Radio host Sam Evans-Brown to speak at Scriven Arts Colony

rockymem@metrocast.net Jun 26, 2017

GILMANTON — New Hampshire Public Radio host Sam Evans-Brown will visit the Scriven Arts Colony barn on Friday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m., to talk about his weekly show, Outside/In, which explores the wonder of snow fleas, magic soybeans, puddles, moose, birds, and sicko ultramarathoning.

He'll also discuss how NHPR and other public radio stations have helped reinvent "radio" in recent years, creating a bevy of new shows, even as skeptics have suggested that the Internet and on-demand listening would render radio a relic of the twentieth century.
