daily occurrence. Mr. Towne is engaged in farming and industrial enterprises, outside of the railroad business, which in itself develops the resources and increases the wealth of a country to a greater extent than any other. It is impossible, in this brief sketch, to do full justice to the achievements and usefulness of a life gradually, but unerringly, lifted from obscurity to transplendent success and prominence. The lesson here involved is sufficient, however, to place upon the hill-tops of labor, as one of the beacons to the youths of the present day, warming and encouraging every young heart aspiring after the strength and beauty of a perfect manhood.

LEWIS WILLARD TOWNE.

(660.) Lewis Willard³ Towne was born in Charlton, Massachusetts, Sept. 4, 1833. He descended from an English family that immigrated to America in the sixteenth century and settled in New England, where the descendants have generally remained. His great grandfather, No. 189, Simon⁵ Towne, was born in Massachusetts, in 1743, and his grandfather, No. 487, Joel⁶ Towne, was a native of the same State, and born in 1776.

His father, No. 653, Nelson Parker⁷ Towne, born in Massachusetts, in 1806, was a thorough mechanic, and by occupation a millwright; he was a successful business man, and highly esteemed as a citizen. He married Miss Julia A. Dresser, Sept. 10, 1828, and his death occurred in 1844, leaving his widow with nine children, of whom Lewis Willard was the third.

Mrs. Julia A. Towne was a member of a well-known and prominent New England family, and was born on Dresser Hill, Charlton, Massachusetts, July 27, 1811, and died July 16th, 1870. Her family name appears among those who composed the officers when Charlton was first organized, and down to a recent period has been extensively known in its history, and specially marked by the skill and great energy displayed in active business operations. Her grandfather, Moses Dresser, was a major in the Revolutionary war. His residence, known as "Dresser Hill," is a site of grandeur, having an extensive landscape view rarely excelled for its picturesque beauty. By the enterprise of Major Dresser, this "Hill" became noted as a resort for military reviews and "general trainings" for many towns in the vicinity. These reviews were held under his command, and were occasions of merriment, congratulations, and hearty hand-shaking. The maternal grandmother of Lewis W. Towne was Susannah Towne, born May 3, 1790, and died Nov. 12, 1865, aged seventy-five years. She was of the same stock as his father's family; this branch sprang from Jacob Towne, born March 11, 1633, brother of Joseph, sons of William Towne.

Seven children of Nelson P. and Julia A. Towne are now

(1878) living. Alban N. Towne, the eldest, resides in San Francisco, California, and is the general superintendent of the Central Pacific Railroad, embracing under his management, including all the branches, about two thousand miles of railroad, besides seven hundred miles of river steamboat line. He has occupied this position for about eleven years.

Moses D. Towne, the second son of N. P. Towne, is in the employ of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and resides in Quincy, Illinois.

The fourth son, Horace A. Towne, is now, and for several years has been, general superintendent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, with headquarters at Brainerd, Minnesota.

The youngest son, Marcus M. Towne, is proprietor of the hotel at Harvard Junction, Illinois, on the line of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad. He, at one time, held the position of assistant superintendent of the Atchison & Nebraska Railroad, and also of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway.

Semira is the wife of W. J. Shelton, of Wells, Elko Co., Nevada. Samantha is the wife of George Marsh, of Naperville, Illinois.

Lewis W. Towne was reared on a farm and was early accustomed to manual labor. His education was obtained in the common schools of Massachusetts, and consisted of a very correct knowledge of the English branches. At the age of fifteen he went to Whitinsville, Massachusetts, where he remained three years, engaged in learning the trade of a machinist. Possessed of ready perception and mechanical genius, always ambitious to excel in whatever he undertook, he soon acquired a thorough knowledge of his profession, and became a very superior workman. Having mastered his trade at the age of eighteen he went to Fall River, Massachusetts, and began work as a journeyman machinist, remaining there about one year. At the end of that time, the South presenting some attractions for an ambitious machinist, he went to Charleston, South Carolina, and for one year was employed in the railroad shops of the South Carolina Railroad.

In 1852, he quit the shops and became a locomotive engineer, a business which he pursued until 1855. In the latter year he left South Carolina, and settling in Galesburgh, Illinois, obtained a situation as engineer on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway. At the end of three years he was made foreman of the Company's machine and repair shops, at Quincy. This place he filled three years, when in 1861, he was selected as master mechanic of the Quincy division of the road.

In 1865, at the close of the war, he became superintendent of the machinery of the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad, and for four years acted in that capacity, to the entire satisfaction of his superior officers. At that time, Mr. C. W. Mead was the general superintendent of the road. Subsequently, the superintendency passed into the hands of Mr. George H. Nettleton, and in 1869, Mr. Towne was appointed assistant general superintendent. So thoroughly did he discharge the duties of this responsible trust, that four years later, in 1873, he was made general superintendent, and for two years managed the affairs of that road with consummate tact and ability.

In the spring of 1875, he was elected general superintendent of the Atchison & Nebraska Railway. Under his direction and management, the trade and travel, over this route, has largely increased. Atchison has derived from it a large benefit, and steadily grown in population and wealth, attracted thither by the advantages the road presents. The section of country through which the road runs, embracing some of the finest agricultural lands in the West, has been opened to cultivation and brought into proximity with the great Eastern markets. The beautiful valley of the Nemaha, a region of country, wonderfully rich in productive energy, has thus been made to contribute its proportion of material wealth, and has added largely to the assessable property of the State. It will thus be seen that Mr. Towne's course has been steadily upward. By his energetic labor, he has won a position of profit and honor, and, by a life of integrity, he has endeared himself to the best men of the country.

But it is not alone as a thorough and competent railroad manager that he is to be remembered. In the multiplicity of his business engagements he has found time to make himself a thorough farmer and stock-raiser. He owns a fine body of land near Clarence, Shelby County, Missouri, which he cultivates with great success and profit. This farm (known as Highland Stock Farm) embraces several hundred acres of land, between six and seven hundred of which are inclosed, and in a high state of cultivation. He has bestowed on this place a large amount of care and expense, and is now rewarded in the rich returns. As a breeder of thorough-bred short-horn cattle, few have been so successful. A sale of his stock, which was held in Dexter Park, Chicago, May 19, 1875, ranks as the third best sale ever made in the United States. Thirty-nine head of short-horn cattle were sold at public auction for $22,400, or an average of a fraction over $574 per head. He is still owner of a very large and superior herd, which is second in value and in the purity of its strains to no other herd in Missouri.

Mr. Towne resided in Hannibal, Missouri, from 1865 to 1875, removing to Atchison, Kansas, in the latter year. He is a member of good standing of the Masonic fraternity. He was married Sept. 12, 1851, to Miss Clara Cooper, of Rome, New York, a lady of great amiability and attractiveness. Their only son, Lewis W. Towne, Jr., was born in 1853, married Miss Roxie Galtra, of Jacksonville, Illinois, in 1875, and died in 1877, aged twenty-four. At the time of his death, he was employed in the ticket department of the Atchison & Nebraska Railroad.

Mr. Towne is a man of many excellent traits of character. Energetic and prompt in the discharge of every duty, he leaves nothing to chance or good fortune. Perseverance is one of his most striking characteristics, and he makes himself thoroughly acquainted with the minutest details of the business he may have in hand. His power of analysis and combination and his fine executive ability are not the least remarkable outlines of his well-poised character. While engaged in business, his whole time and energy are directed to the skilful execution of his work. His ingenuity is equal to every emergency, and his powers of organization and construction are of immense benefit to him in his complicated railroad business. System, order, and dispatch are well developed and carefully cultivated, and his success in life is due, not so much to portentous circumstances as to the energetic, steady, unyielding perseverance with which he has prosecuted his business.

In person, he is of medium size, but with a compact, well-knit frame, and capacity for long continued labor. His life has been one of incessant toil, but he attained good success before he had reached middle life. As a citizen, he is highly esteemed by all who have business or social intercourse with him, while his business integrity, honor, and liberality are unquestioned in any community where he has lived.

June 1st, 1880, Mr. Towne was offered, and accepted, the position of general superintendent of the Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Gulf, and the Kansas City, St. Lawrence & Southern Railroads—this system embracing near seven hundred miles—with headquarters at Kansas City, Mo.

(661.) Horace A.^s Towne (Nelson P.,⁷ Joel,⁶ Simon,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Jacob,² William,¹) was born at Charlton, Mass., July 12, 1835; came to Illinois in 1854, at the age of 19, and, like his brothers, engaged in the railroad service, commencing at the "foot of the ladder," by engaging as fireman on a locomotive, for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. This "ladder," however, often proves of sufficient length to bring into prominence those whose heads do not "become dizzy."

Soon after engaging in the service of the Company, he entered their shops at Galesburg, Ill., to learn the trade of engine building. During the three and a-half years of his employment in these shops, he acquired a perfect knowledge of the mechanism of building and repairing locomotive engines.*

During the following six years, Mr. Towne was engaged as locomotive engineer on the C., B. & Q. and the Galena and Chicago Union roads. Soon after, he occupied the position of foreman in the shops at Galena and Centralia.

Subsequently, in 1865, on account of his well-known mechanical ability and executive force, he was offered, and accepted, the position of master-mechanic, on the central branch of the Union Pacific Railroad. Afterward, he held the same position on the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad; and then the positions of master-mechanic, asst.-

* Compiler's Note:—All readers of these biographical sketches who have listened to or read the lectures of Joseph Cook on "Heredity," may well ask the question, From what ancestor of the "Towne Family" comes the strong and successful predilection to mechanical pursuits, so evident in several branches of this family? If we are to credit this quality to "Heredity," it would seem that we must look for its origin as far back as the second generation, where the Philadelphia and Illinois branches diverge. (See diagram on page 115.) This quality seems remarkably developed in both lines. If true, was it Paternal or Maternal? Subsequent researches may enable us to deduce a probability.

The anti-slavery proclivities, in some of the later generations, might, on this theory, indicate a close relationship between Peter Towne, of page 10, and the ancestor of the Salem Family, William Towne; page 16.—E. H.

superintendent, and superintendent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, which high and responsible position he still retains. Mr. Towne is a gentleman of refined manners; unassuming, yet frank in all his dealings. He possesses, in large measure, that rare quality of being able to say either Yes or No in such manner as to give offence to few, and to convey the impression that the desired favor is granted, or withheld from the kindest and best of motives.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF THE LATE

JOHN TOWNE, ESQ.,

OF PHILADELPHIA.

The late John Towne (No. 732), born 1787, son of No. 330, of Methuen, Mass., was in some ways a remarkable man. He combined great perseverance and energy, with most refined tastes, rare ingenuity of both mind and hand.

He early left the quiet homestead—(a farm-and-mill-property near Methuen), where his childhood had been passed, and went forth into the world “to seek his fortune.”

His first essay was as a teacher of writing. After successfully giving instruction in various places, he at last found his way to Baltimore, where he made the acquaintance of Mr. Henry Robinson, of England, whose sister he afterward married.

Mr. Towne and Mr. Robinson were connected in business for several years when, having accumulated sufficient means to purchase land in the West, Mr. Towne and his wife set off directly after their marriage, in 1817, for this new country.

A beautiful piece of land was purchased near Pittsburgh, and Mr. Towne proceeded to build a commodious house and to arrange and beautify his grounds. These were laid out as a large fruit-farm, which ultimately proved very remunerative. Mr. Towne also engaged in what in the West is called "Steamboating." That is, he was interested in, or owned, several steamboats running on the Mississippi River. This avocation took him frequently to New Orleans and Mobile, where he was also engaged in the sugar and cotton commission business.

During his absences, Mrs. Towne, a woman of great ability, as well as great sweetness of character, in addition to the care of her young family, ably superintended the affairs of the farm.

In 1832, Mr. Henry Robinson, then residing in Boston, and sole proprietor of the gas-works there, offered Mr. Towne the superintendency of the works, with an interest in the concern. He decided to accept this offer and proceeded to make arrangements to remove his family to Boston. About this time, April, 1833, Mrs. Towne died, leaving a young infant and six other children.

In the fall of 1833, Mr. Towne having disposed of his property to advantage, this removal took place.

During his residence in Pittsburgh, Mr. Towne had gained the respect of all by his upright character, his public spirit, and pleasant manners. The best people there were his friends, and some of the friendships there formed ended only with his life.

From 1833 to '40, the family resided in Boston, all the children having the advantage of the best schools. The gas-works, in which Mr. Towne had re-invested his money, proved very lucrative, and a handsome competency had now been gained.

The eldest son—John Henry, after distinguishing himself at school (Chancy Hall. Mr. Thayer) had been sent to Philadelphia to study engineering in the machine shops of Merrick & Agnew, of that city. Here his great ability and talent for the construction and invention of machinery were developed, and after about a year's study he entered into partnership with Mr. S. V. Merrick, and the well-known firm of "Merrick & Towne" was formed.

The elder brother being now established in Philadelphia, Mr. Towne thought it advisable, in order to keep his family together, to also remove thither.

In 1840, he purchased a house in Walnut Street, above 16th (then Schuylkill 7th), and furnished it with much taste and elegance. He was now able to indulge his love for the fine arts—always a passion with him, and the best productions of our native artists, such as Lentze, Huntington, Sully, and many others, adorned his walls.

Nine years later, in 1849, Mr. Towne purchased a beautiful country seat, near Philadelphia, in Huntington Valley, and removed thither. Before doing so, he made a large addition to the house and greatly improved the grounds.

The return to country-life, after seventeen years passed in cities, was a source of keen enjoyment to one with so intense a love of nature as Mr. Towne. Flowers of all growing things were his delight. During his residence in Boston, a little conservatory, containing a rare collection of heaths, had cheered his leisure hours, consoling him for the confinement of a rather arduous post. Now, on a larger scale, he was able to indulge his love of the beautiful. He re-arranged the Huntington place, with the same good judgment and good taste he had shown in laying out his grounds at Pittsburgh, and under his hands it grew to be a lovely spot, indeed. He had many projects for its further beautification, but unhappily his health began to fail in 1850, and declined rapidly. His sufferings from his very painful disease were at times intense; but he bore them with manly fortitude and in a patient and christian spirit.

He died, July 24th, 1851, and his remains now rest in South Laurel Hill Cemetery.

JOHN HENRY TOWNE.

John Henry Town, born 1818, eldest son of John Towne, has already been mentioned in the previous memoir.

He laid the foundation of his ample fortune in the establishment of "Merrick & Towne." After that co-partnership was dissolved, in 1848, he engaged in several engineering enterprises, the erection of gas-works at New Bedford and Savannah being among the number. Shortly before the breaking out of the civil war, he entered the firm of J. P. Morris & Co., Philadelphia, which then became J. P. Morris, Towne & Co.

During the war, many of the largest engines for war-vessels and monitors, as well as much other machinery, were made in this establishment.

Mr. J. H. Towne's feelings were warmly enlisted on the patriotic side in the great struggle, and he did all in his power to aid the Government, to which he made tender of his gratuitous services in any capacity for which he was fitted.

Mr. Towne was a man of thought and science, and of marked talent in his profession. His inventive turn of mind led him to improve whatever he touched. He inherited his father's refined tastes, both for nature and art, and in music he had a special delight.

He was long a member of the Franklin Institute Philosophic Society, and other scientific associations, but his latest and deepest interest was in the re-construction and advancement of the University of Pennsylvania. For this he worked hard, doing efficient service.

In the spring of 1874, Mr. Towne experienced a slight shock of paralysis, and by advice of his physician went abroad, being accompanied by his wife and daughter. They traveled through Switzerland, etc., during the autumn, returning to Paris to spend the winter. In the spring of 1875, April 7th, he died suddenly in the night, from the effect of another shock complicated by some heart-trouble.

After amply providing for his family and leaving handsome bequests to his sisters and brother, the residue of his large fortune was bestowed on the University of Pennsylvania. The "Towne Scientific School" was so named in his honor.

(242.) Jonathan⁵ Towne had a son Jonathan,^(602.)⁶ born Aug. 6, 1784, who married Clarissa Hoyt, daughter of Capt. John, of Concord, N. H.

They were the parents of William B.^(913.)⁷ Towne, Esq., of Milford, N. H., from whose collections, as published in the "N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg.," a large portion of the preceding statements have been drawn.

The following notice of Jonathan⁶ Towne, Esq., is taken from the "N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg.," Volume xxix, page 326.

"JONATHAN TOWNE, Esq., a resident member, the father of William B. Towne, A.M., vice-president of this society for New Hampshire, was born at Amherst, N. H., in that part of the town now included in Milford, Aug. 6, 1784, and died of paralysis in the house in which he was born, Feb. 10, 1874, consequently at the very advanced age of 89 years. At the time of his death, he was the oldest citizen of Milford. The family is quite distinguished for longevity. Mr. Towne's father, Jonathan Towne (No. 241 in Towne Genealogy, ante, xxi, 222), died in 1842, at the age of 89 years—the very age of the subject of the present memoir. He, too, died in the house in which his son died. He had a brother who lived to be more than 90 years of age. (94.) Jonathan¹ Towne had three children, namely: Jonathan,² who died as stated, Feb. 10, 1874. David,² a resident of Claremont, N. H., who died in his 88th year, and Mary,² who resides in the old homestead, in her 86th year. Jonathan² Towne and Mary (Blanchard) Towne, his wife, had ten children, of whom eight are still living,—two of whom are William B. Towne, Esq., long connected with this society, and President of the Souhegan National Bank, of Milford, N. H., and John P. Towne, Esq., a prominent lawyer in Wisconsin. Mr. Towne, in early life, resided with his uncle, Mr. William Blanchard, a trader in Wilmington, Mass.; but afterward he bought a farm, in Bow, N. H., and worked on his farm in the summer and taught school in the winter, and hence he was often called 'Master Towne.' In 1830, he removed to Milford, N. H., and remained there during the residue of his life. He was an active member of the Baptist church, in Milford, for forty-four years. He was an honorable man, a wise counsellor, and a highly respected citizen. He was a great reader, and voted at every election. He was first a federalist, then a whig, then a republican. He was also a temperance man. A few days before his death, his physician prescribed some stimulant. He took the prescription once, but the second time he said, 'I had rather not take it. I have been a temperance man for ninety years.'

"Mr. Towne married Miss Clarissa Hoyt, daughter of Capt. John Hoyt, of Concord, N. H. She was born Feb. 12, 1790, and was 84 years of age on the day of her husband's funeral. She is a woman of remarkable vigor of constitution, of sound judgment, and still manages her household affairs with the energy of her earlier days.

"At the funeral of Mr. Towne, two beautiful sheaves of grain, crossing each other, were laid upon the casket, surrounded by the words, 'We mourn not the gathered grain.'

"He was admitted to this society Dec. 4, 1871."

Extracts from N. E. Gen. Reg., Vol. xxxii, p. 9-20; Jan. 1878.

"WILLIAM BLANCHARD TOWNE, an efficient officer in the New England Historic, Genealogical Society, and the founder of the 'Towne Memorial Fund,' was born in Bow, N. H., Monday, Oct. 12, 1810. He was the eldest of ten children of Jonathan Towne, of whom a biographical sketch has been printed in the Register (Vol. xxix, 326);" see also, No. 602, on p. 104. "TOWNE FAMILY MEMORIAL; PART THREE."

"His mother, Clarissa Hoyt, daughter of Capt. John Hoyt, whose ancestry will be found in David W. Hoyt's genealogy of that family (see p. 83, of that work), is still (1878) living, in the eighty-eighth year of her age. She is a woman of remarkable vigor of body and mind. One who remembers her in her prime writes: 'She had not a peer within my knowledge.'"

William began to attend school at the age of five years, and attended it till he was twelve. He then remained at home, assisting on the farm during the summer, and going to school during the winter months, till he was fifteen. When he was about twelve years old, he began to have a strong desire to strike out for himself, and depend upon his own efforts to maintain himself.

When told by his father that a boy of his age could not get a living among strangers, he replied, "If you will let me try, I will never call on home for assistance to the value of a farthing." The spirit of self-reliance and desire to try his fortune in the world increased as he grew older, and he persuaded his mother to use her influence with his father to obtain permission to make a trial.

At length his wish was gratified. When he was sixteen years old, Dr. Josiah Crosby, of Concord, the family physician, was one day in Bow, at the house of Mr. Jonathan Towne, and expressed a wish to find a boy to take care of his horses and do errands for Mrs. McClary, with whom he boarded. Mr. Towne said he thought his son William would suit, and arrangements were made for the doctor to take him home on his next visit. As Dr. Crosby did not visit the family the next day, the boy became impatient, and packing his bundle started on foot for Concord, four miles distant.

The day of his leaving home he has himself recorded as the 20th of April, 1827. At the end of many months, his wardrobe was in need of being replenished, but he persistently refused to receive assistance from home.

Dr. Willard writes: "I remember that he told me that his father, at one time, brought him a pair of shoes, which he refused to accept. When his father said, "You will need them, and they were purposely made for you," he replied, "Well, I don't want them." His father then said, "If you will not take them I will give them to this boy;" and he did give them to a boy standing by.

When Mr. Towne told me this story he gave as a reason why he refused them, that he wished to give his hope of getting his own living a fair trial. In April, 1829, he entered the dry goods and grocery store of Wm. West, as a clerk, and continued in that employment, for different parties in Concord, till the 24th of July, 1834, when he left Concord for Boston, and engaged in the same employment. Meanwhile, as appears from his dairy, in 1831, he began to have decided religious impressions, and on Sunday, Jan. 1, 1832, he joined the First Congregational Church, in Concord, and engaged in Sabbath School work, in a part of the town called the Colony.

He early took a decided stand in the temperance and antislavery causes, which were then beginning to agitate the community. On one occasion, he refused to accept a desirable situation till he was assured that his employers did not intend to keep ardent spirits for sale. In religion he was a trinitarian congregationalist, and was dismissed from Rev. Dr. Bouton's church, in Concord, July 2, 1835, to the First Free Congregational Church, in Boston, then recently organized, of which Rev. Charles Fitch was the first pastor.

This church was of antislavery tendencies; and his feelings on this subject are manifest throughout his dairy. His friend, William Lloyd Garrison, thus writes, concerning Mr. Towne's position: "He was an early subscriber to the Liberator, and remained such till the close of its existence. I hold his memory in fragrant remembrance." He held many offices of trust and responsibility, both in his native State of N. H. and in Mass. Was Assessor of Brookline, Mass., for five years, from 1863; represented Milford, N. H., in the Legislature, in 1873 and 1874; was chosen a director of the Souhegan National Bank, of Milford, Jan. 9, 1872, and the same day was elected president, which office he held till his death, faithfully performing its duties. He became a member of the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Society, Sept. 15, 1852. He was a director of the Society from 1861, and treasurer from 1861 to 1871; and was chairman of the finance committee after that date. In January, 1875, he was elected vice-president for the State of New Hampshire. He states in the introduction to his genealogy of the Towne family, which he left in manuscript, that his researches into family history commenced in 1827, when he was a lad at school; and in 1834, he prefixes to his dairy a record of his ancestors, running back to his grandfather's grandfather, Joseph³ (No. 30), living in Topsfield in 1684. In 1844, he had prepared an extensive genealogy of the name of Towne, to which he continued to add till his death. About 1852, he had printed, for private distribution, a large genealogical chart, giving a record of the families of all his ancestors bearing the surname of Towne, and ending with that of his own family. On the 28th of March, 1866, he sailed for Europe, and after making a tour of about four months in the land of his ancestors, and on the continent, he returned to Boston in July, of that year." It was, doubtless, during this visit to England that Mr. Towne, obtained the Historical Memoranda, with which he so greatly enriched the early history of the family. "In this same year, he commenced printing in the REGISTER, (xx. 367-71; xxi. 12-22, 217-222), a full genealogy of the Townes; but the publication was suspended before the completion of the fourth generation. The remainder of the work is preserved in manuscript, and is now deposited with the New Eng. Hist. Gen. Society.

On the 15th of June, 1842, Mr. Towne married Miss Nancy French Hill, daughter of Jeremiah Hill, a commission merchant in Boston. She was born Nov. 26, 1817, and was the seventh generation in descent from Ralph Hill, an early inhabitant of Billerica, Mass. About the year 1846, he removed to Brookline, Mass. Here his wife died May 3, 1858, at the age of forty. On the 23d of April, 1867, he was married at Washington, D. C., by the Rev. Charles B. Boynton, D.D., chaplain of the U. S. House of Representatives; to Miss Jenny S. Putnam, daughter of Daniel Putnam, of Milford; and sister of the wife of Hon. Bainbridge Wadleigh. He then removed to the village of Milford, N. H.; where he continued to reside till his death, which took place at the residence of his son, at Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass., April 10, 1876, at the age of sixty-five. He left a widow, and also three sons, all members of the legal profession, namely: Wm. Henry, of Boston, and Charles Edward and Arthur French (a life member of the N. E. H. G. Soc.), of Chicago." Mr. Towne established an enduring monument to his own memory, and that, of the family, by the commencement of the "Towne Memorial Fund," by his own donations, which fund, now in the hands of the Society, amounts to over four thousand dollars." (It is to be hoped that some of the more wealthy members of the family, when they shall have ascertained their relationship, may feel moved to add to this fund, and thus provide the means to continue a record of the descendants of WILLIAM¹ TOWNE and JOANNA BLESSING, in full, to coming generations.)—E. H. Chicago, Aug., 1880.

Rev. Mr. Towne received a classical education, and obtained, at college, the degree of Master of Arts; and later in life, that of Doctor of Laws. For some years, he was principal of an Academy, and his writings, mostly on educational subjects, give evidence that he was endowed with more than ordinary abilities. Mackey's "Lexicon of Freemasonry" says of him, "He was ardently attached to Freemasonry, and was, for many years, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter and Grand Prelate of the Grand Commandery of New York. In 1818, he published a small work of 283 pages, entitled, A system of Speculative Masonry. This work is, of course, tinged with the legendary ideas of the origin of the Institution, prevalent at that period, and would not now be accepted as authoritative; but it contains, outside of its historical errors, many valuable and suggestive thoughts. Brother Towne was highly respected for his many virtues, the consistency of his life, and his unwearied devotion to the masonic order."

He was the author of "Towne's Speller" and "Towne's Analysis," two of the first works of the kind ever printed in the English language; and, in the opinion of many excellent teachers, two of the best.

He died at Greencastle, Indiana, Feb. 24, 1864, at the age of 85.

SIXTH GENERATION.

(824). Abner⁶ Towne (^(161.) Israel,⁵ ^(63.) Israel,⁴ ^(20.) John,³ ⁽⁴⁾ Jacob,² *William*¹), born at Belchertown, Mass., July 18, 1767, and married Kezia Fairfield. They resided at Belchertown, where he died, April 28, 1828, aged 61. No list of their children has been obtained; but there seems to be no reasonable doubt that the following, from the "VINTON MEMORIAL," p. 199, is in relation to one of them:

947. Abner,⁷ b. April 16, 1797; m^d Sarah Eliza Vinton.

SEVENTH GENERATION.

"SARAH ELIZA VINTON, dau. of Abiather and Sarah Vinton, of South Hadley, b. April 2, 1801; m^d May 10, 1825, Rev. ABNER TOWNE, b. in Belchertown, Mass., April 16, 1797; who d. at Litchfield, County of Herkimer, N. Y., June 19, 1826, æ. 29."

"Mr. Towne grad. at Union Coll., Schenectady; studied divinity at Andover; was ordained pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Litchfield, aforesaid, in July, 1825, and d. there as above, in the midst of his usefulness, greatly lamented, in eleven months after his ordination." *

After the death of her husband, Wid. Sarah E. (Vinton)

"An illustration of the character of Rev. Mr. Towne, we quote the subjoined extract from the WESTERN RECORDER, under date of June 27, 1826. This was a religious newspaper, of much reputation, at the time, edited by Thomas Hastings, the celebrated composer and teacher of Church Music, and published at Utica, N. Y., under the patronage, and for the benefit of, the Western Education Society and Auburn Theological Seminary."

"Died, on Monday evening, the 19th inst., in Litchfield, County of Herkimer, Rev. Abner Towne, æ. 29.—His sickness was short and distressing, partaking deeply of a bilious affection. He had preached twice on Sabbath, the 11th instant, and attended a third meeting in the evening; on each of which occasions it was noticed that he appeared unusually engaged, and seemed to be standing very near to the bar of final account. His remains were consigned to the grave on Wednesday, the 21st instant, amidst a numerous and deeply affected concourse of people. An appropriate sermon was delivered on the occasion, by Rev. Mr. Waters, of Paris, from Phil. i. 23. 'For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better.'"

"Mr. Towne has been the pastor of the church in Litchfield, only eleven months.* How sudden his departure from the altar to the bar of God! But it was the departure of one who was 'ready' and willing 'to be offered.' He lived for Christ, and died in the triumphant hope of a glorious immortality. He rests from his labors, and in truth may it be said that 'his works do follow him;' since the spirit of God is copiously descending there to quicken His people and convert sinners to the knowledge of the truth."

Towne, m^d as second wife, Dr. Robert Safford, a native of Poultney, Vt., and afterward a resident at Gallipolis, Gallia County, O.; and, later, at Putnam, Muskingum Co., in the same State.

948. i. Henry Abner,⁸ b. at Litchfield, N.Y., Jan. 5, 1826.

A practising lawyer, at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Another obituary notice of Mr. Towne says: "A beloved pastor has been removed from his flock, at a time when his labors were peculiarly needed and particularly blessed. Thus it is that God 'destroyeth the hope of man'."

* He preached in Litchfield, two years in all; and died in eleven months after his ordination.
